out going voyage, who came in on hospital trains to the water front; some on stretchers with their own stretcher bearers, and some on board the first time. I saw the moving picture man winding in the scenes on his film, the bright sunshine in his favor. First came the mental cases, then men who could walk by the aid of sticks and crutches, heads and limbs swathed in bandages; last of all stretchers and baggage. All on board, the gang-way lifted, the boat loosed her moorings, the gaping stream of water widened between us and shore. The engines ceased, the anchor dropped and we were out in the stream forty-eight hours swinging with the tide. At last the boys sent up a cheer in the evening. The sun sinking low in the west, we headed out to sea. The following morning enveloped us in fog and traveling was slow, finally stopped altogether, well in the danger zone, a British destroyer visible through the haze on our port side. In a few hours the fog lifted a little and we continued on. After days of cold rough weather and fog of which the Newfoundland coast seems never free, to my idea, the voyage had an unpleasant ending. The first day of August land had been seen in the early morning, after 10 a.m. when I was on deck, one of our men said we had passed a boat and that the pilot had been taken on. I went down below to my duty. A few minutes after by the tremble of the boat and sudden reversed engines I knew we had struck something. The bed patients were a little nervous. When the boys saw the rocks they thought it a funny place to land and striking Canada with a vengeance. P. V. Boats quickly answered the call for help and at once began taking off the patients. By that time No. 1 hold was fast taking water, reaching the Red Cross stores and provisions. We stayed on board and worked knee deep in water carrying some of the stores out. Then the boat came for us. She had by that time listed heavily to starboard. The last I saw was two powerful government tugs pulling astern and the boat frantically churning with her own propeller. I had hoped to see her move back, but to us she was soon lost through the fog.

Of course we will go back overseas, the war is not over yet and duty calls one of the boys from old Aylmer.

Yours truly,
Lance Corporal J. Walters.
During our voyage back to England we took over 90 nursing sisters.

TILLSONBURG WON BUFFALO TROPHY

Spencer McDonald's Bowlers Took Main Event at the L. B. T. Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 3.—The trophy of the International lawn bowling tournament goes to Tillsonburg and the Frontier Cup to Toronto, W. S. McDonald's Tillsonburg four winning a close game from Skip James Bell of London in the trophy competition, and Ald. H. W. Hiltz's Toronto St. Matthews' rink defeating Skip H. J. McEwan of Weston in the Frontier.

In the trophy final the Tillsonburg rink took the heart out of their opponents by getting five in the sixth end and that lost the game to London. They were five down in the tenth end when they began to recover. In the last end Bell had a chance by moving the jack to make six and win, but he only got four and finished two down.

CHOLERA INFANTUM

Cholera infantum is one of the fatal ailments of childhood. It is a trouble that comes on suddenly, especially during the summer months and unless prompt action is taken the little one may soon be beyond all aid. Baby's Own Tablets are an ideal medicine in warding off this trouble. They regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach and thus prevent all the dreaded stomach complaints. Concerning them, Mrs. Fred Rose, South Bay, Ont., says: "I feel Baby's Own Tablets saved the life of our baby when she had cholera infantum and I would not be without them." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brookville, Ont.

Received your letter of the 6th inst. Fritz is handing us some fireworks, imagine a 1000 guns all waking up suddenly in the dark and spraying shrapnel and blowing in trenches and gun pits, and sweeping roads and you will get a slight idea of the stuff the Huns are taking.

I see Ern is trying to enlist again. If he comes he will find that extra 6 inches in height is a bad rig when walking along a trench or in digging in. Advise him if he has made up his mind to get here, to join a heavy howitzer or mortar. He might find juggling 1000 shells to his liking and ability.

I have joined my battalion again, and am back out of effective range of artillery fire, most of the time, but am doing working parties farther up. During April's more or less strenuous fighting it was nothing to have a big shell light in front of you, then one where you were standing and perhaps a half dozen when you got past. In fact some of the fellows were fairly hit with unexploded shells. It tries a fellow's nerves to hold down a job over here.

SIXTEEN ELGIN MEN REMAINING OF 200

Major Dunnett, of Gallant 18th, Tells How Original Regiment has suffered.

Writing from the trenches, Major H. D. Dunnett, of the 18th Battalion, C. E. F., enclosed a picture post card. The photo, taken amongst the ruins of a French village, contains the picture of the remnants of nearly 200 St. Thomas and Elgin County men who enlisted with the 18th Battalion and are still on duty at the front.

The total, including the officers and men is 16, the names being as follows: Major H. D. Dunnett, Lieut. Caldwell, Police Sergeant W. Pattison, Scout Sgt. G. R. Smith, Transport Sgt. Green, Corp. P. Oatley, Corp. M. Heath, Corp. Sam Satterby, Privates Brackstone, Tooman, Burns, Williams, Tunford, W. Asher, McClellan, Fred Millard.

Major Dunnett now in command of the company, himself enlisted as a private, his first step up being when he was selected, while in training, with others for special training as a scout. All his promotions in rank with the exception of that of corporal have been obtained by him at the front.

His letter written to a little girl (friend who sometimes writes him, was written on July 7. It expresses regret at delay in correspondence and in the major's usual jovial manner explains it by saying that he has been busy riding out on his horse lately. No intimation as to the locality in which the battalion is located nor of the hardships cheerfully borne through two years of active service in the cause of Canada and the empire is allowed by the writer to creep into the letter.

Major Dunnett is an Aylmer lad. His parents still reside here and along with their fellow townsmen are proud of the record made by this son of Elgin.

Service cards and answering such questions as: Did you ever work on a farm? Would you help in a scheme of land settlement? How much money will you have after the war?

Well I am not writing to anyone else this week and as I had so much to say before I was satisfied, I shot the whole wad in one letter, so the censor will understand and not kick too much.

Yours sincerely,
JIM

HOSPITAL SHIP WAS WRECKED: AYLMER MAN ON BOARD

Lieut. J. Walters, a former Aylmer man, who has made several voyages across the Atlantic as a nurse on a Hospital ship, tells of the wreck of boat on a return voyage to Canada. All were saved.

To the Aylmer Express.

Dear Mr. Editor:—

No doubt you have heard of shipwrecked sailors, but a shipwrecked soldier sounds almost ridiculous. Of course, in wartime, you need hardly be surprised to hear of anything. Being of the latter I will try and pen a line or so of our last voyage on a hospital ship which now lies a wreck of the Nova Scotian coast almost submerged beneath the waves. Over in Blighty many of our Canadian boys who have done their bit on the battlefields of France and have sacrificed much, await their turn to be sent back to their Canadian homes in the hospital ship, that needed mostly special care.
