HOW TO SUCCEED

During the last few years, conditions in all lines of business, even professional life, have changed so completely that every man is waking up to the fact that in order to win success he must specialize and learn to do some one thing and do it well. So it is with any article that is sold to the people. It must have genuine merit or no amount of advertising will maintain the demand for the article.

For many years we have watched with much interest the success of the "Remedy" sustained by Dr. K. Miller & Co., the great kidney, liver and blood purifier. From the very beginning the proprietors had so much confidence in their product that they invited every one to test it free of cost, before purchasing.

It is a physician's prescription. They have on file thousands of letters received from sufferers who are now enjoying good health as a result of its use.

However, if you wish first to try a sample bottle, address Dr. K. Miller & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and mention this paper. They will gladly forward you a sample bottle by mail, absolutely free. Regular size for sale at all druggists in Canada—75c. and $1.25.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

"Clon hath a million acres,
N'er a one have I;
Clon dwelleth in a palace,
In a cottage, I;
Clon hath a dozen fortunes,
Not a penny I;
Yet the poorer of the twain is
Clon and not I.
Clon, true, possesseth acres,
But the landscape I;
Half the charms to me it yieldeth
Money cannot buy."

INDIGESTION AND ALL STOMACH MISERY IS ENDED

Diapiesin Makes Your Out-Order Stomach Feel Fine in Five Minutes

Nothing will remain undigested or sour on your stomach if you will take a little Diapiesin occasionally. This powerful digestive and antacid, though as harmless and pleasant as candy, will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you can eat.

Eat what your stomach craves, without the slightest fear of indigestion or that you will be bothered with sour risings, belching, gas on stomach, heartburn, headaches from indigestion, bad breath, water brash, or anything else you might expect from a simple, light, and other disagreeable ailments. Should you be suffering from indigestion or sour stomach, you can get relief in five minutes.

If you will get from your pharmacist on your next visit, a box of Diapiesin could always be kept handy to relieve a hearty appetite, and your meals would taste good, because you would be free from indigestion or sour risings, heartburn, or headaches on the next day; and, besides, you would not need laxatives or liver pills to keep your stomach and bowels clean and fresh.

Diapiesin can be obtained from your druggist, and contains more than sufficient to thoroughly cure the worst case of indigestion or dyspepsia. There is nothing better for Gas on the Stomach or sour odors from the stomach or to cure a Stomach Headache.

You couldn't keep a handier or more useful article in the house.

WHITE'S RESTAURANT SOLD TO J. H. BOND AND VICTOR SCOTT

White's restaurant and the business of the White Catering Company in King Street, are to be taken over on Monday next by J. H. Bond, manager of the Dufferin Hotel, and Victor Scott, chief clerk at the Dufferin. The restaurant is in future to be known as Bond's, and is to be made high class in every particular, according to the new proprietors who are to pay special attention to small dinner parties and banquets, and who are to have a thoroughly up-to-date soda water and ice cream department with full confectionery supplies.

Neither Mr. Bond, who has had a wide experience in the hotel business, at the Victoria, Carvel Hall, and the Dufferin, nor Mr. Scott, who has been in the Dufferin staff for ten years, and who is very favorably known to the travelling public, will leave the hotel, but the restaurant will be in the hands of a capable manager.

BROWNIES

Two and one-half cups of graham flour, 2 cups white flour, 2 cups brown sugar, 1 cup melted butter, 2 eggs, 2 table-spoons sour milk, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 dessert-spoon of ground cinnamon.

Beat eggs, add sugar, 1 pound dissolved, hardily covered with water. Cook for short time. When cool put a spoonful of iron frying pans that has been rubbed over with a piece of fat pork.

GRIDDLE CAKES

Soak stale bread a few hours in cold water, then squeeze out until you have a cupful. Beat two eggs, pinch of salt and 1 teaspoon of milk in a bowl; beat well. Add 1 cup flour, 1 teaspoonful of baking powder, 1 tablespoon melted butter. Drop a spoonful at a time on a hot griddle or an iron frying pan that has been rubbed over with a piece of fat pork.

HOW TO BROIL STEAK

Trim the steak, cutting out a portion of the suet. Place the steak in a wire broiler, and if you use coal or wood, put it very near the fire. Have a good clear fire. First sear it on one side, then turn and sear it on the other. Then lift it at least six inches from the fire and broil more quickly, turning it two or three times. If the steak is one inch thick broil it for eight minutes; if an inch and a half thick, broil it for 12 minutes; if two inches, for 20 minutes. Season when done.

NO TROUBLE AT ALL

"May I trouble you to pass the H. P.?" How many times in one day does the simple request go round the tables of those happy people who have been acquainted with H. P. and know all its distinctive and good qualities.

It is no trouble at all to pass the H. P. provided that you know it will comfort you again, otherwise it is a man sacrifice not to be demanded by a man with a discriminating taste for the best. H. P. Sauer is the best in the world. Its flavors are the combined expressions of choicest Oriental fruits and spices and pure malt vinegar. It is born out by the letters "H. P." on a picture of the British House of Parliament upon the bottle, is worth subscribing by every man and woman who desires to taste, for the first time, a perfectly delicious sauce.

La MARQUISE de FONTENAY

The Divorce Case of The Dillons - Culling Out Shams from British Museum - The Spanish Pretender

(Copyright, 1911, by the Brentwood Company.)

Viscount Dillon's only son and heir, Harry Lee Dillon, formerly an officer of the Rifle Brigade, offered no defence in the suit for divorce brought against him by his wife, the daughter of a surgeon of Crawley, in Sussex. The marriage, was at no time a happy one, and resulted in the husband leaving his wife three years ago. There is only a little girl, now four years old, born to the union, and it is probable that as soon as the divorce is made absolute, Harry Lee Dillon will marry again; this time a woman of his own world, and thus prevent the vicarious and estates from going to his cousin, Arthur Lee Dillon, of the Travellers' Club.

In the event of his marrying again, however, he will be obliged to abandon the Roman Catholic church, to which he became a convert some years ago, since it does not recognize or tolerate divorce.

His father, Lord Dillon, is the seventh viscount of his line among the treasures of his ancestral home at Ditchley Park, in Oxfordshire, are a number of fine implements found on the site of the Virginian town which takes its name of Ditchley Park from his country seat. It was while visiting Ditchley, Va., some thirty odd years ago, that he made the acquaintance of a Canadian girl, Miss Julia Stanton, who became his first love. He has royal blood in his veins; for among his ancestors, is Lady Litchfield, the illegitimate daughter of Charles II. She was indeed one of the former chateaux of Ditchley Park, where all the Marrie Monarch's confidential correspondents with her as still preserved, in an antique, brass-bound chest. English sovereigns have been entertained at Ditchley Park, notably Queen Elizabeth, and the grand paneling of the billiard room is still adorned with several pieces of red cloth, shot in 1688 and 1610, by James I, and by his son Henry, Prince of Wales, in Ditchley Park.

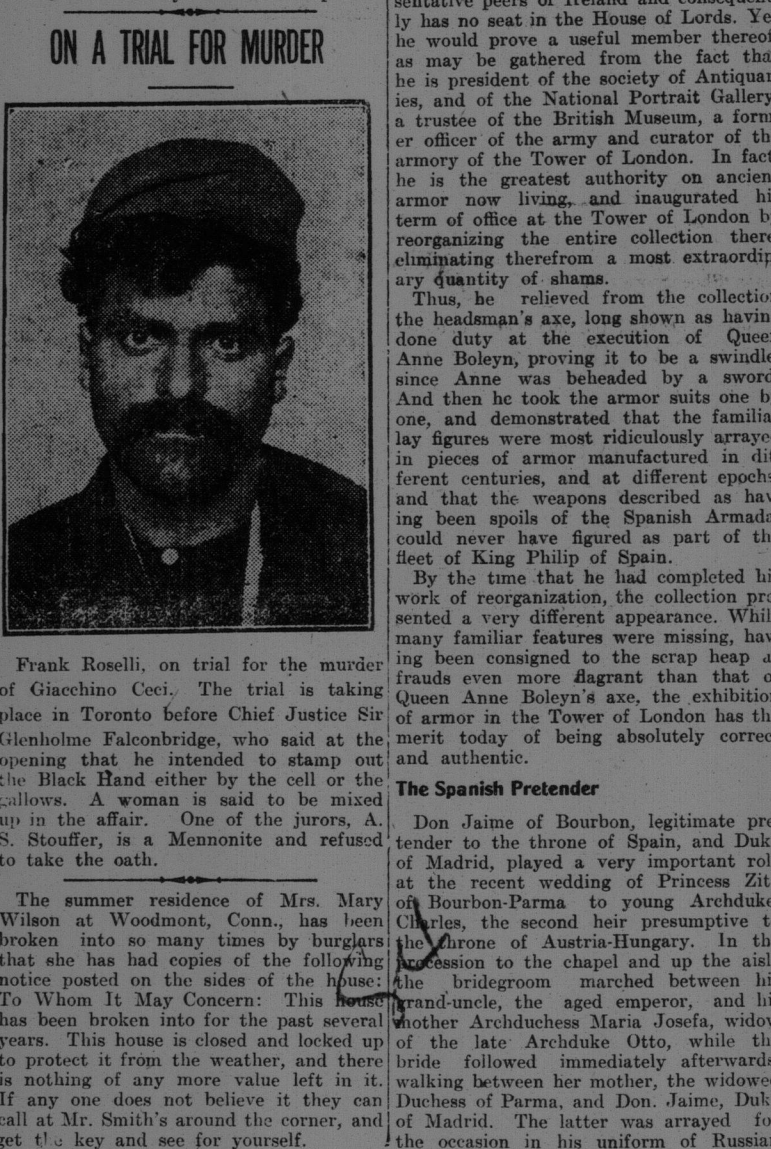

James was pleased with Ditchley and with its owner, then Sir Theobald Dillon, that he bestowed upon him the Irish viscountcy of Dillon, and the title of Earl of County Mayo. Lord Dillon, however, although his peacetime in Ireland, as a soldier and an Englishman, that he has never been elected as one of the representative peers of Ireland and consequently has no seat in the House of Lords. Yet he would prove a useful member thereof, as may be gathered from the fact that he is president of the Society of Antiquaries, and of the National Portrait Gallery, a trustee of the British Museum, a former officer of the army and curator of the armoury of the Tower of London. In fact, he is the greatest authority on ancient armor now living, and inaugurated his term of office at the Tower of London by reorganizing the entire collection there, eliminating therefrom a most extraordinary quantity of shams.

Thus, he relieved from the collection the helmet and surcoat shown as having done duty at the execution of Queen Anne Boleyn, proving it to be a swindle, since Anne was beheaded by a sword. And then he took the armor suits one by one, and demonstrated that the familiar figures were most miserably arrayed in pieces of armor manufactured in different centuries, and at different epochs, and that the armor was in fact, having been spoils of the Spanish Armada, could never have figured as part of the dress of King Philip of Spain.

By the time that he had completed his work of reorganization, the collection presented a very different appearance. While many familiar features were missing, having been assigned to the scrap heap as shams, even more magnificent than that of Queen Anne Boleyn's axe, the exhibition of armor in the Tower of London has the merit today of being absolutely correct and authentic.

The Spanish Pretender

Don Jaime of Bourbon, legitimate pretender to the throne of Spain, and Duke of Madrid, played a very important role at the recent wedding of Princess Zita of Bourbon-Parma to young Archduke Charles, the second heir presumptive to the throne of Austria-Hungary. In the procession to the chapel and up the aisle the bridegroom marched behind his father, the aged emperor, and his brother Archduke Maria Josefa, widow of the late Archduke Otto, while the bride followed immediately afterwards, in walking between her mother, the widowed Duchess of Parma, and Don Jaime, Duke of Salaparuta, who had arrayed for the occasion in his uniform of Russian tor, Nov. 11—The Ontario government has appointed Rev. J. E. Starr, Allandale, Ont., a commissioner with powers of a police magistrate to constitute a juvenile court for Toronto, and the federal government has been asked to proclaim the Juvenile Delinquents Act in force in this city. Toronto will deal with all children offenders under 14 and the city will pay the new commission $2,000 a year. Toronto has had a child's court for years, but hitherto out of the police magistrates has presided.

John Adams, 88 years old and the oldest voter in Holdon, cast his 70th straight Democratic ballot Tuesday. Dexter F. Spenser, 67, cast his 75th ballot that town for Governor. He is five years old and has always voted either a Whig or a Republican.
