Railway Office. were discovered, arrested, tried and series tenced to be hung. While on their way to the place of execution, being in the night, they made good their escape, and thus thwarted for the time being the doom that awaited them. The formation of the Vigifance Committee being now generally known by these desperadoes, they publicly organized in the town of Abbeville to resist any attempt made to sub.ine them. The chief of this rabble was noted for his boldness, and distin-guished by a rooster feather and a white rosette worn in his hat. The ringleaders made night hideous with their yells, and the firing of pistols and guns. Some of their confederates harb ured them, and in-duced them to remain in town, alleging that they would be secure from arrest by the Vigilants. Their acts putthe citizens on the alert, as they had learned to ex-excitement continued to increase until at last it etuminated in some four hundred citizens surrounding the town and arrest-ing every one that could be found. Without waiting to give them another opportunity to escape, the thieves, ten in number, were taken from jall and hanged to some majestic oaks in the centre of the little village, and it is thought that the fate of these desperadoes will serve as a warning to others.
