Boys Band Render Excellent Concert

Large Crowd Hear Boys Band and The Thiele Concert Co.

While there was no celebration of any kind in town yesterday the day did not pass off without some kind of amusement and last night Waterloo Park was the scene of a large crowd who turned out to hear a concert by Waterloo's famous boys' band, assisted by the Thiele Concert Co. and Dominion Day was brought to a fitting close by a program that pleased the most critical. It was an ideal night and the boys and the assisting artists covered themselves with glory. The Boys Band rendered a fine program, their playing being heartily applauded by the audience. Especially good was the cornet duet by Masters Hind and Hoffman and the Cornet Solo by Master Shelton, encores being demanded and willingly responded to. The Band as a whole have shown marked progress the past month and their playing last night was a revelation to the large audience.

The Thiele Concert Co. made their first appearance before a Waterloo audience and so enthusiastic were they received that the mention of their next appearance will draw a record crowd. Their first offering was a Saxophone quartette. It was something new and the mastery with which the instruments were handled and the fine rendition given the selection showed the quartette to have the complete mastery over this most difficult instrument. The personal was Prof. Thiele, soprano, Mrs. Thiele, Baritone, Miss Caroline Thiele, Tenor and Mr. Elmer Pfaff Alto. While the Saxophones were great it was in the Miraphone Trio that the enthusiasm waxed high and the artists were forced to respond to triple encores. This was the first occasion this instrument has been heard in town but judging by last night's performance it will not be the last. The Thiele family have won their way into the hearts of the music loving public of the twin city and they are assured of a bumper crowd on each and every appearance.

Following the Concert a grand dance was held in the pavilion excellent music being supplied by Krug's orchestra.

Mrs. D. Bohlender and daughter Ruth, spent the holiday with relatives in New Hamburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Danzer and two children motored to Grand Bend where they will spend a week or ten days.

GOOD PROGRAM AT THE ROMA

With a full picture program, a musical comedy company in a one-act comedy sketch and a six-piece orchestra, all for little more than the price of an ordinary picture show, it is little wonder that the Roma Theatre has been crowded on the opening days this week.

The Wilkes Musical Comedy Company opened a two weeks' engagement at the Roma on Monday in what might be called a tabloid musical comedy. The sketch, which is called "Paddy's Troubles," provides the medium through which a sprightly chorus disport themselves in a great variety of pretentious costumes, and give a number of the latest songs and dances. Miss Viola Melburn, the leading lady of the company, claims Kitchener as her birthplace, but even without this added claim to the affection of the audience, Miss Melburn would be sure of a hearty reception here on account of her pleasing stage personality and charming voice, which she displayed to good advantage last night, being recalled time and again. Fred G. Brown in the part of Paddy, the servant, kept everybody laughing with his witty sallies. Miss Rhea Robinson in a violin solo with chorus was another feature worthy of mention.

The picture program is also good. "The Blinding Trail," a six-reel film drama of life and love, treachery and devotion, is a most excellent picture in the number words of the genre. It is a picture that will thrill and interest all classes, and is well worth seeing. There is also a Canadian News Week by and Christy Comedy.

Selections by a six-piece orchestra round out a most interesting and satisfactory program.

The entire bill, both pictures and musical comedy is changed every Monday and Thursday.

TO HAVE PERFECT SKIN & THROUGHOUT THE SUMMER

This is the season when she who would have a lily-white complexion should turn her thoughts to merochloin, the firm friend of the summer girl. Nothing so effectively overcomes the soiling effects of sun, wind, dust and dirt. The wax literally absorbs the scrobbled, discolored, withered or coarsened scarf skin, bringing forth a brand new skin, clear, soft and girlishly beautiful. It also unclogs the pores, removes blackheads and increasing the skin's breathing capacity.

An ounce of merochloin wax, obtainable at any drug store, applied nightly like cold cream, washed off mornings, will greatly improve even the worst complexion. There is nothing better for the removal of tan, freckles or blotches.

people themselves bringing their leaders responsible for the war to trial. Dr. Honsberger was the last speaker. He contrasted the conditions under which Germany went to war in 1914 with those of the present. He stated that Honsberger thought that the war would come again in time when Germany would again become a great nation as she was before the war, not militarily, but in mental efforts. He suggested that the citizens of this community be united, "I don't care of what nationality you are, whether it is German or English or any other, let us all work for Kitchener and remember that we are Canadians," he remarked.

Three cheers for the returned men were given. God Save the King concluded the program.

A big bonfire followed on the market square at the rear. And after this members of the G.W.V.A. formed a torchlight procession on King street, the gathering place being in front of the quarters on West King street. The amusing tin band also kept up its work and was in the parade up and down street. Another bonfire was lit on the street and it was kept going until late in the evening. The 18th band led in the procession early in the evening.

INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS COMMISSION REPORT

Recommends 8 Hour Day and Minimum Wage

ALSO INDUSTRIAL COUNCILS IN CANADA

OTTAWA, July 1.—Sir Robert Borden in the House this morning tabled the majority and minority reports of the commission on industrial relations. The majority report, which is signed by Judge Mathers, Carl Riordon, Chas. H. Harrison, Tom Moore and John W. Bruce, recommends legislation for a maximum work day of eight hours with weekly rest of not less than 24 hours minimum wage, especially for women, girls and unskilled labor, also Government action to relieve unemployment through public works, to help the building of workers' homes to restore fullest liberty of speech and press and to establish a bureau for promoting industrial councils to improve relations between employers and workers.

The commission approves the labor deal in the peace treaty, that "labor should not be regarded merely as a commodity or as an article of commerce."

If this basic principle, the report continues, were freely and frankly acknowledged by employers and acted in good faith, it would go far to improve their relations with employees. Without any extraordinary upheaval policies may be adopted which would insure the worker a fairer regard for his toll and a living wage and insure him against want during temporary enforced idleness, from any cause, and during old age. The minimum wage law now administered by boards in Manitoba, British Columbia, Saskatchewan and Quebec should be extended to all the provinces and should cover unskilled labor, as well as women and girls.

Shorter Workday.

At the great majority of places visited the commission and found a demand by workers for a shorter working day, based on their desire for more leisure and energy to devote to the things of life other than work. The most common request was for an eight-hour day, with the Saturday half-holiday where already established, and its further extension wherever possible, thus making the 44-hour week. General approval by employers in regard to the shorter working day was coupled with statements of difficulties, such as the necessity for using all possible daylight in such industries as farming, fishing, logging, etc. which are subject to climatic conditions and limited season, the disadvantage of a section of an industry working shorter hours, yet competing with other sections within Canada working longer hours, also the fear that Canadian industry, with its small home market, might be unable to meet competition in foreign markets if wages in Canada are reduced too far.

Ultimate Change.

Many employers, the report states, agree with the workers as to the need for an ultimate change in the basis of industry, but they do not agree with workers as to methods. Workers also differ among themselves, one group desiring complete possession and the full produce of their labor, another group simply asking larger purchasing power of their wages, while between these the more moderate, and as the commission believe, the majority would welcome co-operation and industrial peace until gradually a system would be evolved by which workers would receive a more adequate share of their labor products. The commission holds that as we can see only a little way ahead all changes should be made step by step, each step being based on experience as it is gained, but the general direction should be determined towards health, happiness and prosperity of workers and the service of the community.

Workers are diligently studying economic questions and while some of the literature they read may be unsound, or lack of mental training of some workers may prevent their thorough understanding of it, the commission are convinced that the good sense and sound judgment of the majority enables them to discriminate and hence extreme doctrines have been accepted only by a minority. Unrest and Unemployment.

Unrest was found to be greatest where there was most unemployment which was found in several large urban centers, though there is little in smaller towns and rural districts in spite of the number of discharged soldiers and munition workers released. In some manufacturing centers, such as Kitchener Ontario, there was an actual scarcity of labor. Returned soldiers have to a large extent, been reabsorbed into civil life, generally in their old positions. The scarcity of farm help is very pronounced.
