

Nor in the glorious victories of peace does it stand second to any portion of our common country. It becomes us, in the spirit of filial devotion, to know and to record this history—to gather up even the minute threads thereof, and to weave them with a bright and natural coloring into one beautiful, harmonious whole.