RECENT DISCUSSIONS IN OLD TESTAMENT CRITICISM.

By the REV. PROF. SCRINGER, D.D.

This paper is not intended to be an original discussion of any of the great problems of Old Testament criticism, but to be rather of the nature of a report of progress, with a view of placing those who are not able to follow these discussions closely, for lack of time or lack of books, in a position to understand something of the present situation and of the general trend of thought. Few ministers in the active work of the pastorate can be expected to follow these in any detail, but all are interested in knowing how the conflict of learned
