THE SALOME PESTILENCE.

We are having a Salome epidemic Half-dressed women in all the variety theatres are doing the dance of seven veils and joyfully receiving a human head (in paper mache) on a platter. The cartoonists have taken up the daughter of Herodias and the nearly bare young woman and her wicked ways are more or less familiar to the children thruout the country. The spectacular, theatrical Salome has invaded our homes.
What we must object to in this Salome epidemic is the shockingly bad taste of it. It is rampant vulgarity.
It is unpleasant to reflect that we owe this inflection directly to the exercise of well-meaning influences and good taste.
If Strauss' "Salome" put forward with all the art that possibly could be associated with it, had not been suppressed at the Metropolitan Opera House two years ago, we should never have suffered our present inflection. Whatever vulgarity may have entertained the common mind, the vulgarity of Salome would have been happily forgotten.
Let us try to get over our habit of trying to suppress such things. They always crop up again in various forms to plague the suppressors.—New York Times.

THE WEATHER.

Anybody who has his eye on the weather these days could have told you at 10 o'clock yesterday morning that it was to be a "regular warm un" that day. There was a haze hanging over the landscape, and the sun went at his work as if he'd been up late the day before; his face was red and somewhat sunken, but inside haze was a delicious coolness, like the ice cream in an ice cream soda. It was pretty nice up till noon, then it got HOT, but the haze hung around all day like a mantle of sorrow. That haze means something to us people—bush fires, loss of money to somebody, this lack of rain means something too; a lessened root crop and perhaps an epidemic of sickness in certain quarters. We need rain, and it badly—but the weather man says "fine and warm" for to-day.

TYPEWRITING IN DARK.

Easy Enough for One Who Has Learned to Type Write by the Touch.

The typewriter who has learned to type-write by the touch method does not need to look at the machine in working it. By this method the learner begins and practices on a machine whose keys have no letters on them, simply blank tops, while in front of the learner is placed a reproduction of the keyboard, with all the letters and characters printed on a sheet of paper. The beginner learns the keyboard of the machine from the printed keyboard, and when she has once mastered this she is able to keep her eyes on the notes or copy she is transcribing and keep all the time pounding away on the machine without looking at the keyboard at all. The training that she has received prompts her every time to strike the right key.

streets. The firm have for sale the largest stock of harness, carriages and all kinds of harness offered by any firm in Canada, and owing to the large business transacted they are enabled to sell at the lowest prices. There is nothing in the line of horses and vehicles which is not carried in stock.
The exhibition display is well worthy of the closest attention of all who are interested in the horse and carriage business, but should you be unable to see this exhibit you will be more than repaid by a visit to the Repository, which, with its wide and equi-ment, is one of the largest and best appointed in the country. The Kelly Springfield tire, the first successful rubber tire made, is an inspiration, it is the pioneer among rubber tires, and also there are many limitations, it stands alone for durability, resiliency and all good tire qualities. To appreciate the advantages it enjoys over all other tires, drop in at the Repository.

ter's of the Midway, and be convinced that there is no mystery in the Blasting and Rubbing Machines.

Blistering or burning of veneered, solid or polished wooden surfaces is prevented by the variable speed and pressure of the Blasting and Rubbing Machines, exhibited in machinery hall. A saw can be sanded out without reducing the thickness of the edge.

The "Curry" Safe Popular.

The record of the Curry safe in the company of Buffalo in the process building, which is in charge of Ford & Featherstone of Hamilton, continues to draw many patrons, and the excellence of these safe manufactures as the fair draws to a close. There is a safe exhibited that went thru the terrific Three Rivers fire, preserving its contents absolutely.

Glassblowers' Tent.

Those citizens and citizens' children in Toronto who have not paid a visit to the O. H. Johns tent, had better hurry to-day, for this is the last day of the fair and in all probability no other opportunity of watching the work of these skillful handicrafts will be provided in the city until next exhibition time, when the tent will be found occupying its old place in the line on the midway. This very fact alone is enough to commend the show to that critical class of people who are for ever fearful of being guilted, even by such an avenue of mirth as the midway has proven itself to be this year.

The weaving of the many colored glass and instruction to the crowds who are continually watching the pro- cess. And the wonder grows on one as the delicate and dainty little ob- jects take on shape under the clever manipulation of those skillful fingers.

Glass is a substance which to the mind the average man does not lend itself to the creation of beautiful objects, but the filmy thread as it goes around the spinning wheel is rapidly handled, crossed and recrossed. Different colors are utilized and when at last the completed object is handed out as a souvenir of the fair, the viewer has already considered himself amply repaid for the small outlay of 10 cents, his pleasure and enthusiasm knows no bounds.

To-day is the last day.

The Ravished Watermelon.

I am growing quite big now. You ought to see the handsome stripes that outline my figure.

No place like Georgia. No days like summer days. Nothing like being a watermelon full of poetic sap. Life is indeed joyous.

I feel that I am going to do something great in life; that I will become famous in the history of my race. Perhaps I will be exhibited at a county fair!

"It is a glorious moonlight night. What can equal a moonlight night in Georgia! Parson on canal!"

A cloud obscures the moon.

I seem to hear faintly the rustle of a foot.

I am awake—I hear some stealthy approach—help! help!
