SIXTEENTH YEAR
MR. OULMET'S TERMS ACCEDDED TO

The Government Pledge for Remedial Legislation.

A Day of Explanations at Ottawa—Messrs. Oulmet and Caron Again in Harness—Mr. Foster Speaks of the "Misunderstanding" in the Cabinet and Why Mr. Angers' Resignation was Accepted—The Two Returned Ministers Tell of the Stand They Took and the Pledges on Which They Withdrew Their Resignations—Dr. Weldon, Col. Denison, Mr. McNeill and Other Conservatives Announce that They Will Oppose Remedial Legislation—Senator Angers Attacks the Government for Not Bringing Down a Remedial Bill This Session—The Premier Outlines the Measure to be Presented Next Session and the Request to be Made to Manitoba—Mr. Laurier's Motion to Adjourn Rejected by 34, Seven Conservatives Bolting—Sir H. Langevin May Get Mr. Angers' Portfolio.

Ottawa, July 11.—It has been a great day in Parliament. Official announcements have been made in both Houses, and, summed up in brief, they are to the effect that Mr. Angers is irreconcilable and out for good, while his other two colleagues, Messrs. Caron and Oulmet, are satisfied with the renewed assurances which have been given them that Remedial Legislation will be the essential feature of the Government's policy next session, and they are in harness once more.

Public feeling in Ottawa in reference to the crisis had reached fever heat by 3 o'clock, and when prayers were over well-dressed men and women made a rush for the galleries of the Commons, and within five minutes every seat was occupied, while hundreds were content with standing room. As routine business was being transacted, the Postmaster-General entered the Chamber, and was received with laughter and derisive cheers from the Opposition. As he sat down friends behind him gave him an encouraging counter-cheer. A minute or two later Mr. Oulmet entered the chamber, when a like demonstration took place. Lady Aberdeen had previously entered the chamber, and was given a seat at Mr. Speaker's right.

Mr. Foster announced a message from His Excellency, signed by his own hand. It was the official reply of Manitoba to the Remedial Order. Then the interesting proceedings commenced. Mr. Foster was brief and explicit, and his statement was satisfactory. When he stated down the two returning Ministers said their say and justified the stand they took. The Opposition leader then took the floor and bantered the Ministry on the situation. Sir Charles H. Tupper replied to Mr. Laurier. The Minister of Justice carried the war into Africa, and challenged Mr. Laurier or any of the Opposition leaders to define their policy on the school question.

When Sir Charles sat down there was a pause for a moment, but not a Liberal stirred. It was impossible to conceive a more humiliating spectacle for any party in a great country to exhibit their leaders afraid to speak. Afterward the discussion was confined almost entirely to the Conservative benches.

Mr. Dupont, an ardent Nationalist, declared himself a supporter of Mr. Angers, and most voted against the Government. No one expected anything different from him.

Then Dr. Weldon rose and notified the Government that he could not support Remedial Legislation. Col. Denison and Mr. McNeill made similar statements. The debate was continued until nearly 11 o'clock. On the division there were seven Conservatives who voted with the Opposition.

Today's settlement was brought about at a conference in Sir Mackenzie Bowell's office this morning, when there were present the Premier, Sir A. P. Caron, Mr. Oulmet, Mr. Girouard and Senator Masson.

The Philadelphia Detective Making a Thorough Canvass of the City to Find the Premises Alleged to Have Been Used by Insurance Swindler Holmes to Hide Away With the Girls.

A high-spirited horse belonging to Albert Jacks, 600 Queen-street west, was standing before his store at noon yesterday, when he was suddenly and violently loaded with a stone which fell from a window along the street. The rattling of the iron in the wagon startled the horse, and he dashed across the street, dragging Mr. Jacks, who had grasped hold of the reins, with him. The wagon struck a post and Jacks lost his hold. The horse continued his course and plunged through the large plate-glass window of the store of Mrs. McGinn, 755 Queen-street west. INCENDIARY FIRES ARE NOW OF DAILY OCCURRENCE.
Deliberate Attempt Made Last Evening to Burn Down the Pythian Hall—A Fortunate Accident Alone Prevents Another Disastrous Conflagration Similar to Those of January Last.

An attempt was made to fire the Pythian Hall, Queen and Victoria-streets, yesterday. Policeman Guthrie was patrolling his beat shortly after 6 p.m., when he noticed smoke issuing from a basement and pulled the fire alarm. On the arrival of the firemen, a large quantity of inflammable material was in the basement endeavoring to extinguish the blaze, and had almost succeeded. The fire had been started in a barrel of waste paper, which had been moved from its customary position in the basement and placed on the seat of the water closet. The heat melted the water pipes and the water spouting out on to the burning rubbish was instrumental in preventing the fire spreading. The blaze was the work of an incendiary and the detectives have been notified. The damage is not more than $500.
