HOW IS THIS? Chatham Planet: One unpleasant feature should not be passed over without severe condemnation. some reason Carey, the Londoners' center field, lost his temper at Umpire Smith and broke into bad language in front of the grand stand, to the annoyance of the ladies and other spectators therein. Umpire Smith assessed him $5, but the penalty seemed altogether too small for the offense, and it would have been wiser to have had the offending player removed from the grounds under police escort. EASTERN LEAGUE-FRIDAY. At Toronto-Toronto 9 13 Providence 2 7 3 Batteries-Williams and Snyder; Braun and Leahy. At Montreal-Montreal 9

Prosecution Ready to Proceed-Points of Pare's Confession.

Napanee, Ont., July 23.-The prisoner Holden was brought in by Irspecter Burke, of Boston, and High Constable Sills, of Napanee, yesterday afternoon. He was at once taker to Police Magistrate Daley's office and remanded to jail for a week. An order for bail has been granted to the lawyers of prisoners Mackie and Ponton. It is fixed at $10,000 apiece

The lawyers do not propose accepting the offer, becau e it is considered hardly worth the while, since the investigation may open on Tuesday.

It is stated by the police that Mrs. Saucier will not be brought from Montreal to Napanee, save as a witness. They also claim that their case is complete and that the main ine of attack to be pursued mar no drawn from Pare's confession. In brief, this con-

DROWNED IN A MILL POND. Port Hope, July 23.-A sad drowning accident occurred at Canton Wednesday night. The victim is Annie Gordon, the 13-year-old daughter of Mr. Joseph Gordon, who resides near here. No information can be had as to how the accident occurred. The girl was seen about 7:30 in the evening, but not returning home as night came on, a search was made by anxious ones. After every probable place had been examined in vain, the pond in the rear of Kinsman's flour mill was dragged, and the body of the missing girl found about 4 o'clock Thursday morning.

> Diagrams Which Show the Principle Movements Which May Be Learned on Land and Then Practiced in Shallow Water - Expertness in Swimming Is Only Acquired by Con stant and Continuous Fractice.

The art of locomotion in water is now being taught in very many natatoriums in the cities of Canada and the United States. A Y. M. C. A. professor of swimming has evolved a method by which diligent application through five or six lessons on land has enabled the pupils to swim shortly after entering the water.

every other acquirement, is merely a matter of practice. So to become good swimmers the injunction is, "practice," and you will surely succeed. The statement of the Y. M. C. A. natatorial expert is accompanied by illustrations showing the instructor in the different making active preparations to handle attitudes while going through the motions of swimming. He says: In order to learn swimming the learner should first practice the movements on land. The manner of swimming which is taught to most beginners is popularly known as the "breast stroke." It is divided into three motions of the arms and two motions of the legs. First the motion of the arms. Stand erect, with heels together, the toes pointed outward. Place the arms straight in front of your breast with the palms of the hands together. Now begin to count slowly: "One." With a slow movement pull the arms to a position running parallel with the shoulders. "Two." Draw the arms with palms turned down to a position about six inches below the chin. "Three." Shoot the arms straight forward and bring them back to the position held before you started to count

"One." Practice these three movements and when you feel that you have learned them begin on the leg motion. This motion is known as the "kick," by the means of which the body is propelled. The "kick" is divided into two movements. The first begins after you have made the first stroke with your arms, so that you really start on the second count. Now then, "Two." Draw the leg up on the side, so that the toe reaches your knee. When in the water this movement of course is made with both legs, keeping the heels closely together. 'Three." Spread the feet out and bring them back to their original posi tion, striking knees and heels together vigorously. Now try the arm movements in the water. You will be surprised how easily the body follows the motions and brings you forward at the completion of each stroke. Practice the kick by getting hold of some solid object. Lie in the water with your chin above the surface, hold your body easy and straighten your legs firmly behind you. This will bring your entire body close to the surface.

Having accomplished this try both arm and leg movements together. Start with arms straight in front and legs straight to the rear.

"One." Move arms to the side. "Two." Move arms under the chin and at the same time bring legs to the "Three." Shoot arms forward, bring ing them together, and at the same time spread the legs and straighten them, bringing knees and heels together

Wonderful Things From the Deep. The exploring yacht of Prince Albert I. of Monaco, the Princess Alice, made its fourth cruise of scientific research in the summer of 1897 in the waters west of Morocco, around Madeira, and the regions of the Azores and the sea off Portugal. Weirs sent down to depths of nearly sixteen thousand feet brought up animals wholly unknown. Another net kept for twenty four hundred feet, near the Azores, brought up twelve hundred animals, of which eleven hundred and ninety eight were fish. Large cetaceans were often chased by the whale boats, and in some instances unknown animals, from forty. five to sixty-six feet long, yielded remnants of food which they had swallowedfragments of gigantic devil fishes, which were carefully preserved.
