Lantic Sugar

makes the best cake because it creams quickly and thoroughly with the butter which is the hardest part of the mixing. Its purity and extra "fine" granulation make it dissolve at once.

For the Small Investor

The Government soon will offer the public bonds of denominations of $10 and upwards. These will be purchasable through the banks and will yield the investor approximately 5 per cent and will be redeemable in five years. They are designed to attract the surplus funds of several hundred thousand people who have comparatively small amounts to invest, who will also be given an opportunity to buy Dominion treasury debenture stock. These investments are safe; they will always have a market, and investors will have the satisfaction of knowing that their savings are helping to win the war.

The issue of the bonds which is now being planned by the finance department, is to be highly commended. In Great Britain even the school children are placing their savings into war securities. A strong effort to induce Canadians to economize is needed. The American continent is extravagant. The hardships of periodical depressions have not yet taught the lessons of thrift in times of prosperity. A nation which conserves its small savings grows strong quickly.

While the Government's plan to issue baby bonds is excellent, its application is a matter of considerable importance. If Canadians are not to be taught more about these securities than they have been about Government annuities, for example, the sales of the bonds will be disappointing. Great Britain has advertised its war securities extensively by means of posters, leaflets, through banks, through the press, through investment houses in every available way. The advertising has been as attractive as the securities and the small investor in Britain has handed the government many millions of surplus savings. Baby bonds will not be bought here in quantities unless the masses know of them as they do the most popular breakfast foods.

AFTER THE GRIPPE

Vinol Restored Her Strength

Canton, Miss.—"I am 75 years old and became very weak and feeble from the effects of La Grippe, but Vinol has done me a world of good. It has cured my cough, built up my strength so I feel active and well again."—Mrs. LIZZIE BALDWIN, Canton, Miss.

Vinol is a constitutional remedy which aids digestion, enriches the blood and creates strength. Unequaled for chronic coughs, colds or bronchitis. Your money back if it fails.

JUVENILE STYLES.

How Young Girls Are Being Garbed in a Mode.

Long coats, which reach almost or to the dress hems, are the fashion for little girls. Made of fallie silk in dull light blues, pinks, corn color or royal blue, they are just the right weight to wear over the lingerie dresses of batiste or georgette crepe.

The older girl's coat is made more like the adult styles. Trecot serge, wool jersey or bolivia—a new weave that resembles somewhat chinchilla cloth—are used to make long coats that often have a pelerine cape addition that reaches to or below the elbows.

Middy blouse lines are idealized now for the betwixt and between girl. Combined with plaited or gored skirts, they make very trig looking frocks, suited for autumn school wear as well as for summer. Pongee, tussore, linen, la jerez and other fabrics are used for the summer dresses and wool jersey, serge and gaberdine for the autumn school frock.

These dresses are sometimes made sleeveless so that a washable gumppe may be easily adjusted and removed. Plaited collar and cuff frills are seen on these gumpes more often than lace, the edges finished with picot or hemstitching. Challie, a material which always seems to stay in style for young girls' frocks, seems to need a touch of black velvet ribbon for a dainty finish.

Russian and middy blouses, seen in the shops, are generally accompanied by a plaited or fulled matching skirt. In middy blouse types one of polka dotted raspberry lawn has a full gathered skirt. The blouse is fashioned with a round plaited collar of white organdie, picot edged, with cuffs to match. An organdie belt is the original note of this dress. It shows only at the sides, passing through slashes in the dress in front and back.

This belt fastens at one side with two flat pearl buttons. One Russian blouse dress of pink voile is bordered and belted with matching bands of linen. The skirt is gathered and has a deep hem band of the linen.

Another dull pink Russian dress of pink linen is belted and bordered with a cream rough linen band, the blouse fastens down the front with buttons placed opposite and linked together.

Very pretty bright colored felt hats are also seen in the shops for little and big girls. They match in color the bright tones of their dresses. Small roke bonnet forms, rather jockey shaped, with a single feather or plume ornament in front, are also new. High Russian caps, covered with gathered silk, are finished with silk pompons on top and little clusters of silk roses posed at the sides.

Dresses for young girls remain very short. In extreme fashion they hardly come to the knee, while the more popular styles stop just below. Their ampleness makes them fly out prettily. The revived fashion of petticoats, which show with the swish of skirts, gives them a fluffy look.

Separate Skirts.

Striped skirts still have a strong vogue and are shown in various widths, the blazer and awning stripes having by far the strongest call. Novelty striped worsteds and a few checks are included in some of the latest models.

Scientific Farming

DOLLARS FROM FORESIGHT.

The Farmer Who Notes Economic Changes Usually Makes the Profit.

Perhaps the most conspicuous cause of success in farming is prompt and fitting change in type of farming in response to economic pressure as indicated by the market price of products as related to cost. The American farmers who are most successful usually sense the operation of economic forces long ahead of their neighbors. A large number of farmers change an old established system only when forced by dire necessity.

Not only is there the greatest opportunity to any individual farmer through quickly modifying his organization in response to changed markets, but such readjustment is of great value to the whole community, for such action in time becomes corrective of the changed condition from which it sprang. Let us assume, for instance, that there is a community engaged largely in live stock production and that through some cause feed prices advance to such a point that there is more money in selling the raw product than in feeding. Under such conditions a large number of farseeing farmers will quickly curtail their live stock industry and become sellers of raw feed products. This in turn has a tendency to reduce feed prices and to increase the price of live stock products, thus bringing about the former balance.

Aids to Greatness.
