A STRANGE ANIMAL.

Mr. F. Knox, of Oakland, Brant county, has discovered an animal of which he does not know the name. He writes: "I wish to communicate with the manager of a zoological garden." I have caught a very peculiar animal, crossed between a groundhog and some other animal, no one seems to know what it is about the size of a groundhog, only longer, white, with a very little white hair, or wool, head like a groundhog, tail like a rat or white pig, front feet like the hands and hind feet like the feet of a person. This is the best description I can give. It was dug out of the ground about June 17th. Mr. Knox asks for the address of the manager of some zoological garden.

A SHORT CROP.

Norwich Gazette: Ex-Reeve C. W. Carroll's experiences in thrashing out 1,135 bushels of wheat last year as against a probable 135 this year about illustrates the general condition of the wheat crop for this season. Our farmers are not grumbling, however, for two fairly good seasons, one being perhaps that it is not much use grumbling anyway, and the other being the fact that their crop has been abundant and corn and many other products are doing their best to make up for the deficiency of the wheat crop.

NOTICE TO LADIES.

Ladies wanted to learn dress-making in two weeks; none but good sewers need apply. I will give $10 to any one that can show me an article in dress-making they can't make after learning. I have taught over seventy girls this way, offered $10 to each, but not one could take it. Is there any wonder that not half the girls that learn can even make a wrapper after they are through. When you hem and bustle six months in a shop, then get from two to four hours for your system. This way you must be good sewers to begin with, and instead of three to four hours, you get six days from eight o'clock till six to learn, not one that can show me an article in dress-making. Every one can make a dress before paying. Ladies that I have taught have told me months after that they would not take $50 for what they learnt in the two weeks. Of course some people will say it can't be done. Well, the ones who have never learnt don't know anything about it and the ones who have it and say it can't be done don't know as much as they ought to. I have taught girls who have started a shop for themselves within a week or two after learning, and I have also taught quite a few that have been in shops from six to nine months and couldn't make anything. Remember it won't cost you anything to try and if you fail I will give you $10 for your trouble. I will teach in Ingersoll from the 2nd to 14th of September. All wishing to learn call at my rooms, first rooms upstairs, King street east, from Richardson's jewelry store, on Saturday, Aug. 31st, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Buffalo Evening News says that the peach crop is estimated at 75,000,000 bushels, or about a bushel apiece to every person in the United States and thinks that the deficit in potatoes will not be noticed, with peaches in abundance and reasonable in price. Whether this is correct or not, it is certain that at present prices peaches are an expensive article of food, and unless the late crop turns out better, will be so throughout the season.

A professor of hygienic science recently, after telling how certain diseases are propagated by the contact of flies, remarked with we presume, just a twitch of humor at the corner of his mouth, that the moral of his instructions was not to let flies breed, to keep them out of sick rooms and on no account to let them touch food. Any one who has frankly but unsuccessfully fought the single fly that for the forty-first time settled down, as before, on the same bare spot, will find these suggestions very witty, says The Montreal Witness. We have been a little surprised, we must confess, with the hopefulness of men of science who, in their delight at finding out how malaria and yellow fever and elephant foot are communicated by no-pests, seem to hope for a rapid extirpation of these diseases by the extirpation of the mosquito, say from the swamps about Sierra Leone or by its exclusion from houses. There would seem to have been incentive enough in times past, even without this knowledge, to extirpate the mosquito or to exclude her. The celebrated Jersey variety may not be a messenger of malaria, but she does inoculate many with what is far worse, namely, profanity, and she does render some of the best situated real estate in the world almost valueless. Last week she or her cousin almost drove New York crazy. Why not begin on the Jersey sort?

DEATH OF MRS. T. S. PATON.

The Toronto Mail gives the following particulars of Mrs. Paton's death, reference to which was made in the Chronicle yesterday:
 Mrs. S. T. Paton, who resided at 106 Slater street, died very suddenly last evening. About 10 o'clock Mrs. Paton was sitting talking to a friend. The friend noticed that Mrs. Paton was taking no part in the conversation, and on going over to where she sat, discovered that she was unconscious. Dr. Pollard was hastily called, but he was unable to do anything, and about 7 o'clock Mrs. Paton expired. The deceased lady was about 60 years of age. For some years past she had been troubled with heart disease, and the last few days in particular she had complained of feeling unwell. Drs. Pollard and McCollum had been attending her of late, but they apprehended no immediate danger.

Mr. Paton, who travels for the Williams, Herbert Company, of Collingwood, was not in town at the time. He was made acquainted by telephone last night, and will arrive in the city this morning. All Mrs. Paton's relatives reside in Chicago.

DALTON CONFESSES.

Woodstock, Ont., Aug. 7.—Thomas Dalton, Wm. Morgan and Charles Farmer, the three youths charged with committing three burglaries here on the morning of July 20th, have been committed for trial. Before Morgan and Farmer were arrested they exchanged shots with the police. When the magistrate was about to commit the prisoners for trial, Crown Attorney Hall created a sensation by announcing that one of the prisoners, Dalton, had confessed to the three burglaries. Dalton was prepared to plead guilty, and already had made a complete confession to himself, which he had down in black and white. Dalton was prepared to give evidence against his pals if necessary. It seems that Dalton, who belongs to St. Thomas, has been influenced by his mother in the step he has taken. He has been kept from the other two men at the jail, and when his mother came down here from St. Thomas a few days ago she easily persuaded him to make a clean breast of it. Dalton gave his age as sixteen, but he looks to be twenty-three or twenty-four at least. In his confession, Dalton says that himself, Morgan and Farmer committed no less than five burglaries on the night of July 14th. They started by robbing a hardware store at London; then they jumped on a freight train and rode to Ingersoll, where they committed a second robbery, and then catching another freight, came on here, where they burglarized three houses. In one house they got a good watch. Dalton was arrested a few hours later on a charge of vagrancy, but Morgan and Farmer were not taken until after a tussle with the police. Morgan is a Woodstock boy and his family lives here, while Farmer is from London.

JAMES HOLT SENT FOR TRIAL.

London, Aug. 8.—James Holt, jr., of Dorchester, was sent for trial by Judge J. B. Smith yesterday on the charge of abducting Annie Smith to a future state, at which she was employed, and go with him to Saginaw, Mich.

One week ago the case was adjourned to allow of the police information being secured as to the age of the runaway girl. At that time the evidence of her father, by a comparison with the dates of birth of the other children of the family, showed her age to be under 16 years, as had been sworn to by him in the information against Holt. By the father's own conclusions, however, given at the preliminary hearing, the age of the girl was placed at over 16 years.

Yesterday, however, the age difficulty was cleared up, the Crown presenting a certificate from the Registrar-General of Toronto, showing that Annie Smith will not be 16 years of age until the 22nd of this month.

Holt will probably be brought before the county judge to elect trial with or without a jury. In case he makes the former selection, his trial will not be heard until the fall assizes.

CO-OPERATIVE HOUSEKEEPING.

Professor Ellen H. Richards, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who has been contributing a series of articles of a practical character to The Delineator, in the August number utters some very plain truths regarding the difficulties that the women of several families would probably have in learning to get along with one another. The conclusion of the article, although not so stated by Professor Richards, is rather to suggest that successful co-operative housekeeping is a long way off yet. The article is worth reading because of its frank statement of the difficulties that people find in subordinating their own wills to the will of others.

BEET SUGAR PROPOSAL FOR GALT.

The secretary of the Galt board of trade received a communication from an American capitalist in regard to the establishment of a large beet sugar manufacturing plant at Galt. The gentleman offers to subscribe the whole $500,000 necessary to erect an equip a plant, provided $100,000 stock will be taken by prominent men living in that district, whose support and influence it is desirable to have in the interests of trade. The $100,000 to be in the nature of a working capital.

THE BEST SCHOOL.

There is probably no business school in Ontario with a better reputation for giving first-class instruction and for helping the students in every other way than the Woodstock Business College. This college has been forming ahead yearly until now it is looked upon as a leader among Ontario Business Colleges. For next term many improvements are already arranged for. The aim of the management is to give the best that can be had and accordingly the teaching staff will be very much strengthened, and it is believed that the attendance will be fully one-half greater than ever before.

HAMILTON PASTOR RESIGNS.

Hamilton, Aug. 7.—Rev. A. H. Tyrer, pastor of the Unitarian Church, has resigned his pastorate. On Sunday evening last he expressed doubt as to a future state and a personal God, and intimated that he was an agnostic. This was the climax to several sermons of a very pessimistic nature, and the congregation was considerably surprised at Mr. Tyrer's words. His recent pessimism has been attributed to family bereavements.
