

BY THE SAME AUTHOR.

The Trespasser. 12mo. Paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00.

"Interest, pith, force, and charm.—Mr. Parker's story possesses all these qualities. . . . Almost bare of synthetical decoration, his paragraphs are stirring because they are real. We read at times—as we have read the great masters of romance—breathlessly. . . . In Mr. Parker we feel that a prophet has arisen, and we hope for him great and greater years."—The Critic.

"Gilbert Parker writes a strong novel, but thus far this is his masterpiece. . . . It is one of the great novels of the year."—Boston Advertiser.

". . . A picturesque, imaginative study."—San Francisco Chronicle.

"'The Trespasser' tells a thoroughly interesting story with great spirit and admirable literary skill. The character drawing is notably clever."—Boston Saturday Evening Gazette.

The Translation of a Savage.
12mo. Flexible cloth, 75 cents.

"A gracefully and effectively written and very clever story by a very clever writer."—New York Commercial Advertiser.

"Unique in plot and subject, and holds the interest from the first page to the last."—Detroit Free Press.

"A story of remarkable interest, originality, and ingenuity in construction."—Boston Home Journal.
