

The recreation grounds are extensive : tennis, basket-ball, croquet, swings, all have their place, and out-door exercise is encouraged as much as possible.

There is a picturesque artificial lake in the grounds, shown in the picture.

There is also a fine orchard, a vegetable garden, and a poultry yard, thus combining the advantages of country with city life.

The work done during the year has been very satisfactory, and a decided improvement in the pupils is noticeable.

Universal satisfaction has been expressed by their parents.

It is our wish to create in them a love for their work, and to arouse an interest in learning which will not pass away with their school days.

A series of recitals have been given by the pupils of the musical staff, and they have been enjoyable as well as most helpful in overcoming the nervousness and self-consciousness of the pupils.

An excellent course of University Extension Lectures was held at the School during the winter, and more recently a most interesting and instructive course upon Practical Home Nursing.

Dr. Fisher personally conducted the first Conservatory Examinations held here, and expressed himself as being much pleased with the work done.

There were twenty-three Piano, four Violin, and thirteen Theory Examinations, showing the thorough appreciation of St. Agnes' School as a centre.
