paid his second monthly visit to this city yesterday, and was consulted by a large number of people at the store of Mr. W R. Jackson. He has met with gratifying success in St. Thomas, having shown himself possessed of a thorough knowledge of the proper methods of testing eyesight and fitting glasses. As he proposes to visit this city every month, these who are afflicted in eyesight can secure from him regular and systematic treatment.—[St. Thomas Journal.

BARKWELL'S BRONCHIAL BALSAM

Dear Sir .-- I wish to testify of the merits of that grand preparation known as Barkwell's Vegetable Healing Bronchial Balsam. I was told by a neighbor what a grand Balsam it was. My little girl was very ill with bronchitis, and a very few doses restored her and I believe saved her life. I feel it my duty to let others know that they also can be cured of this terrible affection.

The funeral of the late James Ardiel, of con. 11, London township, took place yesterday afternoon from his late residence to Arva Cemetery. It was conducted by the Orange order, of which he was a member, the burial service being read by Chaplain James Wilson. Rev. Mr. Wright, of Arva, conducted the service. The deceased was a young man, highly esteemed, and had been married but one year to a daughter of ex-Reeve Wm. Shoebottom, of the same township. His widow has the sympathy of the community in her sad affliction. A number of Londoners attended the funeral, including Ald. Boyd, Mr. George Elliot, Alonzo Hall, W. Bernard, J. S. Deacon and others.

A Peculiar Accident.

On Saturday afternoon Mr. Walter McGibbon, of Palace street, met with a painful accident while working with several companions on the G. T. R. track at Komoka. Mr. McGibbon was engaged next to a left-handed man who was shoveling gravel and he unconsciously got too near and received a swinging blow from his unorthodox neighbor's shovel. It nearly amputated two fingers from his right hand. It is thought that the fingers cannot be saved.

particularly the words "Not as though I were already perfect; but this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God." The reverend gentleman referred to Paul's life, his miracles and the work he had done for Christ's sake, and how it was wont to inspire men with awe. Such feelings were apt to discourage, but when he was seen, as in the text, in a spirit of humble energy or read of elsewhere in his wretchedness, men could take heart and feel that Paul was one of them after all. The mark to which the apostle had sought to reach was Christian perfection. His manner of seeking was two-fold in that he forgot the past, its pleasures and failures, and looked forward to the future. The speaker did not believe that brooding over past sins or sorrows should be indulged in. It was such brooding that filled the jails and lunatic asylums of the country. God's people were not despondent children of the night, but were creatures of the sunlight, born to look, walk and act with the mind on the future. Men often referred to their boyhood and their past, but the speaker thought manhood and its future much more to be admired. In the future lay the reaim where love and glory reigned. Success in worldly affairs, as well as spiritual, had only been accomplished after repeated reverses, change of methods and disappointments. While all should strive to attain the acme of Christian perfection, they must have hope and energy to stand where others before them had fallen. He urged his hearers to consecrate themselves as they never had before and look forward to the prize of the high calling of God.

Attheelose of the sermon Mr. McGillivray addressed a few words to the congregation, urging them to be of good counsel, to be of one mind and colive in peace, for God loved the peaceable and would undoubtedly be with them throughout futurity. He concluded as follows: "The happiest period of my life has been spent that the fingers cannot be saved.

In another column will be seen the annual report of the Sun Life Insurance Company, which chronicles one more year's success in its history of many such. In the accident as well as in the life department the company has experienced the most gratifying success. In the first mentioned the number of applications received were 1,365, for $2,420,300, and the policies issued 1,347, for $2,375,300. The applications in the life department were 2,755, and the assurance amounted to $4,102,710 55. Of these 2,504, for $3,732,331 15, were accepted, and policies issued thereon, the balance being declined or withdrawn. This total is $706,256 99 in advance of the previous year. The combined applications of the two branches thus reached the handsome total of $6,523,010 55. Owing to the increase of business the company have found it necessary to enlarge their premises at headquarters. The city manager of the company's affairs is Mr. A. S. Macgregor.

Snider, of the G. T. R., well known as an The Brotherhood of Machinery Molders will have a ball at the City Hall on Easter Monday, April 7.

Snider, of the G. T. R., well known as an evangelist, was to occupy the pulpit of the Wellington Street Methodist Church, drew Wellington Street Methodist Church, drew Wellington Street Methodist Church, drew large crowds there yesterday at all the services. In the morning Mr. Snider preached from Colossians, iii., 21.: "Christ is all in all," and adhered to it throughout his discourse, elucidating his arguments and applying them forcibly to his hearers. He declared Christ to be a Saviour Deliverer and Physician from his personal experience, and thanked God for the marvels he had seen wrought among hundreds of his fellow-employes through the mediation of Jesus. Two many belonged to the church and not to Christ, and too many believed their own church to be the only road to heaven, thus casting asunder Christ's commandment "I am the true way." At the close of the service a large number remained to take part in the fellowship meeting held in the lecture-room.
