Uraemic Poison Caused Death of Andrew Glick, an Island Resident.

Suddenly taken ill with uraemic poisoning Andrew Glick collapsed in Hobson's boathouse at Spadina avenue yesterday morning and lay in an unconscious condition until 7 o'clock in the evening. He was taken to St. Michael's Hospital in the police ambulance and died at 8.40. Glick was 53 years of age, and resided on the Lake Shore road near Hanlan's Point. Yesterday morning he rowed from the island to the foot of Spadina avenue to his work at the American Watch te his work at the American Watch Company, where he was employed as a foreman. Richard McCloskey, of 607 Spadina avenue, found Glick lying in the boathouse a few feet from where he had tied the boat. Dr. McCormack was called and ordered the man's removal to the hospital. * WAR SUMMARY *

THE DAY'S EVENTS REVIEWED

UT of the chaos of reports coming from Petrograd, few are dependable, except the declaration of martial law in Moscow, the branding of various leading generals as traitors by Kerensky and the fact that General Korniloff is still defiant of the provisional government. The ministry, aitho promising to create Kerensky virtual dictator, has not done so, but continues to hypnotize itself with reassuring statements. Socialist emissaries, however, are endeavoring to suborn the personal allegiance of Korniloff's troops. A regiment of Cossacks, it is said, after learning the facts, has declared for the provisional government. Korniloff has accused the present administration of containing members in the pay of the Germans and under the control of the German general staff. No denial of this charge has come from the ministry. Meanwhile no reports have come thru from general Russian headquarters, where a band of allied press correspondents are awaiting opportunity to file their despatches. Korniloff is working under a strict veil of secrecy.

The Kerensky government appears to have conscripted the services of TWENTY-FIVE ATTESTED General Alexieff to act as chief of staff to Kerensky, who has declared himself generalissimo. The great unwashed of Petrograd appears to act under the advice of some competent experts, giving rise thereby to the suspicions of direction by German general staff officers. From the lack of news Of Seventy-five Men Appearing at from the interior arriving at Petrograd, it would seem that Korniloff has isolated the capital from the rest of the country by the simple process of cutting the telegraph wires. Wireless communication with many points would still continue. As to fighting, it is probably outside of General Korniloff's program to come to blows, but rather to cut off supplies from Petrograd in order to force the administration to capitulate. No armed collision has yet occurred.

The French have captured another village, Pogradets, in the lake region of Macedonia. This point lies on the southwestern bank of Lake Ochrida. Paris reports that the allies have also driven the enemy northward as far as Mumulishta Height, an advance of two and a half miles from Pogradets. Italian troops now hold the bend of the Cerna, instead of the French and the Serbians. This fact shows a redisposition of allied forces. The artillery fighting has become marked in the Monastir region.

The Italians have established positions along the crest of Monte San Gabriele, giving them a lookout to the eastward. The Austrians, according to a Rome bulletin, tried in an attack, as desperate as it was protracted, to dislodge the allies, but they did not succeed and had to fall back to their original positions. The Italians, meanwhile, are fortifying their new line in preparation to hold it against an expected general counter-offensive. Besides Germans, the enemy has brought up Turkish troops for a desperate

. According to a British Admiralty return, the enemy, by mine and submarine has sunk only a dozen ships of over 1600 tons in the past week. against a score in the preceding week. This shows a remarkable decrease in the British shipping losses, and it also shows that German expectations of greatly increasing the destruction of shipping in the present month have failed at the outset. The enemy had slipped a force of U-boats thru the British mine barrier before a British mosquito flotilla sank his minesweepers. The eternal vigilance of the British navy has again foiled the infernal machinations of the enemy. The French, in the past week, have lost only one large ship from submarine attack.

Tranquillity again prevails on the Canadian front at Lens. The Germans are as quiet as mice, while the Canadians have consolidated their positions so well as to defy assault. In going over some captured ground. parties of Dominion men found the body of one of their comrades surrounded by 15 dead Germans. When cut off he had killed them all with bayonet or bomb. This feat establishes a record for the British army.

The President of Argentina, taking action on his own initiative, has ordered the handing of passports to the German legation. This severs relations with Germany, but whether it will lead to open war depends on the Argentine Government. German intrigue has spun a strong web about the country, but Gulliver may awaken and brush the cobwebs away. The Buenos Aires mobs are burning the German club, newspaper and business The British minister at Stockholm has demanded an explanation for the violation of Sweden's promise not to permit German coded messages to pass thru her legations.

Legislation Committee Orange Order Issues Strong Manifesto.

PLEDGE FOR CANDIDATES

Must Undertake to Assist Enforcement of Military Service Act.

The joint legislation committee of the Orange Order in British America has issued the following manifesto:

"Early in the war this order declared itself unanimously and most emphatically as in favor of the enforcement of the Militia Act or some form of compulsory service, and said that the first call should be on young men with no one depending on them, and the next call on single men in families which have made no personal sacrifices in the war. Parliament has passed a Military Service Act which meets our demands. We further asked that all military fit men be prevented from leaving Canada until the close of the war, and that steps be taken to have returned to this Dominion all military fit men who had left the country to escape service. Both of these requests have in a measure been granted by the government.

"We earnestly desired that there should be no elction until after the war. Those politicians who oppose all further Canadian aid to Britain, and who seek purely party ends, even if their plots should mean the dismemberment of the British Empire, have joined forces with all the alien enemies of the land, and have apparently succeded in forcing Canada to a general election.

"An election being thus forced on the country by the scheming politicians, såded by every disloyal element, we most earnestly appeal to every officer and member to vote only for such members seeking re-election as remained faithful to our ideas and voted for the Military Service Act, for the proposed act for the prolongation of the present parliament until after the war, as all parties in France and Britain have so far done, for the bill giving soldiers the vote and for the War-Time Elections Act, which in general meets our requests regarding alien enemies.

"In all other constituencies our votes should only be given to the candidates

"We again ask the Dominion Government to secure from time to time from the British Government a list of men and women in Great Britain and Ireland who have by word, writing, or other overt not impeded or tried to impede the British Government in the conduct of the war, and that all such persons be excluded from this country as undestrables.

"We once more urge on the government:

nent:
1. That all immigration from enemy countries to Canada be prohibited, except under such terms as a treaty of peace at the close of the war may provide.
2. We ask that people born in enemy countries, and their children, be debarred from entering Canada thru neutral or friendly, countries.
