

How many will you kiss tonight?
Are you prepared?
Will the sweet baby lips of your little ones taste stale tobacco on yours?
Or do you carry the breath purifying, teeth preserving, appetite sharpening, digestion aiding gum?
Don't forget. Make your kisses pleasant to give and to receive with this fragrant confection.

Buy it by the Box of any dealer. It costs less.

Look for the spear.

WRIGLEY'S SPEARMINT GUM LASTS

The flavor lasts

The Evening Chit-Chat
By RUTH CAMERON

Did anyone ever, I wonder, wait at a meeting place for a tardy friend, without passing through three distinct states of mind?

The first state of mind is one of irritation. "She is always late," you think as you consult your watch; "I will never promise to meet her again. I suppose she'll have some story of the car being slow, for she always does. There's no sense in it. She ought to allow for that when she starts."

How long this state of mind lasts depends upon your previous experience with your friend's capriciousness for tardiness. In ordinary cases it would endure from five to ten minutes. At the end of that time, irritation gives place to an entirely new feeling.

This new state of mind, as of course you know if you have ever waited for anyone, is a growing wonder if you point to the clock and say, "I remember thinking that they had a nice waiting room in here." Could it have been half past three instead of half past two?" is the next question.

"No," you assure yourself, "because she never could have come at five. Still that would be just like her. I've a good mind to telephone. But if I go away from here she'll be sure to come and think I've given her up. Oh, dear, why must she always be late!"

The third state of mind sets in earlier or later according to the temperament of the waiter. But half an hour of waiting almost always brings to the average person the apprehension that something has happened to the missing one. "Could she have been run over?" These automobile accidents are so common nowadays. Can she be sick? Can it be that her mother is worse? She looked real miserable the last time I was there and she's liable to happen to her mother. She depends on her mother so much—"so much" is the current of your thought, and so probable does this entirely groundless worry, proportionately relieved when you see Lucy's familiar figure hurrying towards you.

"Your car broke down?" you respond to her breathless explanation. "Nonsense! you do have the wheel. I was getting real worried about you. How's your mother? Well, I guess you wouldn't say so if you were me. I felt that something must be the matter. I never waited quite so long before. How's your mother?" so you have had the come in that first ten or fifteen minutes.

It is the moral, to be half an hour late if you must be late at all. No, if there's any moral, it's just this—you haven't made a mistake in the time or of her family place; she hasn't been run over or taken suddenly ill; no member of her family has died; she's just late, as she has been before, and will be again. So next time don't fret and worry. Just sit and read a book or paper, and remember this little talk, and possess your soul in patience.

Will I do the same? I'll try to, my friend. That's the best I can promise.

SONS OF ENGLAND WANT BUILDING

A project for the erection of a building for the sons of England of this city was laid before the members of Marlborough Lodge at a smoker in their rooms in Charlotte street last night. The matter will be voted on at a meeting on April 25.

At last night's meeting a resolution of condolence and sympathy for the survivors and the relatives of those lost on the Titanic was adopted and ordered forwarded to the White Star Line through the lieutenant-governor.

About three hundred were in attendance.

La MARQUISE de FONTENOY
The Emperor of Germany and His Three Cousins—The Marriage of One To Marie Sulzer

(Copyright, 1912, by the Brentwood Company)

Emperor William is gradually developing a more friendly attitude towards his cousin, the three sons of the late Grand Duke Albert, who died as a sovereign prince of the Duchy of Brunswick. He did not like any of them. The best one of the lot was the youngest, who was not only permitted to retain his commission in the army and all his military distinction, but had entrusted to him the administration of the colossal fortune which had been bequeathed to the three princes by their parents. Their mother was a sister of the extremely rich house of Saxe-Altenburg.

The eldest of the three princes, Frederick Henry by name, a man now of about forty years of age, and colorfully tall, became involved in certain matters and on the report of the emperor's administration, he was compelled to hand in the resignation of his commission. For a German prince to do this was a disgrace. About a year ago it was announced that he was traveling in the south of Italy, with a French priest. The members of this Order are celebrated all over the world for their skill in the rescue of men, especially in the latter class of society, who have gone astray. They will deserve no small credit and the profound gratitude and good will of all the members of the reigning house of Hohenzollern if they succeed in their task.

The second brother is perhaps the most gifted of all three. He was christened Joachim Albert, and is about thirty-six years of age. His quarrel with the Kaiser, with his military superiors, and with all his relatives has been going to a peculiar plane, under rather strange circumstances. It is an episode which has been portrayed in the comic papers and on the opera stage. Prince Joachim Albert is now staying at Marienbad, under the name of "Count Hohenzollern." His wife, who is his morganic consort, is the Baroness Marie von Liebenberg, formerly known as Marie Sulzer, a favorite of the Kaiser at the time he was in Berlin. It is for her sake that he is an exile from the precincts of his birth, and shares of his prerogatives as a prince of the blood, for Germany's diplomatic representatives have been directed to prevent, at the various courts to which they are accredited, his recognition, as well as that of his eldest brother, Frederick Henry, a Prussian prince.

There is a curious story connected with Prince Joachim's marriage. His father gave a will which directed that if he married an actress, or any woman not of noble rank, he would be deprived of nine-tenths of his share of the estate. The will neglected to provide that this inheritance should be divided into a trust fund of his share, the trust to remain permanently operative after the testator's death, and the division of the estate.

The consequence was that when, not long afterwards the old duke died, the nine-tenths of Joachim Albert's share of the fortune, he at once commenced legal proceedings to effect his share, and won his case. When Joachim Albert thereupon still further defied the Kaiser, and the Kaiser's wrath was kindled, he was found guilty at once subjected to the same penalties as those inflicted on his brother, Frederick Henry.

The only part of the punishment which the prince really feels at all is the loss of the capital, for he enjoys himself much more when traveling about Europe, and is making his headquarters at the Hotel de Ville, being generally subject to the somewhat stern discipline of his by no means easy-going cousin, Emperor William.

"I have mentioned that he goes by the name of Count Hohenzollern to one of the queer arrangements by which his wife came to be Baroness von Liebenberg. It seems to be taking a long time in dying, Joachim Albert and his fiancée became impatiently waiting for the marriage to be consummated. But that clause in the will forbidding him to marry any woman but a lady of rank, stood in the way. Accordingly, Marie Sulzer left the stage, and a penniless Austrian nobleman named Baron Victor von Liebenberg undertook, for a substantial consideration, to wed Marie Sulzer in London, and to have her at the church door, afterwards giving her a nuptial present in the highest terms of the esteem in which Mr. MacKeigan was held not only by his own people but by the whole community, as a man, a preacher, a pastor, and a citizen. Rev. A. McMillan, who assisted at the communion on the preceding day, was present and contributed his quota to the social in a short address. Smiles and secret tears followed the quick succession as the different speakers made humorous remarks or alluded to their pastor's parting with them. Mr. McCleod, the treasurer, presented Mr. MacKeigan, in behalf of the congregation, with a valuable gold watch and chain, as a memento of his first church and an expression of their good will and appreciation of the excellent work he did amongst them during his short pastorate.

"Mr. MacKeigan replied in suitable terms, in which he mentioned the great kindness of the people to him and his gratitude for the handsome gift presented at the close of his pastorate. It would be difficult to imagine how the people could do more than they did, to show their high estimation of their pastor's services.

"Mr. MacKeigan's many friends regret that he is leaving his native island, but are glad that he is remaining within the bound of synd.

THEIR FAREWELL TO REV. J. A. MACKEIGAN

A Marion Bridge letter to the Sydney Post tells of the farewell to Rev. J. A. MacKeigan, on leaving to come to St. David's church in St. John. It says: "A social meeting was held in the basement of the church on the following evening to give the people an opportunity to say farewell to a large number gathered including Sabbath school children. A leading member of the Episcopal church acted as chairman. The ladies contributed their full share to the entertainment by providing a luncheon and regaling the audience with vocal and instrumental music.

"Addresses were made by several gentlemen, each vying with the other in extolling the highest terms the esteem in which Mr. MacKeigan was held not only by his own people but by the whole community, as a man, a preacher, a pastor, and a citizen. Rev. A. McMillan, who assisted at the communion on the preceding day, was present and contributed his quota to the social in a short address. Smiles and secret tears followed the quick succession as the different speakers made humorous remarks or alluded to their pastor's parting with them. DELIGHTFUL PLAYS
Rare Opportunity of Seeing the Best Plays Ably Presented.

This afternoon Helen Grayce presents, at the Opera House, a most interesting version of the famous Brontë novel Jane Eyre. This evening, A Royal Romance. Much interest is being directed towards the matinee of Romeo and Juliet, tomorrow. Miss Grayce gives a truly wonderful portrayal of the famous character and the fact that scholars will be admitted to all parts of the house for 10 cents and that the performance will not commence until 3 o'clock, makes it specially inviting. The Gift of the Golden West, Friday night, and Saturday will be the powerful production of DeLoane's greatest play.

Daily Hints For the Cook

VEAL OMELET
One cup cold roast veal, chopped fine; season with pepper, salt and a dash of paprika, then tuck it between the folds of an omelet and pour over it a cup of hot, well seasoned tomato sauce. Serve hot.

RAISIN BREAD
One and a half cups liquid (milk water or half of each), 1-4 cup molasses, 1 yeast cake, level teaspoon of hard, 1-2 of a nutmeg. 3-4 cup of raisins, 5 level cups of flour. Let rise over night and bake same as plain bread.

GOOD CHEAP CUT OF BEEF
Have your butcher roll four pounds of flank beef and do it firmly; put in pot with boiling water to cover; add salt, half cup vinegar, dozen whole cloves, dozen peppercorns, salt until tender and let stand in liquor overnight. This slices nicely and is delicious as well as cheap.

PYRAMID BREAD
Bor gelatine soaked in a half pint of cold water. When soft pour over it a pint of boiling water; add pint of sugar, the juice of two lemons, can of sliced pine-apple cut fine; cook in another kettle of boiling water for 15 minutes. Put into greased pan and cool. Delicious when sliced and eaten with rich cream.

Delicious White Bread

MARRIED AT EIGHTY-SEVEN
Sweethearts of Childhood Wed as Life Draws to Close

South Norwalk, Conn., April 18—A romance of eighty years, during which they had separated, married and had children, reached its climax this week, when Mrs. Nancy Jane Elwood and James W. Benedict, both eighty-seven years old, were married here. Happy as juveniles, even in their eighty years, they went to and from school, hand in hand, the boy carrying the books. But one melancholy day the boy laughed at the girl's rag doll and the childish romance was shattered. Both married in time and reared families. Mrs. Benedict is a great-grandmother of many times and Mr. Benedict is a great grandfather.

Mrs. Elwood became a widow many years ago, but it was not until last year that Mr. Benedict became free to make a second selection.

"It's never too late to mend or wed," said the blushing bride today. Those are my sentiments exactly," replied the bridegroom as he dipped down in his trousers and pulled out the ring, which forty-eight years before he had used for a similar purpose.

The ceremony took place at the rectory of Trinity Episcopal church, being performed by the Rev. F. A. Coleman.

ONE MILLION DOLLARS FOR A GOOD STOMACH

This Offer Should Be a Warning to Every Man and Woman

The newspapers and medical journals recently have had much to say relative to the famous millionaire's offer of a million dollars for a new stomach.

This great multi-millionaire was too busy to worry about the condition of his stomach. He allowed his dyspepsia to run from bad to worse until in the end it became incurable.

His misfortune serves as a warning to others.

Every one who suffers with dyspepsia for a few years will give everything he owns for a new stomach.

Dyspepsia is commonly caused by an abnormal state of the gastric juices, or by lack of tone in the walls of the stomach. The result is that the stomach loses its power to digest food.

It is now able to supply certain missing elements to help to restore to the gastric juices their digestive power, and to aid in making the stomach strong and well.

I know that Beal's Dyspepsia Tablets are a most dependable remedy for dined, dined stomachs, indigestion and dyspepsia. I want you to try them and will return your money if you are not more than satisfied with the result.

Three sizes, 25 cents, 50 cents, and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain Beal's Remedy from the local community only at my store.

Tone Up the Hair From Root to Tip

(Mrs. Rohrer in Style and Fashion)

"Many women cannot wash the hair for reasons of health—all find it inconvenient to do so at times. These can prepare a shampoo powder at home that will make the hair clean, fresh and glossy."

Mix four ounces of tincture with four ounces of cold water. Sprinkle a little of this mixture on the head once a week and brush it thoroughly through the hair. It is particularly good to use when the hair is dusty, dull or greasy, and no other shampoo or tonic is necessary.

"Tincture" has beneficial properties that make the hair grow and preserve its natural color. A shampoo powder made at home has a delicate perfume and makes the hair beautifully soft and fluffy. It is non-greasy, refreshing and revitalizing."

ELECTED A DIRECTOR.

Charles R. Watson last evening received word from Toronto that he had been elected a director for the maritime provinces of the United Drug Company, Limited, which handles the Beal's remedies. The second annual convention is now being held at the King Edward Hotel, Toronto.

"Usin' TIZ Gramma?"

"Yes, Harold, it Makes Grandma's Feet Feel Just Like Yours, Free From Tiredness, Aches and Cramps"

"Your papa and mamma, your grandpa and your grandma all use TIZ, Harold. And you'll use it, too, when you get to be a man. Then your feet will never hurt, or get tired. That's why we all use TIZ."

Most of us get old, feel first. The bunions get stale, more weariness and pain. Corns get harder and more stubborn as the feet become more tender. At a time when old people need their feet most, they can use them less—unless they use TIZ.

If you have never used TIZ before, your first use of it will bring back some of your girlhood days. TIZ will make your feet feel young, strong and vigorous. They'll never be tender, never chafe or ache, never get blistered or swollen, and your corns, bunions and callouses will be no more. Nothing will do it or can do it like TIZ. Don't experiment with other things; other people have done that for you and they are all now using TIZ.

TIZ acts on a new principle—draws out all the poisonous exudations that make feet troubles.

TIZ, 25 cents a box, sold everywhere, or sent direct, on receipt of price, by Walter Luther Dodge & Co., Windsor, Ont. Recommended by all Drug Stores, department and general stores.
