home of the Real Issues of the Campaign.
The Globe makes a big mistake if it imagines that the election is going to be decided on the petty issues it enumerates in its leading article of yesterday. The tuberculous calf, the Grundy episode, the dual shirivally and registrarship are not the important issues of this election, although The Globe is doing its best to make it appear that these are the most serious accusations that can be laid at the door of the Government. The division of these two offices in Toronto is not cited so much because of the loss the province is suffering in this particular case as because it gives us an insight into the Government's extravagant method of conducting our affairs generally. We know for a fact that Sir Oliver Mowat divided the shirivally of York into two offices, not because such division was in the public interest, but because it afforded a means of rewarding a political friend. We know for a fact that Sir Oliver Mowat divided the Toronto registry business into two, not because it was in the public interest to do, but because it was a means of giving Peter Ryan a fat salary at the public expense. Sheriff Mowat's salary for 1893 is put down at $7,534. Last year was an exceptionally dull one in real estate and Registrar Ryan's salary was only $3,100. During a year when real estate is active his salary would be more than double that amount. We think by this time the public has become convinced of the fact that these two officials are as unnecessary as a fifth wheel to a wagon. If Sir Oliver Mowat was the truly honest and faithful public servant Principal Grant would have the people believe, how does it come about that he thus makes use of the public funds to pension men who have performed party services? This dividing of offices was done deliberately. If Sir Oliver Mowat is in old blood would dishonestly divert the public funds in these particular instances, would he not do the same thing wherever opportunity presented itself? It is principally to support the contention that he has acted unfaithfully and extravagantly all round that these specific cases are cited. If other branches of the service are investigated the same extravagant and unjustifiable methods will be found to have prevailed. Officials are paid too high for the services rendered. The fee system has been perpetuated to cover up the tracks of extravagance. The clerk of the County Court last year received $5,591. Intelligent men by scores could be found to do the work for one-half the salary. There would be no need to furnish bonds to any reasonable extent for the proper performance of their duties. These cases are only cited as samples. The whole civil service is honeycombed with this kind of work. The public ought to bear in mind that Sir Oliver Mowat is powerless to purify the system. The system, after twenty years' growth, has become more powerful than the Premier.

But, while this charge of extravagance is a serious one in the present contest, it is by no means the most important issue in the campaign.

The people of Ontario desire to see the end of these sectional broils that are continually agitating the public. The time-serving policy of Sir Oliver Mowat is responsible for them all. In striking contrast to his policy is that of Mr. Meredith, clean-cut, impartial, an entire separation of church and state. After the team has been driven together for 20 years, we find they don't pull in union and never will. They must be separated and driven singly. Meredith is the man to separate them.

Another issue which makes the Grundy episode and the calf affair pale into insignificance is the mining question. Sir Oliver Mowat is aggressively opposed to the policy in virtue of which such institutions as the Massey Manufacturing Co. are possible in Toronto. He and his party are aggressively opposed to the policy which has created our cotton factories and sugar refineries. He is opposed to an aggressive policy that will cause an iron industry to flourish in this iron-producing province. Some one hundred specimens of iron ore, taken from various parts of the province, were exhibited at the World's Fair, yet not a ton of pig iron has as yet been made in Ontario. Then there is the saw log question. Here is an issue that is of great importance not only to the Georgian Bay district, but to Toronto as well. Mr. Meredith has a policy to compel the logs now cut on our timber limits to be made into lumber in Canadian mills, instead of being sent to the mills of Michigan.

In addition to the above Mr. Meredith's platform contains a score more of much needed reforms, in regard to all of which we charge Sir Oliver Mowat with absolute indifference. A characteristic distinction between the two leaders is that the Premier is altogether aggressive and defensive, while Mr. Meredith announces a positive and aggressive policy. The one seeks the confidence of the people on what he has done; the other on what he promises to do.

An Example For Toronto to Follow.
The argument that a municipality like Toronto cannot economically undertake the lighting of its own streets can be answered by hundreds of practical examples that completely disprove the argument. The Electrical World of June 2 cites a case in point. Zurich, a city of Switzerland, has gas, water and electric systems all operated from the same centre. In its description of the system The Electrical World says: "Like all the most enterprising and enlightened municipalities the town council of Zurich has been wrestling with the question of electric lighting for many years past, although, and perhaps in this respect unlike other municipalities, they from the very first decided that any work which was done should be in the hands of the municipality itself. Experiments were made with various systems and technical assistance was asked from the best known experts in Switzerland. Ultimately, from among the various plans submitted, the choice was made in April, 1880, in favor of an alternating system, having one central station and many transforming centres, but it must be said that this choice was largely determined by the argument that, if afterward necessary, the choice was made in favor of a centrally located station, with alternating motors, from which district accumulators for a direct supply system could be changed. The first accepted plans also comprised a direct current series system of arc lighting, the lamps on which were to be placed on the principal streets and lake front. Passing through the usual delays and vicissitudes, the system, as it now stands, started to supply current in August, 1892. The same building which contains the electrical department's offices contains also those for the municipal gas supply, and it is a very significant feeling that takes possession of the visitor as he stands in these offices and sees side by side all the apparatus needed for the installation of either gas or electricity, and learns that the department keeps in touch with all manufacturers of these goods, buys from them at the best discounts, and is able to supply the town consumer with any material he may require even more advantageously than he can procure for himself elsewhere. In can prove these showrooms are in the nature of a general sample room where the buyer can see all types of fittings, compare their price and select from the stock those having most merit. Will not this fact in itself help along municipal supply? Leaving the offices and proceeding to the central station we find that the town authorities are again in an exceptionally advantageous position, for the electrical machinery is placed under the same roof as the gas turbines and pumps providing the city water supply. Zurich is a flourishing city of 110,000 population. It is a poor reflection on the intelligence and honesty to say that we in Toronto are not as capable as the Swiss in the science of municipal government. If, as a matter of fact, we are behind them in this respect then the sooner we acquire their methods the better. We cannot afford to let the under the impression that our representatives are dishonest and unfaithful to their trust. The way to treat this alleged dishonesty and unfaithfulness is certainly not by giving way to it and forever. We are much in need of more of that co-operative spirit that seems to conduct so much to the welfare of many of the European cities. From the extract above we learn that the people of Zurich not only control their own water, gas and electric supplies, but they have a stores department, where all materials used in connection with these services can be obtained at cost price.

The Quebec Bank.
This bank has had a very satisfactory year. It will be noticed on reference to the annual statement in another column that after paying dividends of 7 per cent. $85,739 was left to profit and loss account. The "real" fund of the bank is $550,000, the capital being $2,500,000. The deposits of the Quebec Bank are nearly $7,000,000, while the loans and discounts amount to $9,000,000. Mr. Stevenson, the general manager, gave some good advice in his statement, and it will be read with interest. Notwithstanding the hardness of the times the Quebec Bank has never been in a safer position than it is now—never which will be received with gratitude by the stockholders. During the many years which have elapsed since the bank was established not a single claim has ever been made on the Guarantee Company of North America for default of an employee.

Farmers' Loans and Savings Co.
The shareholders of the above institution held their 22nd annual meeting yesterday. The net profits for the year footed up to $48,075.56, out of which two half-yearly dividends of 2 1/2 per cent. each were paid, and $2975.46 added to reserve account, making $138,834.50 now to the credit of that fund. The report is a satisfactory one and reflects credit upon the management.
