WHY THE AVERAGE WILL SHOULD NOT STAND. Chancellor Boyd thinks there is much litigation over contested wills in this Province. In a recent case he decided that parties unnecessarily contesting a will should not receive their costs of the estate.—Exchange. Doesn't this lead towards the conclusion that some easy method is desirable of setting aside freak willsand we venture to say half the wills recorded are freakish in some respect. Isn't a will that leaves an opening for a dispute prima facie evidence that the maker wasn't mentally competent? A man may not have been insane, further than to have his normal judgment warped by whims, fancies, dislikes or nightmares. It is just a question how far the dead should be bllowed to interfere in the affairs of the living. How can a man in his grave know what is best for the quick years hence? Yet the law permits him to issue cast iron instructions that may have effect for centuries to

Very unsavory! But we cannot se anything puzzling about it, unless i is the failure of the Attorney-General's department to order some prosecutions for perjury.

There is another fight at Ottawa b cause the Conservatives want to probe further into the Brockville and West Huron scandals, Laurier last session promised the fullest opportunity for such an investigation, but ha is now trying to hedge. The developments in connection with Jimmy Farr cooled his generosity. Now the government does not want any more investigation until at least the elections are over. It is not difficult to guess what is being concealed,

The Roman Catholic Bishops of Quebec, who form the Council of Public Instruction, have determined to make the teaching of the English language compulsory in the schools under their jurisdiction. This shows that the people of Quebec are alive to the practical requirements of the day. No matter what the mother tongue, all inhabitants of the North American continent find themselves at a disadvantage in this age of keen competition if they are not familiar with the commercial language of the country. The Council of Public Instruction realize this and wisely propose to put their charges in position to face on even terms with their English speaking countrymen, the every-day affairs of life.

"Love and a Cough. Cannot be Hid."

It is this fact that makes the lover and his sweetheart happy, and sends the sufferer from a cough to his doctor. But there are hidden ills lurking in impure blood. "The liver is wrong," it is thought, "or the kidneys." Did it ever occur to you that the trouble is in your blood? Purify this river of life with Hood's Sarsaparilla. Then illness will be banished, and strong, vigorous health will result. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best known, best endorsed and most natural of all blood purifiers.

Eczema-"I was run down with complaints peculiar to my sex. Large sores broke out on my body, head and limbs. I broke out on my body, head of the could not do any work on account of the teching. ABOUT KID GLOVES,

Economy in small things is often verlooked, and if only more considration were given to this subject quite considerable sum of money might be saved annually. The careless manner in which a very large number of ladies treat their gloves is an instance in point, and perhaps the following hints may serve to show how the reasonable care of kid gloves would result in a reduction of expenditure:-

In the first place, it may be pointed out that rough handling is especially disastrous to kid gloves, and it very often happens that a new pair are split and ruined by jerking them on in a careless fashion. Always put on a new pair of kid gloves for the first time long enough before they are worn to allow of due deliberation in the task. When a pair of fine gloves are bought the purchaser should insist that they be fitted on in the shop; then if there are any flaws they will be detected before the gloves are paid for and taken away. Cheap gloves are generally risky investments, but some of the best shops keep a fairly good line of gloves at low prices, which are worth buying for common wear. If strong and well made they will serve for shopping and morning walks, or for bad weather.

In putting on a glove be careful to get each finger straight Coax each one on by rubbbing gently with the thumb and first finger until the fingers are down to the very ends.

In taking the gloves off turn the wrist over the fingers and take hold of the ends of the fingers through the wrist. It wears a glove out badly to pull it off by catching hold of the finger tips. Pull the glove into shape and lay it aside carefully. Silk should be kept to match each shade and gloves should be mended as soon as a break appears, for the old proverb, "A stitch propriate to these articles of attire. Glove mending is delicate work, which requires both skill and dexterity, and when well done pays admirably for the pains taken. Glove powder should form one of the adjuncts to every toilet table, and a pretty glove stretcher another. French women set a good example, and have made quite an art of putting on gloves, and this is why a Parisiepne's gloves last her four times as long as anybody else's.

Buttoning gloves should never be done in a hurry. The wrist should be carefully and gently pulled straight, and the buttons insinuated gently into the holes. Use a glove buttoner always; it ruins both the button hole and the finger tips to button them without. After purchasing a new pair of gloves always sew the buttons on before wearing them. The annoyance of having the buttons drop off will then be avoided .- Woman's Life.

Austria's Women Barbers. Australians take no chances with their barbers. They must be good, and the Barbers and Wigmakers' union of Vienna sees to it that they are. Provision is also made in their code for women barbers who desire to carry on the business of their husbands in case of the latter's death or illness. In order to do this, the wife must have been enrolled in the union as an apprentice for three years Apprentices must appear in Vienna in the presence of judges of the union and how their skill before they are allowed to open shops of their own. A properly certified barber must have a knowledge of and pass an examination in shaving, hair cutting, hair curling and wigmaking. Poor relations and others who are frugal serve as subjects for experiment.

Not only must the barber be well versed in the practical side of the subject, but questions are asked relating to the keeping clean of razors, brushes, etc., and the elementary rules of antiseptics are thoroughly gone into.

At the practical examination the young barbers have their razors dulled by four strokes on a pine plank, and they must then sharpen them. A subject is assigned to each barber, who must be tonsorially perfect, in the opinion of the judges, before the apprentice releases him. After this a certificate is issued, and the apprentice serves two years as a journeyman before he may open a shop as an employer. In the case of widows who desire to carry on the business of their husbands, only the three years' apprenticeship is required. In spite of the number of years that an Austrian barber has to devote to his business before he is perfect, one can get a high class hair cut for a sum equal to five cents, or a first class shave for something like three cents u any part of the country.

Greece Bars Theatre Hats. The first official act of M. Triantophyllacos, the Grecian Minister of the Interior, was to issue an order forbidding the wearing of hats at any theatrical representation. This met with unanimous approval from the men and a storm of protests from the women,

One of Athens' leaders of fashion appeared at the theatre a short time ago with her luxuriant tresses crowned with a very minute bonnet. The officer on duty politely called her attention to the printed notices forbidding the wearing of hats, and she was obliged to remove the objectionable headgear, all the while vowing to be re-

The next evening the woman arrived at the theatre bonnetless, but her hatr was arranged in such a manner that it of her head. Those of the spectators behind her deeply regretted that the Price $2.50.
