When the Cold Tightens in the Chest

Whatever chances you may take with cold in the head and sore throat, you cannot but feel alarmed when the cold grips the chest, enters the bronchial tubes and threatens the lungs.

At this critical time you want a medicine you can depend upon to cure the cold and protect the lungs. Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has proven its value by many years of unqualified success. When you use it you do not feel that you are experimenting, but rather that you are doing all that can be done to cure the disease and prevent serious results.

This medicine is particularly well known as an effective treatment for chest colds and bronchitis. It not merely clears the choked-up air passages, but also allays the inflammation, and has a far-reaching effect on the whole respiratory system.

By its soothing influence on the nerves, which are always excited in the case of bronchitis and asthma, it lessens the coughing and allows the irritated mucous lining to heal up. In this way the greatest relief is obtained promptly, and cure just as surely comes with continued use.

In the great majority of homes Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is kept constantly at hand for the treatment of coughs, colds, bronchitis, whooping-cough, asthma and sore throat. With this great medicine at hand you can control any ordinary cold, and bring prompt relief, even in severe cases of bronchitis and asthma.

Denmark's Example.

Just read the quotation over—read it over twice. 'Denmark might be called a corner of Manitoba. Much of it was formerly a bleak waste of tundra. Only the eastern part of the country and the neighboring islands were considered fit for agriculture. In addition to this poverty in natural resources, the country was further impoverished by the Napoleonic wars in the early part of the nineteenth century. In the second half of the nineteenth century Schleswig-Holstein was annexed by the Germans. Practically all its commerce was gone. The peasant farmers were in the most pitiful condition. Yet today, less than a century later, this same Denmark is, in proportion to its population, the wealthiest country in Europe.

Denmark is essentially an agricultural country. It has an area of about 14,000,000 acres. More than $90,000,000 worth of butter, eggs and meats are exported by the farmers of Denmark annually. In 1906 the Danes had $200,000,000 in savings banks. Eighty nine families out of every hundred own their own farms and houses. This small amount of tenancy is due to the fact that land holdings can be easily acquired.

Not the biggest, blackest type could add a particle to the astonishing facts above stated. Think them over. Poor land! Desolation by war! Robbery of the best lands by a stronger power! General poverty!

And now such general comfort, such immense aggregate wealth, such splendid conditions! And all this attained by what?

War! Conquest? Trading? Manufacturing? None of these. By jarring on those bleak sand dunes and the vast lands, mostly original wilderness.

The secret? It is on the surface. Land holdings are easily obtained. That is the first essential to general prosperity.

Second, co-operation. The farmers of Denmark are the most thoroughly organized in the world. They buy, sell, study, market, slaughter their stock and pack their meats co-operatively.

Third, their milk is handled by co-operative creameries and cheese factories.

Land easily obtained for actual workers of land and universal co-operation—think what these things would do for any country.

The above astounding quotation is not from any Looking Backward or Progress and Poverty—it is from the report based on an official study made in Denmark by an official.—Winnipeg Tribune.

For a again you will find Chamberlain's Liniment excellent. It allays the pain, removes the soreness, and soon restores the parts to a healthy condition. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by all druggists.

Where Would They Come From?

The cost of the Laurier navy, that navy being the Rainbow, on the Pacific and the Niobe, on the Atlantic (at such times as it is not in the dry docks), including the probable expenditures for the present year, totals $4,273,471.

The number of Canadians who have enlisted in the navy service totals 402 officers and men, distributed as follows: Nova Scotia, 162; New Brunswick, 5; Prince Edward Island, 29; Quebec, 44; Ontario, 113; Manitoba, 1; Saskatchewan, 2; Alberta, 4; British Columbia, 52. A total of 402 Canadians enlisted in the navy service since the passage of the naval bill.

What a commentary on the argument that Canada demands a Canadian navy! By contrast to the idea of the navy which men can be found to serve in the navy these figures stand! The whole of the naval establishment carrying less than half the number of seamen required to man a single dreadnought! But for the draft of 600 English officers and men it would have been impossible to keep the Rainbow and the Niobe up to the establishment.

Dr. Pugsley, former minister of public works, lamented the fact—of fact—that thousands of Canadians were serving in the navy of the United States because they were denied an opportunity of serving in a Canadian navy. It would be interesting to know why some of these thousands of Canadians are not flocking to the enlistment offices for service on the Rainbow and the Niobe. If the Laurier theory is right, what is wrong with the application? Why is it that more than half of the navy complement of Canada has been drafted from the British islands?

There is no better medicine made for cold than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It acts on nature's plan, relieves the lungs, opens the secretions, aids expectoration, and restores the system to a healthy condition. For sale by all druggists.

Nova Scotia Vessel Lost.

CAPT. COGSWELL OF ALEXANDER BLACK TELLS STORY OF TRYING EXPERIENCE.

To spend three days marooned on the after-deck house of a waterlogged bark, and when help failed to arrive to cross the Gulf of Mexico from Cuba to Mexico in an open boat, was the experience of Captain M. B. Cogswell and eight of the crew of the British Bark Alexander Black, which was abandoned in the gulf, January 18th.

For the Captain Cogswell, who arrived from Progress Tuesday, a passenger on the steamship America, told an item reporter how the cargo of lumber which the Alexander Black carried had saved the entire crew from drowning.

About midnight of Wednesday, January 15th, the Alexander Black struck an obstruction at latitude 22:4 north, longitude 86:28 west; 50 miles northwest of Cape San Antonio, Cuba. The port bow was crushed in and the vessel began rapidly to fill with water. Within five minutes she was waterlogged, and had she not been lumber laden would have foundered at once.

'We took refuge on the 'only dry spot that was left,' said Captain Cogswell. 'There were nine of us, including the mate and steward, myself and six others. All we could do was to huddle together on the after-deck house and wait for assistance to arrive.'

'Wait we did, and for three days, while our small supply of food that was fit to eat was diminished and our quarters were anything but comfortable. Not a sail hoisted in sight. We knew there was no immediate danger, except in case of a storm, but it was not child's play.'

On January 18th we abandoned the Alexander Black and went to sea in an open boat, rigged with an improvised sail. We did little better than drift, and some of the men suffered from the hardships of the four days' trip.

On January 22nd we reached land. It was a barren strip of Mexican coast near San Felipe, ninety six miles from Progress. Then we had to follow the coast up to Progress, whence we caught the news of the abandonment of the Alexander Black in Mexico.

The bark was picked up later in the gulf and towed to Progress, but she was almost a total wreck. She was battered nearly to pieces by the wind and waves after we abandoned her. Her mainmast was gone and there was very little vessel remaining. I suppose the damage and loss to vessel and cargo will amount to $10,000 for each.'

Except for indigestion caused by cold contracted during his trying experience, Captain Cogswell is in good health. The mate and steward of the Alexander Black accompanied Captain Cogswell from Progress on the American, while the other men arrived in some passengers on the schooner Susan E. Dantler. None feel any serious effects of the wreck of the Alexander Black.

[The above from the Mobile Item will be of interest to readers of THE ACADIAN. Capt. Cogswell is a native of Port Williams—well-known here. He was the managing owner of the Alexander Black, and as he carried a controlled interest in the ship, his loss will be heavy.]

Courage.

Have courage. Courage is the art of sitting calmly in your seat without stirring and without getting excited when the Brass Band goes by your house and around the corner. Courage steps out of the crowd. It stands alone.

Courage is native Norse—refined. Courage is neither bulldozing nor bare bluff—it's not related to either. Courage isn't physical merely, but moral—essentially.

Courage is naked right put through fire and brought out uncracked and unbroken.

Courage is heartworth making itself felt in deeds. It severs waits for chances; it makes chances.

A day without some courage sprinkled in it is a day little worth while. For courage makes the man—and there never was a real man that did not have courage.

Courage is a thing born in you—but it is also a thing much lusted by use and cultivation.

To-day, to-morrow—and every day—have courage. It makes the heart glad and soul strong. It starts amiles in the system and stirs up the kind of circulation in a man that makes him go out and do his best at the most humble undertaking.

You can never fail if you have courage—but you can never without it.

Have courage!

Seven year old Bobby brought his first report home from school, and it was bad. His mother scolded him, but he bore up bravely, and at the end of the maternal lecture he said by way of encouragement: 'After all, pa, the greatest thing in life is health.'

It must satisfy you.

If it doesn't, your dealer, backed by us, gladly returns your money.

Isn't that a sincere way to invite you to try it?

A Mother's Duty to Her Daughter.

REQUIRES THAT HER BLOOD SUPPLY BE KEPT RICH, RED AND PURE.

Every mother who calls to mind her own girlhood knows how urgent by her daughter is likely to need help and strength during the years between school days and womanhood. It is then that growing girls droop and become fragile, bloodless and nervous. Nature is calling for more nourishment than the blood can supply and signs of distress are plainly evident in dull eyes, pallid cheeks, aching backs, languid steps, fits of depression, headaches and a dislike for food. These signs mean anemia—that is bloodlessness.

This watchful mother takes prompt steps to give her girl the new, rich blood her system is craving for by giving Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which make new blood and transform unhappy anemic girls into robust, happy, bright-eyed young women. No other medicine has ever succeeded like Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, because no other medicine can make new, rich, red blood which brings health and vitality to weak, bloodless systems. Miss Mamie Krouse, Copetown, Ont., says: 'Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been a blessing to me. I had been a sufferer for almost two years from anemia, and seemed, no matter what I tried, to be growing worse. I was very pale and seemed bloodless, suffering from frequent headaches, the least exertion would leave me completely tired, and I was very much discouraged and fretful. At last I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and got a half dozen boxes, and by the time they were used I was feeling much better. A few more boxes fully restored my health and I have since been well and strong and able once more to enjoy life.'

These pills are sold by all medicine dealers or will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by addressing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A farmer once made to Abraham Lincoln an obviously exaggerated statement as to the weight of his hay crops.

'I've been cutting some hay, too,' said Lincoln, smiling. 'Good crop?' the farmer asked. 'Fine—very fine!' said Lincoln. 'How many tons?'

'Well, I don't exactly know how many tons,' said Lincoln, carelessly, 'but my men stacked all they could out of doors, and then stored the rest in the barn.'

Here is a message of hope and good cheer from Mrs. C. J. Martin, Boone Mill, Va., who is the mother of eighteen children. Mrs. Martin was cured of stomach trouble and constipation by Chamberlain's Tablets after five years of suffering, and now recommends these tablets to the public. Sold by all dealers.

Mrs. Robbins—Joshie, be you a going to get up? Mrs. Robbins (yawning)—Well, I have one consolation, I shall have sleep enough when I'm dead.

Mrs. Robbins—Yes, an' you'll find the fire lit when you wake, just as you do now.
