DELIGHT OF LADIES,

What None of Them Should be Without, and What They All Appreciate.

and What They All Appreciate.

Now that the gift-giving day of the year is near at hand, purchasers of presents are naturally desirous of procuring appropriate, useful, pleasure-involving articles. Furs, made up in the numerous different ways of the present time, meet all these requirements. Husbands should not forget, in selecting remembrances for their wives, that Rivard's long fur capes are much the assistion at present. They range in length from 25 to 30 inches, and, as shown at this well-known hatter's, are quite catchy. Nowoman would object to the presentation of a sable, heaver or gray lamb cape. These are the highest-priced articles in this line. But there are some cheaper. The wolf, seal, astrachan and black lamb are quite as attractive, and yet come within the limits of the ordinary purse. Mr. Rivard's fur capes are certainly worthy of an inspection. Those mothers who wish toget their youthful offspring a handsome cap will surely be pleased with the selection in real and imitation materials which are to be seen in this Richmond street establishment. The stock is fast being dispessed of, and, with procenstination, comes at qual lessening of choice. posed of, and, with procrastination, comes an equal lessening of choice.

The Atlantic Monthly for December is an excellent number, not professedly a holiday issue, and yet no better number has appeared during the year.

High Constable J. T. Jones, of York ounty, Ont., has published a county constables' manual or handy hook, compiled from the criminal code of 1892-93, dealing with schedules of fees, crimes and punishments, and courts and jurisdiction. It is very portable in form, and is neatly bound and printed. The Carswell Company, Toronto, are the publishers, and the price is

Mr. George Du Maurier's novel, "Trilby," which will begin in the January "Triloy," which will begin in the January Harper's, is said to surpass in interest his "Peter Ibbetson." It deals with the fortunes of three English art students in Paris, and the setting is the Latin Quarter of the Fifties. The heroine is a model of mingled Irish and Scotch extraction, whose name gives the title to the story.

The interesting reprit of the old-fashioned early edition of Dickens, with the original llustrations, is about to be completed by the publishers, Macmillan & Co., New York. Charles Dickens the younger has written a short biographical and historical preface for each volume.

It is as though Christmas were at hand to read the menus and notes of preparation given by Mrs. Rorer in the December numgiven by Mrs. Rorer in the December number of Household News. Some old menus in use during the latter part of the last century serve to show the royal times our forefathers were wont to have over their Christmas dinners. The magazine teems with a variety of good things, and the illustrations are timely and beautiful. The housekeeper who has her hands full getting ready for the event, will here find many hints and suggestions that will smooth away many of her difficulties. The Exposition Flyer.

The widespread disappointment consequent upon the withdrawal of the "Exposition Flyer," the great twenty-hour train between New York and Chicago by the New York and Chicago by the New York and Lake Shore roads is iscarly set forth by a writer in the Chicago livated who says:

The bandonment of the 'Exposition Flyer' is little short of a calamity. In many represents it was bigger than the roads which respects the flat of the last strain in the world ran between Chicago and New York as knew the rain was operated by the two Vanderbilt lines. The flyer was in a class by itself. The Lake Shore and New York Central, while being two of the very best roads in the country, are still in the same class with at least half a dozen others. Merely as an sivertisement the flyer paid expenses. Sching appeals to the public so much as such a train, and the two roads have not in the same that have resident in the last six months on account of the flyer. It has been the subject of special attiles in every magazine and newspapers have contract the flyer paid expenses. Public opinion is unanimous that it would by expenses when travel assumes its companies of the contract of the Boston is the center of American thought, and the Arena magazine is the chief exand the Arena magazine is the chief capponent of views by the great thinkers of the age. This magazine has had phenomenal success since it was begun a few years ago by its fearless and talented editor, and its prospectus for 1894, which lies below us proves that it is determined to keep it in the front rank. Among the great features of the Arena for 1894 will be a series of six papers on the "Ascent of Life," by Stinson Jarvis—a Canadian, by the way. They will take up the evolution theory where Darwin dropped it, and proceed in a search for the soul of man in a strictly scientific manner. Another brilliant feature of the Arena for 1894 will be a series of papers setting forth the "Aims and Objects of the Higher Criticism" by leading orthodox scholars of Europe and America who stand with Prof. Briggs. A third feature will be a series of papers on "Indian Occultism," by Heinrich Heasoldt, Ph. D., a German scientist, who hasepant ter years in Ceylon, India Thibat and Burmah. The opening paper of this series appears in the December Arens; it is entitled "The Wonders of Hindoo Magic." Vital political, economic and seeial problems will be taken up by the leading thinkers of the world. Another series of papers will deal with the "Civilization of To-morrow," in which hereditary and prenatal influences and early environment will be ably discussed. Popular papers on "Emergency Surgery," by a leading Massachusetts physician and surgeon. "Psychic Science and Progress in the Realm of Physical Science" will receive attention from experts. Short stories, brief biographies, portraits of leading thinkers and critical reviews of leading books of the day will be the features of the Arena for 1894. It is a great magazine. It is a great magazine.
