Oh, See What?

SEE your doctor first, if you want to, and see if he doesn't tell you that you can't put into your stomach anything better than a proper combination of whole wheat and malt.

SEE your grocer next and buy a package of "FORCE" which is composed of the whole of the wheat and barley malt.

SEE how easy it is to eat a proper food when it comes to you in a sweet, crispy delicate flake.

SEE how easily the strength, the nourishment, the vitality which Nature puts into thriving wheat and barley slips into your own system. One preacher writes that he gets from "FORCE" all the strength necessary for his hard Sunday work without knowing that he has a stomach. Take a little "FORCE" just before going to bed and see how soundly you'll sleep.

SEE if you do not eat it right along after you've eaten it once.

The Greatest Men.

It would be a difficult task, if not an impossible one, to persuade any half dozen men casually brought together into unanimity of opinion concerning the greatest man who ever lived. Most of them would agree no doubt with Lord Brougham that Julius Caesar was "the greatest man of ancient times," but how many of the six would accept Professor Gardiner's estimate of Cromwell as "the greatest Englishman of all times?" Each of them, we may be reasonably sure, would accept Shakespeare as the greatest poet, yet Lord Lytton once spoke of Milton as "the greatest poet of our country." And where will be found two men out of Scotland to agree with Charles Mackay when he says of Burns that he was "the greatest poet—next perhaps to King David of the Jews—whom any age has produced?"

A Lake Captain's Experience.

Capt. McDonald, one of Kingston's most prominent mariners, writes:—"For years I have battled with the agonies of Bronchitis Asthma, often times so bad that I could not sleep for nights at a time. I spent hundreds of dollars on doctors and quacks without getting relief, but one dollar's worth of Cattarhozone perfectly cured me." The above testimonial was given two years ago, and as the Captain lately stated he was still quite free from Bronchitis, it proves Cattarhozone a veritable specific. Cattarhozone, two months' treatment, guaranteed to cure Bronchitis, price $1, small size 25 cents. Druggists or Polson & Co., Kingston.

Every man is bound to hear the truth occasionally, even if he doesn't recognize it.

There are some women who seem to be perennially youthful. The grown daughters are companions as well as children, and the color of the mother's cheeks, the brightness in her eyes, the roundness of her form, all speak of abounding health. What is her secret? She is at the middle age of life when so many women are worn, wasted and faded, and yet time has only ripened her charms. The secret of this matronly health and beauty may be told in the brief phrase, "Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription." The general health of woman is so intimately related to the local health of the delicate womanly organs, that where these are diseased, the whole body suffers. "Favorite Prescription" dries the debilitating drains, heals ulceration and inflammation, cures female weakness and imparts to the delicate female organs natural vigor and vitality. Women who have lost their health and their beauty have been made "robust and rosy checked" by the use of this marvellous medicine.

It is an easy thing to fill the church, but quite another to fill the congregation.

The True Tragedy of Life is ill-health, disappointed ambitions, usefulness destroyed. Pathetic! nay, tragic. Poor blood, weak nerves, a tired brain. Is there hope? Yes! Because there is a cure. Ferrozone Tablets make blood; not blue blood, but the fluid that strengthens the whole body. Ferrozone does this quickly by improving digestion, stimulating assimilation and by imparting health and tone to the whole system. Mr. McCall, druggist, will tell you a great deal more about Ferrozone. Ask him to tell you of the wonderful curative properties of Ferrozone Tablets.

The more articles of the old creeds we reject the larger our religion becomes.

End Neuralgia's Agony

Have you failed to get permanent relief? Are you almost frantic with neuralgic pain? If so, why not use Polson's Nerviline? It is the only neuralgia remedy that has never failed to cure even the worst case, and it will surely cure you. Five times the strength of other remedies, it penetrates the tissues, and drives out the pain instantly. Quick relief, sure cure. Large bottles 25c.

Most of us would be absolutely free but for the chains we have ourselves riveted on.

COLLISION WITH A COMET.

What Such a Catastrophe Would Mean For the Earth.

Although it is exceedingly improbable that the earth may be destroyed by collision with a comet or some huge meteor, still the fact that such a contingency is possible is sufficient ground for discussion on the subject and for imagining what the result might be. says the Woman's Home Companion.

The earth is moving around the sun at a velocity of eighteen miles a second, while the sun, with all its attendant planets, is being hurled on toward the great fiery constellation of Hercules at a far greater velocity. The very fact that small meteors exist proves the possibility of the existence in space of meteors of inconceivable magnitude. Even great black dead worlds may lie in our path, like breakers in the path of a ship. Fifty miles a second is not an unusual velocity for heavenly bodies, and some are known to move at a speed even in excess of a hundred miles a second, five hundred times the speed of a rifle ball. Small meteorites, which reach the earth at a velocity of from twenty to thirty miles a second, are instantly consumed by the friction generated with the atmosphere. Large meteors, however, occasionally reach the earth, escaping destruction from their size, but are found to have their surfaces fused from heat generated by the passage through the atmosphere.

Although it is not probable, still it is possible, that the earth may some time encounter such a shower of small meteors, perhaps in the form of a comet, that the heat of combustion from friction with our atmosphere and the poisonous gases thereby generated might destroy all terrestrial life.

Ancient Lightning Rods.

The ancients did not have lightning rods constructed as ours are, but they had lightning conductors, which shows that they knew how to protect themselves from the danger that lies in a thunderstorm. Even so long ago as the tenth century lightning was directed from fields by planting in them long sticks or poles, on top of which were lance heads. It is said that the Celtic soldiers used to try to make themselves safe from the stroke directed by a storm by lying on the ground with their naked swords planted point upward beside them.

There was long ago on the shore of the Adriatic sea a stronghold known as Dardania, on the highest tower of which there was an iron rod that was used as a means of telling when a storm was approaching in summer. A soldier was always stationed near the rod when the sea had a threatening look, and it was his duty to frequently put the iron point of his javelin close to the rod, watching for the spark that would tell him it was time to warn the fishermen by ringing a big bell.

Their Teeth Betray Them.

"There is only one feature of an actor which will 'give him away' when disguised in a perfect makeup," remarked a young actor, "and that feature is the teeth. Let a man do what he will with his face, let him cover it with all kinds of paint, beard, whiskers and what not, but the teeth will disclose his indubitable identity directly he opens his mouth to speak a line or to emit a laugh."

"I myself, when sitting in the front of a house watching other people's performances, have frequently been puzzled myself as to the identity of a cleverly made up player, but no sooner has the said player disclosed his 'toes' than I have at once spotted him, provided, of course, he has chanced to be a man whose face I know moderately well. Strangely enough, hardly any one is aware of this curious truth, but it remains an undeniable fact all the same."

Raising the Wind.

It seems incredible, but is nevertheless a fact, that as late as the year 1814 an old woman named Bessie Miller of Pomona, in the Orkney islands, sold favorable winds to seamen at the small price of sixpence a vessel. For many years witches were supposed to sell the wind. The Finlanders and Laplanders made quite a trade by selling winds. The old woman, after being well paid by the credulous sailors, used to knit three magical knots. The buyer was told he would have a good gale when he untied the first knot, the second knot would bring a strong wind and the third a severe tempest—Irish Times.

A Sand Tree of Prussia.

We are accustomed to regard sand as utterly barren, but the plants native to the coast sands of Prussia have been enumerated by naturalists, whose estimates vary from 171 to 234 varieties. Of these one of the most available is the Arundo arenaria (marram), which thrives only in sand and in the salt air of the beach. This in time serves to prepare the soil for larger plants.

Her Neighbor.

"I can't understand your dislike for Mrs. Nixdore," said Mr. Goodart. "She seems a nice, quiet, home loving woman."

"Think so?" replied his wife.

"Yes. She certainly appears to be a busy little body."

"You've got the 'little' in the wrong place."

Scheme That Failed.

Tom (tensely)—Would you be sorry to hear that I am going to marry Edyth?

Mayme—Indeed I should.

Tom—Why?

Mayme—Because I really like Edyth.

There are two sides to every question, and it's surprising how much there is to the other side when you hear it fairly presented.—Atchison Globe.

TWO CASES OF TYPHUS.

Story of a Turkish Doctor and a Modified Prescription.

Mr. Oscanian in his book, "The Sultan and His People," says that a Turkish physician was called to visit a man who was very ill of typhus fever. The doctor considered the case hopeless, but prescribed for the patient and took his leave. The next day, in passing by, he inquired of a servant at the door if his master was dead.

"Dead!" was the reply. "No, he is much better."

The doctor hastened upstairs to obtain the solution of the miracle.

"Why," said the convalescent, "I was consumed with thirst, and I drank a palful of the juice of pickled cabbage."

"Wonderful!" quoth the doctor, and out came the tablets, on which he made this inscription: "Cured of typhus fever, Mehemed Agha, an upholsterer, by drinking a palful of pickled cabbage juice."

Soon after the doctor was called to another patient, a yaglikgee, or dealer in embroidered handkerchiefs, who was suffering from the same malady. He forthwith prescribed "a palful of pickled cabbage juice."

On calling the next day to congratulate his patient on his recovery he was astonished to be told that the man was dead.

In his bewilderment at these phenomena he came to the safe conclusion and duly noted it in his memoranda that "although in cases of typhus fever pickled cabbage juice is an efficient remedy it is not to be used unless the patient be by profession an upholsterer."

A Poor Compliment.

"People don't often insult you when they mean to be gracious," said an aristocrat the other day. "Insults are the creations of ill nature and not mere matters of words. But I had an experience that made me laugh and yet irritated me."

"Somebody take one of your snow scenes for a spring landscape?" inquired an amiable friend.

"No," replied the artist; "this was not a matter of professional pride. A tradesman sent me a bill in which he unintentionally charged me only about a third of what I owed him."

"Thought he stood a better chance of getting it, I suppose," interrupted the facetious friend.

"Now, hold on, Billy, and let me tell the story. Well, there was the second time he had sent a bill for less than I owed, and I wrote him a note calling his attention to the error. This morning I got a letter from him in which he 'thanked me for my honesty.' A man may thank you for your courtesy or for your kindness, but when he thanks you for being honest it is an insult. One might as well praise a man for not beating his wife."

The Soil Was Not Congenial.

It was Aunt Rebecca's first visit to her niece, a city girl who had married a few years before and begun house-keeping in a pretty town in southern Michigan.

"Myrtle," she said, looking out of the kitchen window one morning, "you have a fine patch of ground here that seems to be going to waste. Why don't you plant peach trees? They grow beautifully in this climate."

"No, aunt," replied the young wife; "the soil is too poor. I have tried it. You remember those canned peaches you sent me your before last? They were the finest I ever saw—finer than any that grow here. Well, I saved the stones, and without saying anything to Robert about it, I planted them out there in the yard, but not one of them ever came up—not a single one!"

The Royal Color.

Purple has always been considered the royal color. The ill fated Charles I. was, however, at his own desire, crowned in a robe of white. Although he was seriously reminded that of the two exceptions to this rule, Richard II. and Henry VI., who wore white satin robes at their coronations, both had come to a violent end, one at Pontefract castle and one in the Tower, Charles I. was resolute in his decision, and, when, twenty-three years afterward, almost to a day, his body was conveyed to its grave through a heavy snowstorm, the superstitious could not help remarking that the third "white king" had suffered a violent death.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a running sound of imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

DIMINISHED VITALITY.

Some people talk very flippantly about diminished vitality. They don't stop to think that vitality is the principle of life—that it is that little understood something on which every function of their bodies depends.

Diminished vitality is early indicated by loss of appetite, strength and endurance, and Hood's Sarsaparilla is the greatest vitality.
