WARNING TO BAD BOYS.

They Will be Severely Dealt With if Brought Before the Police Court.

The boys who were reported by the police for throwing stones at Mary Ann Tait's house on Erin street and tearing boards off her house, appeared before his honor this morning in answer for their conduct. Mrs. Tait was fully convinced that the boys before her were the ones who had done the damage, but the boys themselves, with many tears, protested their innocence. On last Sunday, according to Mrs. Tait, the three Northrup boys and young O'Brien, who, she says, is the worst of the lot, came near her house and commenced throwing stones. She has made a habit, she says, of punishing these boys for years, but if the punishment was begun many years ago, the boys must have been of a very tender age. Mrs. Tait produced a stone which, she said, was the last thrown against her door by the boys. Its size indicated what excessive practice will do for a small boy.

Mrs. Tait, in the effort to impress the truth of her statement upon the court became quite warm, and was advised not to be excited. She had great difficulty in confining herself to the matter in question, and besides frequently wandering to other subjects fell into the habit of calling the boys young gentlemen. She finally declared that the boys were in the business. At her appearance they all ran, but they afterwards came back and in spite of her entreaties and advice to go away and be good boys they continued to throw stones and tear down the fence.

Mrs. Tait left the court after giving a promise to report on Monday morning if any more boys annoyed her on Sunday.

Judge Ritchie sentenced the boys to $5 fine or two months' imprisonment, but after giving them some moments in which to repent and show their repentance by much weeping he gave them some good advice, and when they had been instructed to return, Erin street for the express purpose of preventing such conduct.

His honor spoke of the disgraceful conduct of the boys on Erin and other streets in that part of the city, how they had been reported time and again for throwing stones, tearing down fences and attacking bicyclists. He said that in future all cases of this kind reported from that or any other section of the town would be very severely dealt with, and that an officer would be instructed to patrol Erin street for the express purpose of preventing such conduct.

QUEEN VICTORIA'S LETTER.

A fac-simile of the following letter in the handwriting of Princess Louise, is possessed by the management of the concert in which the great singer referred to will be the star attraction:

BALMORAL CASTLE
The Queen has desired Princess Louise to write and tell Miss MacLachlan how much pleased she has been to have heard her sing. Her Majesty admires both her voice and method of singing, and was delighted with the Scotch and Gaelic songs. Miss MacLachlan will receive a bracelet sent from Balmoral, which is a present from the Queen, which Her Majesty hopes she will keep in remembrance of her visit there. Many thanks to your husband for having sent me his charming song.

Oct. 16th, 1892.
Tom Daniel will appear in conjunction with this great singer in the Opera House April 15th and 16th.

HE WANTED TO GO.

A certain young man of the north end, who wished to go to Africa as a member of Baden-Powell's police, found to his great disgust that he was about half an inch too short. Not to be outdone by such a small matter as this, he hit upon a plan, and going to one of the leading Main street boot and shoe stores, bought two pairs of thick felt shoes, and placed one on the inside of his stockings in such a way that they would not be noticed if he stood up to be measured with his stockings on, and would keep their position were the stockings removed. Such genius did not, however, have a chance to display itself with success, for the young man was not one of the fifteen chosen by Lieut. MacLean.

NEXT THURSDAY EVENING.

A delightful entertainment is promised in the school room of St. David's church on Thursday evening next, when the Sabbath school children under the direction of Miss Mary Bailie, elocutionist, will give a programme of choruses, recitations, solos, duets, drills and tableaux. A novel feature will be the recitation drill in grand-mother costume by ten little girls. Miss Bailie has been giving a great deal of attention to the preparation and a capital entertainment is assured.

AN EXORBITANT CHARGE.

A man who gave his name as MacKiel piled a busy trade this morning selling loaves of bread to the immigrants at Sand Point, at the rate of ten cents a loaf. It is something of an outrage that strange people should be asked to pay such an exorbitant charge for a necessity, advantage being taken of their ignorance. There, however, seems to be no way by which this can be prevented.

MEMORIAL NUMBERS.

Today's Freeman is a splendid memorial number, reviewing the life of the late Bishop Sweeney, and an account of the funeral, with excellent portraits of the bishop as he appeared in 1870-1888, and again in 1895.

The Monitor also presents a fine portrait of the late bishop, and one of Bishop Casey, with biographical sketches and comments of numerous papers on the career of Bishop Sweeney.

Some complaints were heard in In-dian town this morning on account of the delay of the firemen in reaching the Hampstead. It is certainly true that the hose and other wagons were slower than usual, but this may be partly accounted for by the fact that the alarm was rung in when nearly all of the men would be at breakfast, and, being scattered, unable to turn out as quickly as they could do later in the day.

SPARE THE HORSES.

To the Editor of the Star:
Sir,—My attention was called this morning to a coach horse, with an unsightly sore on his shoulder. As I am not a horseman and do not know an officer of the S. P. C. A., and do not know the coachman, nor his number, I wish you would call the attention of the owner of the afflicted horse to that said (I think they call it), and if feasible, of mercy to the animal do not scold him, perhaps the probable loss of customers might, as I am sure no lady—and few gentlemen—would ride behind a horse suffering from a sore if they knew it.

Yours,

LADY.
P. S.—The horse is grey in color.
St. John, March 30th.

Macdonald; vocal solo, Chas. Stevens; cake walk, Messrs. Stevens and McGorman; vocal solo, W. H. Macdonald; monologue, Wm. McGorman; closing sketch, The Doctor's Shop, Chas. Stevens and others.

THE HELGA'S CAPTAINS.

In connection with the death of Captain Thomas Bell, of the ship Helga, it may be interesting to state that the former captain, Robert McIntosh, of New Glasgow, N. S., had died just a few weeks previous. Capt. McIntosh was in command of the Helga from the time she was built, and feeling the need of rest after a life spent on the sea, he left the ship on her last trip and retired to his home, hoping to spend the last part of his life in quiet enjoyment of his hard earned competence. When he was bidding farewell to his men the sailors reminded him of the old superstition that anyone who has been captain for over thirty years dies within twelve months of the time of his retirement from the sea. Unfortunately in this case the superstition proved correct, for shortly after arriving home Captain McIntosh contracted pneumonia, and after some weeks' illness passed away. The ship Helga is owned by Carmichael of New Glasgow.

The girl's father is again in St. John. He will not be able to take her home, as she is gradually sinking. Her child was legally adopted by Rev. Father Gaynor, and is now under the care of Mrs. Coholan, of Brittain street. The little fellow was baptized by Father Gaynor in St. John the Baptist church on Sunday last, under the name of Robert Ritchie Goodine. The sponsors were Hon. R. J. Ritchie and Miss Katherine L. Lowe.
