CYANIDE USED TO KILL DOGS HERE

Analysis Shows Cause of Death of One of the Animals

An analysis of the contents of the stomach of one of the dogs which were poisoned last week in North End shows that the belief of the owners was well-founded that there was justifiable ground for their assertions that their pets had been deliberately killed.

It developed that the little animal had died through swallowing cyanide of potassium, a deadly poison, and sudden in its effects. This was the poison used in Boston a few months ago in a murder case which attracted the attention of the reading world for some time. So far it has not been possible to trace the identity of the mysterious person who administered the poison.

NEW MINERAL FOUND ON FARM IN CHARLOTTE

A. R. Lomax Holds Discovery as Worth Lot of Money—Analysis Made and There Will Be Another

A new mineral has been discovered by A. R. Lomax of New River, Charlotte County. The substance to which no name has yet been given, he believes promises to be a very valuable find. An analysis, made by M. V. Padlock of this city, and confirmed by analytical chemists in Fredericton and New York, shows a large percentage of iron combined with silica, alumina and potash with trace of magnesia. The New York chemist also found a trace of copper. The material is soft and crumbles to a mass readily into a smooth velvety powder. In the ground it was almost silver white in appearance, but when exposed to the air and dried it becomes a very pretty purplish violet.

It has been pronounced by experts as of great value as a base for paints and metal polish. There appears to be a very large deposit of the mineral around New River. Mr. Lomax made the discovery on his own property, where he found a vein five inches thick and also traced the outcroppings of the vein all over an area of at least a square mile. After the first analysis was made and his opinion of its value was confirmed, Mr. Lomax took steps to protect his interests by securing the mineral rights for the adjoining properties as well as on his own. He has already been offered a substantial sum for his rights but is holding out for something in six figures. Mr. Padlock is leaving for New York with a sample of the material to submit it to other experts and to get their opinion on it.

The discovery of the material was made quite by accident. Mr. Lomax was out gunning for duck along the shore about a month ago when he slipped and dislodged a section of a mass, revealing what he thought at first would prove a copper mine. He secured a sample and sent it to St. John to be tested and the results were such that he is looking forward to an affluent future.

SAID HE WAS A POLICEMAN; WAS TAKEN TO COURT

Elmer McLean Early in the Streets on Private Business—Today's Police Court

Six prisoners arraigned before Magistrate Ritchie in the police court this morning, five of them charged with drunkenness. Two of the detainees were women, and they both pleaded guilty to the charge. They were sent to serve a term at the Good Shepherd's Home. Two others were fined $5 or thirty days in jail, and one $2 or five days in jail. Elmer McLean, aged 24, charged with wandering about the streets between three and four o'clock this morning, and not being able to give a satisfactory account of himself, was remanded to jail. The court ordered that he be examined as to his sanity. McLean told the court that he had private business to do at three o'clock this morning. He would not divulge the nature of his business.

Policeman Lomas told the court that McLean had told him that he was a policeman and had a right to be in the street at that time. About a year ago he was arrested on the same charge, and was sent back to his home in Pennfield, N. B.

A case against John Jacobson, reported for obstructing Pond street, stands till Saturday.

Case Against Wallace Stevens Brings Comment From Court—Wife's Testimony Lightens Sentence

A case that occupied considerable time was that of Mrs. Margaret Whelan against Wallace Stevens. Mrs. Whelan charged Stevens with assault, and the defendant pleaded not guilty. S. E. Morrell appeared for the defence. The complainant is a sister-in-law of the defendant, and the assault was said to have been committed while the complainant and the defendant's wife were following him, when he was with another woman. Mrs. Whelan in her testimony, said that while out walking with her sister, Mrs. Stevens, they saw the defendant with another woman in Stanley street. Mrs. Whelan alleged that Stevens struck her and knocked her down and also used bad language to her.

Mrs. Stevens was the next witness, but instead of giving evidence for the prosecution, gave it favorable to her husband. She stated that her husband had struck her sister or used bad language to her. She admitted that Stevens threatened to strike her if she continued to follow him.

Stevens, on the stand, denied striking Mrs. Whelan or using bad language. His Honor gave him a reprimand for being out walking with other women, and told him that if it had not been for his wife's evidence, he would have sent him into jail without a fine. He was fined $20 or two months in jail.

His Honor in summing up the case said that there was too much of that kind of thing going on nowadays, husbands running around with other women, or wives running around with other men. "The thing has to be stopped," said His Honor, "and if some of them are brought before me they will be sent to jail without a fine."
