NORD ALEXIS, HAYTI'S DEPOSED PRESIDENT

Story of Bloodthirsty Ruler, Whe Was Driven Into Exile A Year Ago

Gen. Nord Alexis, who was president of Hayti from 1902 to 1908, died in Kingston, Jamaica, yesterday, of extreme old age. Some said that he was more than one hundred years old. Undoubtedly he was ninety, at least. He was exiled to Jamaica when the people of Hayti turned against him and threw him out of the presidency, a little over a year ago.

was held in Toronto in the Normal School munder the amplies of the many least of the

It is hardly doubtful that he was an adherent of the savage African rites. His successor was Gen. Simon, who is still president of Hayti, despite periodical conspiracies.

"We strongly recommend that all hotels be equipped with fire escapes, opening from halls and corridors, and that all rooms be provided with the latest devices in the way of rope for in gaining a temporary victory over the Salomon faction, headed by Presi-

Reign of Blood.

Hayti soon found that Alexis had not forgotten the traditions of his youth. He made himself the head of a rule of militarism. When a man displeased him the president sent around a company of his Falstaffian soldiers, and they attended to that man right on the spot. As late as 1908 the German consul-general asked his country to send warships to awe the bloodthirsty old president, and gave as a reason for the request the fact that sul said that Alexis' soldiers dug graves for those whom they had shot down, and if the graves were not long enough they simply chopped off the corpses' legs. There was no time to dig new graves. Thirty men were killed in one battle before breakfast one morning. An anti-foreign outbreak was threatened, too.

The president lived in barbaric splendor, surrounded by officers who had all they could do to walk about, so laden were they with gold lace. His guards are reported to have been constantly sleeping in the rooms of the comic opera palace, the furnishings of which were imported from abroad at
