Sir Arthur Currie,
Principal, McGill University,
Montreal, Quebec.

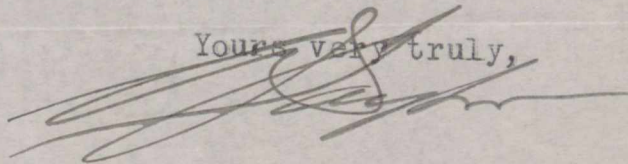

Dear Sir Arthur:-

Under date of February 15th I addressed a letter to Mr. Edward W. Beatty, President of your university and feel that this letter should have been more properly addressed to yourself.

I am taking the liberty now of sending you a copy so that you at your convenience may give it the attention you think it deserves, for I am anxious to have answers from all the Canadian universities at an early date in order that arrangements may be completed so that the essay competition may be announced by April 15th.

I am obliged to leave for Vancouver next Monday evening, and will be absent from Toronto until April 5th, but if in the meantime you have an opportunity of reading over the attached correspondence and giving me the benefit of your advice, I shall appreciate it very much.

Yours very truly,

1107 Bank of Hamilton Building.

To: Dean Adams

What do you think of this.

Arthur
