The Effect of Republican Victory." Writing for the North American Reew for November, immediately prior , the Presidential election in the Inited States, Hon. T. C. Platt, of New York, a controlling power in the Republican party, makes a number of interesting statements as to the effect of Republican victory, which, as he anticipated, has been achieved.

Mr. Platt points out that the Presidential campaign of 1896 had no parallel in American history. It has been likened to the Grant-Greeley campaign of 1872. Party lines in 1872 were broken, but Mr. Platt points out that there was nothing like the general demo. alization in political circles that year which characterized the late campaign. In 1872, the Democratic party went on strike against Horace Greeley. The members of that party showed their hostility to Greeley by refusing to vote. General Grant in 1872, received, comparatively, very few spectacle was presented of hundreds and thousands of independent Democratic voters who publicly proclaimed their intention to vote for the Republican candidate.

This view supports the contention of really owes his election to the support of that section of the Democratic party which supports President Cleveland's views on the money question, and could not conscientiously vote for the programme of Mr. Bryan. The result cannot but have a moderating influence on the Republican managers when they come to formulate their legislative programme for the next four years.

Being an ultra-Republican, Mr. Platt naturally has no respect for the Bryan treme length of saying that 99 per cent of the dishonest people in the States supported Bryan, because they had nothing to lose in the event of demoralization arising from the carrying out of his programme. That may or may not have been the case, but with McKinley elected the quality of Mr. Bryan's supporters is of less importance. There are doubtless good and bad men in both parties, as there are in all political organizations. What is satisfactory is that the gold standard of value, in the absence of an international agreement with regard to silver, has been maintained by an emphatic verdict, and what practically amounted to repudiation of the nation's indebtedness has been rejected.

Mr. Platt prophesies that the election of McKinley will settle many things. It will, he says, clear the air. It will be the beginning of a new era in the development of the United "The nightmare of Populism, Anarchy, and Socialism will have been banished, and will not return to trouble our sleep in the future." Mr. Platt must not be too sure. These movements were the symptoms of social unrest, caused by bad government. They had their growth in the popular feeling that the legislators had entered into a compact with unscrupulous manipulators to fleece the workers of the country. To keep down such movements, the new Administration at Washington must improve on the management of affairs which prevailed there when last the Republicans held sway. The Republicans have their opportunity. Will they know to use it? Mr. Platt says they We shall see. Meanwhile, we agree with him that the danger of a revolutionary unsettlement of trade and commerce in the United States has passed, for years to come, and that a revival of business, which will benefit both the United States and its customers, is at hand. There are many indications of this change in our market and financial reports.

An agitation is on foot in Boston to confine the selling of intoxicating liquors within the business portion of the city. The proposition naturally meets with the support of those living in the residential districts.

An Interesting Prosecution.

A warning to those charged with the onduct of elections is afforded by the decision of a jury at the St. Thomas took a genuine voter for a personator, and caused his arrest. Finding that he went to the police station a short time afterwards and succeeded in getting the innocent man set free. Meanwhile, however, he had been locked up in a cell. The jury awarded the plaintiff $200 damages. Personating must be put down, but scrutineers must be careful that they go for the right men. Under the Ontario with greater ease, because no one who is not a non-resident can go to the polls. When voters are brought from the ends of the earth, the task of identification becomes next to impossible, and it is not surprising that occasionally a scrutineer is found who, in his zeal to secure a clean election, makes a serious mistake. Under the new law governing Dominion elections, the "foreign" vote will not puzzle the managers of elections. The non-resident will not be permitted to come and kill the votes of those who live in and help to sustain the con-

That "Coal" Discovery.

Prof. A. P. Coleman, mineralogist of the Ontario Government, has returned from Sudbury, where he investigated the coal bed alleged to have been discovered in Algoma. Prof. Coleman says he did not discover coal, though he found a coaly substance, known as anthraxolite, as Mr. Blue, chief of the Bureau of Mines, announced in these columns some months ago. Anthraxolite, Prof. Coleman says, is a very indefinite and convenient term. It simply refers to coaly compounds and ascribes to them no definite characteristics. For instance, Dana, the greatest living authority on minerals, disposes of the subject thus:

"Anthraxolite-A black, combustible, coal-like substance of varying com-position, found in Quebec and Ontario." The compound will burn, and is akin to coal, and so far its discovery is decidedly satisfactory. But as to its commercial value, the professor says he is not yet prepared to speak, as he has not made any assays, and the extent of the deposit is not known. Anthraxolite may assay 4 per cent of ash in one case and 40 per cent in another. As to the particular deposit thought, from external appearances. that it did not possess the commercial value of anthracite coal.

The fact that the substance is one which burns, which gives great heat. and which can be used as mineral fuel to smelt and blast, gives it great importance, if there is a sufficient quantity of it to be found. Prof. Coleman's report to the Government will be awaited with much interest.

It is just 50 years since the first surgical operation in which ether was successfully used as an anaesthetic took place at the Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston. The widow of Dr. Wm. T. G. Morton, who discovered the valuable properties of the drug, is still alive in that city.

AN EXPERT OPINION.

Toronto News. One of the managers in a large departmental store on Yonge street was asked recently where he would locate if he should leave his present employment, and commence business in his own line. His reply was: "I would open right across the road.' This is a striking testimony to the value of advertising. While many of the retailers are crying out against the severity of the competition that is caused by the departmental stores, here is a man on the inside, knowing their prices, profits and methods who says that the best place to begin business is right alongside the fierce competitors. There is no doubt whatever about the soundness of the man's judgment. The place to do business is where the crowd congregates, and that is now within a few blocks. In addition to a good post-tion, however, there must be con-stant, consistent advertising. That is what has made the departmental store. It is all the one-liner has to

In Nicaragua.

President Zelaya's Term Extended Till 1903,

Substantial Concessions Made to British Bondholders.

New York, Nov. 5. - A letter from Managua, Nicaragua, says that the constitution amending assembly has approved the contract between Nicaragua and the English holders of Nicaragua's railroad bonds of 1886. By its terms Nicaragua agrees to impose an export tax of 1 cent gold a pound on coffee exported, to be paid as collected to an agent of the bondholders, who is to reside in Nicaragua at the expense of the country, to pay the annual 4 per cent interest and 1 per cent sinking or redemption fund agreed on. The debt, principal and unpaid interest is about $1,600,000 gold. The bondholders got a clause permitting the sale of the railroad and National Steamboat Line for $1,000,000 gold, apparently with the intention of buying and extending the road from Corinto and the Gulf of Fonseca, on the Pacific, to Bluefields or Monkey Point, on the Caribbean Sea, with cable to Cape Gracias, and thence to Jamaica, thus placing the British in control of an easy grade, excellent in ter-oceanic route across Nicaragua and of the best natural harbors for ocean steamships in Central America. The assembly approved all acts of President Zelaya to date and authorized the execution of the death penalty on persons charged with attempting to overthrow the present Government.

By invitation of the assembly, President Zelaya and a number of native and foreign officials crossed Lake Nicaragua Oct. 11 to Momotombo to attend a ball and proclaim the decree declaring the term of President Zelaya extended until 1903. BURNED OUT A Hamilton Hotel Destroyed - Blaze in Collingwood.

Hamilton, Nov. b. - The Carleton Hotel property, occupied by B. Sullivan as a temperance hotel, was burned to the ground Tuesday. All the inmates escaped. The loss on the building and goods is placed at $2,500. It is said there is no insurance. Collingwood, Ont., Nov. 5.-Tuesday evening fire broke out in the oil cellar in the hardware store of Messrs. O'Connor & Co. Before the fire brigade could arrive, the cellar, which contained many barrels of coal on and other inflammable matter, was a roaring furnace. Fortunately the fire was confined to the department in which it originated. There was considerable damage to stock in the store by smoke. The loss will be heavy. There is some insurance. During the excitement, Arthur O'Neil, an employe of the waterworks department, was run over by a carter and received slight injuries.

He had been ill for some time, and was 65 years of age. Hon. and good breeding on receiving a stranger. He asks, "How old are you?" and we, in our ignorance and incivility, laugh rudely. Yet he simply pursues the time-honored custom in thus questioning—a custom that had millenniums of civilization back of it when our ancestors were still naked, savage heathen. The first presentation of a stranger to an Oriental sovereign reported in the Bible was when Jacob was presented to Pharaoh. "And Pharaoh said unto Jacob, How old art thou?" Jacob was civil enough to answer the question without laughing. It is a great pity that we are less civil, or less civilized, than Jacob. Perhaps the Chinese newspapers did not poke fundated at Gen. Grant when he greeted Lial Hung Chang with "How do you do?"—or feel; or "I'm glad to see you"—without being charged for the sight. Our way seems right because it is not our way.

SCROFULA FROM BIRTH.

Dr. Radway—Dear Sir,—It is with pleasure I take my pen in hand to inform you of the great cure effected by your medicine called Sarsaparillian Resolvent. I have a girl three years old last September, who has suffered with scrofula ever since she was two years old. In fact, the doctor told us she was born with it. We had our best local doctors with her, and it seemed like all hope was gone, for they told us if the disease settled on her lungs she could not be cured. This frightful disease seated or seized upon her lungs severely. I began to think that our little girl could not live long, our physician's medicines doing no good. In the meantime I received a copy of your medical publication, called "False and True," which you sent me. After seeing the accounts of so many cures effected by your treatments. I at once resorted to them, and by the time she used one bottle she was most well. The ulcers that were making their appearance on her body are entirely gone and her lungs almost healed, or, at least she has quit coughing. She has begun on the second bottle, and I believe by the time that she uses all of it she will be well. She had a very bad cough. I am yours with respect, a very bad cough. I am yours with respect, SAMUEL S. BARKER. Flat Top, Mercer County, W. Va.

"LIFE A EURDEN."

Dr. Radway—Dear Sir,—For a long time past. I have been suffering in the most distressing manner from a long train of symptoms, which have baffled the skill of all medical men down here, and which I feared, if not arrested in their progress, would terminate in the total prostration of my strength. Loss of appetite and desire for stimulating and artificial means of sustenance at irregular times, want of healthy sleep and consequent depression on arising in the morning, rendered life quite a burden to me, until a friend induced me to try your medicine. So I got a bottle of Radway's Pills and took them according to directions. I soon found relief. I got three boxes and three bottles more, and I am in better health than ever before. I remain your humble servant, ARTHUR D. WRIGHT. ARTHUR D. WRIGHT.
