BRITISH AND U. S. GUNNERS

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—A special cable to the Sun from London says: "There is great interest in naval circles in the suggestion of Rear-Admiral Beveland of the United States navy for a gunnery competition between picked teams from British and American battleships. It is not denied that there are many good marksmen across the Atlantic, but it is pointed out that the American service target is considerably larger than the British while the Americans do not carry their shooting on the lines of British battle practice, regardless of weather and under conditions such as would prevail in war. Running target practice in the American navy is carried out in smooth water, rendering it much easier to score a large percentage of hits.
