

work of legislation, wherein they could pursue their studies without disturbance or molestation, and at the same time in close proximity to the Parliamentary Chambers. The privacy of these apartments would also ensure to Members the coveted boon of places for rest and literary recreation, during protracted debates; a benefit which it is often impossible to obtain in the present Library, owing to the number of strangers who frequent it during the sittings of Parliament.

So far as the Supreme Court is concerned, your Librarian has been assured, that to the judges, lawyers and suitors, the prospect of possessing more ample accommodation than they now enjoy, would be regarded with extreme satisfaction.

This proposal was favourably entertained by the late Administration, and hopes were held out by them to your Librarian, that, in the Session now commencing, it should be formally submitted for the approval of Parliament.

Your Librarian would therefore earnestly solicit the attention of Your Honorable House to this scheme, in the belief that it presents an easy and most suitable solution of the difficult question of Library accommodation, without necessitating any interference with the present building, or its interior arrangements. Any alteration of this structure, either within or without, would mar the symmetry of an edifice, which for beauty of design, compactness and convenience, is perhaps unequalled in the Continent of America.

The usual lists of donations to the Library, and of works deposited under the Copyright Act, which have been received since the last Report, are hereunto appended.

Last year the Library was estimated as containing 88,871 volumes. Since then, about 3,842 volumes have been added, making a total of 92,713.

All which is respectfully submitted.

ALPHEUS TODD,

Librarian of Parliament.
