ST. JOHN LADY TELLS

CANCER AND GAIN MADE

A remarkable case of the cure of cancer by means of radium is told by Mrs. J. C. Lake, 88 Pitt street, who recently returned from Boston, where she underwent treatment. She said that her case was described as hopeless from a surgical point of view before going to Boston. She entered a hospital there on November 10, and radium was applied, and in less than a week she was able to leave the hospital very much improved, and has been gradually gaining ever since. Although she has still to take further treatment, Mrs. Lake says that she has been assured of a complete cure, and is delighted with the strides towards health which she has already made.

BURGLARY AT RENFORTH.

Residents of Renforth this morning were shocked to hear that a burglary had occurred within the limits of that village. The store of George N. Colby was broken into, apparently through the front door where the glass had been broken. A quantity of cigarettes, chewing gum, candy and other articles was stolen. The tap on a barrel of cider was opened and the contents of the barrel allowed to run on the floor. Some chickens were moved from the place where they had been left, making it appear that the thief or thieves had intended to take them along, but had been forced to drop them. In addition to this damage the man or men who had broken in made a fire in the stove and burned a lot of Mr. Colby's accounts and papers. A stranger was seen around the station last night and it is said by some that he slept there. This morning he was seen by a railway lineman near Rothesay, about two miles away.

241 FIRE ALARMS DURING THE YEAR

205 on East Side—$110,000 Insurance Loss—Tribute to Deceased Members of Department.

At a common council meeting this morning Commissioner T. Horton of the Public Safety Department, submitted a report of the chief of the fire department for the year ending December 31. The report showed that the department had responded to 241 alarms during the year and that losses paid by insurance companies aggregated $110,000. Sixty of the fires were caused by chimneys and defective flues, while eleven were started by furnaces. The report contained a tribute to the late Charles F. Brown, district engineer in the north end, and also to the late Roy Evans and Walter McKay, who died during the year.

The 241 alarms, 205 were on the east side and thirty-six on the west side; 155 were bell alarms, seventy-seven still alarms and nine were false alarms.

The most serious fires during the year were O. H. Warwick & Co's store and the late Joseph's school. Nearly half the total loss for the year occurred in these two fires.

The cause of the different fires and alarms during the year was as follows:—Chimney fires, thirty-eight; spontaneous, three; self-starters, upset, three; smoke houses, one; set on fire, one; lamp explosions, two; hot ashes, five; films, one; register grates, two; thawing water pipes, two; forge set on floor, one; furnaces, eleven; children with matches, three; boiler explosion, one; cigarettes, one; oil stoves, six; defective flues, twenty-two; auto fires, two; rubbish, seven; painter's torch, one; smoking in bed, two; brush and grass fires, nine; dynamite explosion, one; electric wires, two; overheated stoves, three; fire crackers, one; gasoline, four; false alarms, nine; balance by fire, one.

I again call your attention to my recommendation of last year as to the necessity of a larger number of permittees for the year ending December 31. During this year the department was called upon to maintain the loss of three members, Charles E. Brown, district engineer for the north end, who passed away after a lingering illness, and his place will be difficult to fill. He was a good fireman as ever responded to an alarm, ever ready when duty called, and a kind and genial citizen, always ready to assist the needy. Roy Evans and Walter McKay, both call men, who were active and willing workers. The department tenders to the families of these firemen its deepest sympathies.

COURT HEARS STREET CAR CASE

Howard Peck charged with exceeding the speed limit in Main street on Jan. 13 in an electric car, pleaded not guilty.

James McKinney testified that he was in a sled coming down Main street and near the head of Long Wharf he turned out to pass a sled loading snow. The electric car, driven by the defendant, he said, hit the sled causing some damage. He heard no bell and was willing to swear that no bell had been sounded.

Charles Rowe said he was also in the sled when it was struck by the car in the team. The street car hit it without warning. He saw the car just before it struck the sled and it was going about twenty-five miles an hour. The driver was thrown out and hurt and Mr. McKinney threw out.

John Ellis said he saw the team in Main street and a little later saw a street car, driven by the defendant, traveling along the street at such a rate that it drew his attention. He heard no bell.

Peck said he saw the sled in front of him when he was going along Main street. He sounded the bell when the sled turned out into the tracks about a length and a half ahead of him and put on the emergency brake but the back of the vehicle slewed and he couldn't stop in time to avoid a collision. He was going about four or five miles an hour when he hit the sled.

Another Street Car Case.

How far can the "gentle murmur" of a St. John street car be heard? This was one of the posers put by Dr. F. R. Taylor, K. C., to a witness in the circuit court before Mr. Justice Crockett this morning. It was during the hearing of the case of Canack vs. the New Brunswick Power Co., an action for damages resulting from a collision between a street car of the defendant company and a jitney owned by the plaintiff, in Douglas avenue last fall. Mr. Taylor represented the company, and D. Mullin, K. C., the plaintiff.

John McAdam, the only witness heard this morning, told of seeing the accident in which the plaintiff's car was damaged. He said that it was possible to hear the street car two or three blocks away, and his statement that it was making the usual noise of a St. John street car caused a smile to spread over the features of the court, the contending lawyers and the several spectators. He was unable to say, however, how the noise compared with the usual run of cars. The case will be continued this afternoon.

POLICE COURT

One man charged with being drunk, pleaded guilty and was remanded. Pedro Merveto pleaded guilty to a charge of being a common vagrant and having no visible means of support. He was remanded.

The four young fellows who were committed for trial yesterday on a charge of stealing a horse and sled from John Kelly, this morning faced a charge of intent to commit a felony in connection with their trespassing on the property of the C. N. R. about a week ago. N. R. Constables Morrissey and Barden gave evidence and the case was postponed until Friday at 2:30 o'clock. K. J. MacIsaac appeared for two of the defendants and L. A. Conlon for one of the others.

NOT THIS MAN.

John Currie of the LaTour Hotel wishes it known that he was not the man of that name mentioned as a deserter from the R. C. G. A.
