

Carthy, while Messrs. J. E. McNeill and W. H. Veilleux defended the negative. The judges were Chas. R. Devlin, M.P.; Maurice Casey, M.A., and E. P. Stanton, Esq. In announcing their decision, Mr. Devlin, in a few eloquent and witty remarks, stated that, in their opinion, the negative had the better of the argument, and that the medal for the best individual effort should be awarded to Mr. McNeill, the leader of the negative, who gave a very able presentation of his facts in a finished style. An excellent musical program was rendered during the evening, the following taking part: Mandolin solo, Mr. D. Roy Harris; vocal solos, Misses M. Babin, M. Weir, and Mr. J. Foley, and a recitation by Miss Anna McCullough, who made a decided hit.

We must express regret to the "Echoes from the Pines," and to other exchanges which may have a like reason for dissatisfaction with us. The ex-man of our Chatham contemporary complains that the Review has not been seen there for the past few months. Now, this is too bad. If the "Echoes" failed to reach us, we would miss its bright pages very much. We want all our exchanges to come. Some do come very irregularly, in three or four cases not oftener than once or twice during the year. We do not like to fail anyone. Still, we feel gratified when notified of our non-appearance: it shows that we are wanted. A glance proved that the "Echoes" was down on the exchange list. The business managers have been repeatedly cautioned to check over the mailing list in order to eliminate omissions. Recourse to the Post Office Department lets tracers loose in what generally proves to be fruitless search after the elusive paper. A requisition for a second copy is in order, though that is extra labor, and often too much trouble to take.

Having a slight devotion for St. Angela, we take from the Invocation poem this stanza:

Hail! St. Angela, Hail! Thou wert pure and holy and meek.
Hail! St. Angela, Hail! Thy love and protection we seek.
Love and guard us in life's day,
St. Angela, to thee we pray,
That with love our feeble souls thou'lt regale.
Hail! St. Angela, Hail! Dear child of St. Ursula, Hail!
