THEY DIED HARD.

Particulars of the Slaughter of the British by Matabeles.

The Savages Too Many for Them—Fought Behind Dead Horses—All the Whites Killed.

CAPE TOWN, Jan. 13.—Advices from a Matabele source are to the effect that Capt. Wilson and his party died fighting hard. A native has arrived at Bulawayo, who had been present when the Matabeles made their first attack on Capt. Wilson. They at first thought that the whites had a numerous force and retired after the first skirmish. Lobengula, in his wagon, fled for a short distance, but learning that Capt. Wilson's force was numerically weak, the Matabeles were ordered back to attack them. The natives, in overwhelming numbers, fought the whites, but the latter battled gallantly behind the cover afforded them by their dead horses. It was impossible, however, for the whites to hold the Matabeles in check, and their fire grew weaker and weaker. But the Matabeles rushed on the British, nearly all of whom were wounded. All of the live whites were killed with assegais and stripped of their clothing and accoutrements.

A party has arrived at Fort Temi and reports meeting a band of armed natives, one of whom was carrying a rifle that had belonged to one of Capt. Wilson's men.

AN INDIAN'S SUPERSTITION

Causes an Uprising in Mexico—He Worshipped a Leaf.

CITY OF MEXICO, Jan. 13.—An uprising is threatened at Lecheria, and already $70,000 worth of property has been destroyed. An Indian working on the Hacienda de Lecheria found a mango leaf which had been worn until it contained a tracing, which, to the Indian, appeared to be a reproduction of the Virgin of Guadalupe. He prostrated himself before the plant to worship the picture, then hastened to the master to tell him the great mark of favor bestowed upon him from heaven. The master, Señor H. Pimental, came and looked at the leaf, contemptuously remarking that any worm could eat out as good a picture. He then snatched it with his cane and left. The Indian was infuriated. That night the hacienda and 1,000 balls of cotton were burned, and the incendiary had been traced to the Indian. The old Indians were aroused over the supposed indignity, and have assembled and are holding a great feast. A petition has been sent to the cathedral in this city asking that a prelate be sent to examine the picture, but it is feared that before he can arrive and disabuse the Indians of their superstition an uprising will occur.

THE COOKSVILLE CRIME.

The "Etried Man" Held Only as a Witness—The Other Three Remanded Till the 18th Inst.

BRAMPTON, Jan. 12.—Chief Constable Hurst's quartet has been broken (the hired man is now simply held as a witness), and he this morning brought his trio of prisoners before the magistrate's court. Mr. Geo. Graham presided. McWhirter maintained a stolid indifference to the proceedings and continued to chew gum. Butcher watches everything closely and appears anxious and nervous. Walker takes little interest in anything. The proceedings were wholly formal. Crown Attorney McFadden asked that the prisoners all be remanded till Thursday, the 18th inst. The magistrates acquiesced. Goring, McWhirter, and the girl, Miss McWhirter, read novels the greater part of the time, but is quite confident of proving his innocence of any connection with the crime.

IT ENCIRCLES THE GLOBE.

The White Star Company's Unique Service Between Liverpool and the Antipodes.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—Mr. H. Maitland Kersey, agent of the White Star Line at this port, who arrived on the Teutonic from Liverpool on Wednesday, says the line has inaugurated a unique service between Liverpool and New Zealand. The new twin screw passenger and freight steamship, Gothic, sailed for New Zealand on Dec. 28, by way of the Cape of Good Hope, with a general cargo of merchandise. She will return by way of Cape Horn, thus, in a round trip, circumnavigating the globe, with 75,000 carcasses of mutton preserved in refrigerating chambers, and about 1,000 tons of dairy products. The total length of the voyage from Liverpool to New Zealand through the North and South Atlantic, the Indian and the South Pacific oceans, is about 25,000 miles, or the circumference of the globe at the equator.

BEEN ACTING SIXTY-EIGHT YEARS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—Mrs. John Drew was 76 years old last Wednesday, and she has been 63 years on the stage, having made her first appearance in Philadelphia with Junius Brutus Booth in "Richard III." when but 9 years of age. The veteran actress received a good many congratulatory telegrams Wednesday and numerous baskets of flowers. At the close of the performance at the Harlem Opera House her company gathered about her and drank her health, while the orchestra played "Auld Lang Syne." In spite of her advanced age, Mrs. Drew is still young in spirit, and has no desire to retire from the active practice of her chosen profession.

A Fighting Session.

Such Will be the Next Sitting of the Dominion Parliament.

A Prediction of Startling Results to Follow Disclosures.

Lord Aberdeen May Take a Hand—Tory Disunion Growing—The Premier Anxious to Delay the Session.

[Ottawa Correspondence of the Toronto News, Conservative.]

OTTAWA, Jan. 12.—There are not a few who would like to know just now when Parliament will meet, and I think Sir John Thompson is as eager to know as anyone else. But what a session it will be when it does come! Sir John may think that as it promises to be one of the longest sessions on record he can more easily roast the beggars out than freeze them in, and delays the calling of the House together until the latest possible moment, that when it runs into the heated term the ardor of the inquisitive Opposition will melt under the rays of a July sun.

But this is to be the fighting session. This is to be the session in which the Opposition is going to show that they have adopted some of the tactics of the late Premier, Sir John Macdonald, by holding back a reserve of ammunition to fire off as a parting shot which, in former years, before they gained their experience, would have been wasted in skirmishing during the earlier sittings of the House.

Just look at the list of subjects that are sure to engage the attention of the members next session. Tariff Reform, McGreevy-Connolly case, Sir Adolphe Caron charges, Sir Hector L. & Co., Yellow Martin and Black Tarte, Curran Bridge, Further Gerry-mander, French Treaty, while with the etc., etc., I might fill up half a column.

This has no reference to the discussion within the party ranks. That the gap is widening, even the most ardent Tories do not deny, nor do they attempt to conceal it. Their only defense is the hope that something will turn up to demoralize the Griggs, which would give them a fair fighting chance at the next election. What a happy fancy! Is it a wonder, then, that Sir John Thompson should wish to put off the evil day, for when the House does meet it will be fought from the word go, and no quarter.

They have an Aberdeen, not a Stanley, to deal with this time, and if all I hear is true, our present Governor-General is likely to take a pretty decided stand. There is more than one disquieted member of the present Administration here who would breathe easier if Lord Stanley had remained a little longer.

However, there is much in store for the guilty ones, and if some startling results do not follow the disclosures of next session my prediction fails.

FAREWELL!

Mr. W. J. Birks Gives His Last Service of Praise.

The Church Crowded—A Warm Welcome to the Favorite Barso, Mr. J. M. Williams—The Mohan Ladies' Quartet.

The service of praise at the Dundas Street Central Methodist Church last evening was participated in by two men—Mr. W. J. Birks and Mr. J. Marshall Williams—whose names will long be held in admiring esteem by the members of the congregation which is identified with that building. The former, after ten years of constant labor as organist and choir master, was making his valedictory appearance; the latter, who was for some time soloist under Mr. Birks, and has latterly been pursuing his studies in New York, returned specially to testify by vocal assistance, a gracious appreciation of his former mentor. The feelings of the large audience which assembled to extend a joint farewell and welcome were diversified—there was sorrow at the loss of one of the city's leading musical figures, and joy at again being permitted to hear the sonorous tones of its much-favored basso.

In thinking over Mr. Birks' career in London no surprise is expressed at the retention of such a source of unbounded delectation and pleasure. But what does occasion remark is the subtle but powerful influence which he has uniformly exerted over the members of his magnificent choir. Throughout the continent of America there may be musical organizations containing on the whole better voices; but it is not stepping beyond the bounds of accurate fact to affirm that, in a similar area, there does not exist a more superbly trained body of singers than that of the Dundas Center. Mr. Birks may not be a great organist; but he has all the essentials of a great choir leader. An accurate knowledge of music; a pleasing mode of conveying instruction; a magnetism of demeanor which conciliates every individual, while it bends all to his will; a moderately indulgent disposition—these are the points of character and requirement which have made his labors in this locality so eminently successful.

Mr. Williams was accorded an enthusiastic reception, and he deserved it. Since his last appearance in this city his methods have been broadened and matured, and his vocal powers show a corresponding development in the excellence of tone and ease of production. "Honor and Arms," a song from Samson, was his first number, and in response to a rapturous encore he sang Gounod's "Calvary." He also rendered two other solos—"Watch and Pray" (Cremer), "If Laws Severe" (Jewes)—and took part in a quartet, "Lead Kindly Light" (Dudley Buck), given by special request, along with Miss Ziegler, Mrs. Charles Graham and Mr. Carroll, thus bringing together once again the four vocalists whose efforts in concert some years ago were so much admired. Mr. Williams was somewhat retarded in his singing by a heavy cold. But he is too impulsive. He could introduce more energy and vim into his method with an improving result. He might, for instance, profit by Mr. Carroll's example in this particular, who always sings with taste and expression. Aside from the mode of expressing his songs, however, Mr. Williams has a voice of unusual power, resonance and sweetness. All his numbers were very similar in character, and did not afford him the widest possible scope for displaying his powers.

The Mohan Ladies' Quartet, of Detroit, had five numbers assigned to them on the programme, and the inevitable effect of the band—no, probably, unjustly in these cases—made the most of the opportunities presented. The results attained by the four ladies forming the organization—Miss Nellie Goodwin, Miss Jessie Corlette, Mrs. Melan and Mrs. Younghouse—were indeed worthy of the highest commendation. Their voices blended with sweet agreeableness, and the admiration which their successive rendering evoked in a responsive audience must have been ample requital for the satisfactory attempts made to please.

A report of this concert would not be complete were some mention not made of Miss Della Ziegler's singing of the solo parts in Mendelssohn's "Heart My Prayer," as well as of the admirable effect produced by the choir in rendering Gounod's "By Babylon's Wave." Mr. William Skinner sang the solo in Verdi's "Spirit Immortal" with acceptability.

Mr. William Moxon, who is to take Mr. Birks' place, played an organ solo with much brilliancy of execution, and showed himself to be a master of the instrument over which he is to preside.

There was one feature of the evening which marred an otherwise enjoyable concert—the almost invariable encore which followed the solo numbers. The larger portion of the audience was not to blame, as only a small section of the misguided added this uncommendable procedure.

Some of the artists were themselves responsible. They sometimes responded too readily to a desultory applause which did not indicate the wish of the majority of their hearers. The programme as printed on this occasion was lengthy enough without any repetitions.

BACK TO HER GIRLHOOD LOVE.

Mrs. Schramm Leaves Her Husband for the One She First Admired.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 13.—Herman Schramm, who lives in Luxembourg, St. Louis county, is mourning the loss of his wife, who, he believes, has gone back to Germany with the lover of her early youth. Years ago, when Mrs. Schramm was a school-girl in Germany, she had a playmate named Fritzsch. As they grew in years they came to love each other and at last plighted their troth. But when Herman Schramm asked her for her parents they consented, and Fritzsch's sweetheart became Mrs. Schramm before she was 17 years old. As soon as they were married, Mr. and Mrs. Schramm came to America. During the World's Fair Fritzsch came to America and then visited the Schramms. On Sunday, during her husband's absence, Mrs. Schramm and Fritzsch left the place and have not been seen since. She left four children behind.

The regular train from Sydney was unable to get out this morning. A snow plow is now on the road, and it is expected trains will be running regularly again to-night. A report from Meat Cove says the storm there was the highest for thirteen years at St. Paul's Island.

Charged With Stealing Overcoats.

William Bryan and Dennis Mullahey, both cigar makers, the former 28 and the latter 40 years of age, were each confronted with two charges of overcoat stealing in the Police Court this morning. The Grigg House was alleged to have been the scene of the first theft, the article having been taken from the reception room, where it had been placed by the owner, Milford Sipes. A. P. Sainsbury, the second-hand dealer, testified to buying the same overcoat from the two prisoners for $1.25—the original cost was $13. Both were committed for trial on this charge. The second offense is said to have occurred in the Teumess House. The overcoat belonged to N. F. Gundy, a commercial traveler, and was taken from the office counter, so Mr. C. W. Davis affirmed, along with a silk scarf and a pair of kid gloves. The overcoat was sold by the two men accused, and as they told Detective Rider themselves, to the bartender of a London West hotel for $8.50. The gloves and scarf were found with the prisoners in their room at the Morkin House when the arrests were made. A remand was obtained in this charge so that the evidence of Mr. Morkin might be secured.
