NASOLOGICAL SCIENCE Said to Give Better Indication of Career Than Palmistry.

PARIS, Sept. 28.—Not palmistry, but nasology, is the new fortune-telling science. An elderly lady has just set up in the Latin Quarter, where she reads people's careers from their noses. She is doing a flourishing business. The noses are examined by her long and carefully through a microscope, and she finds better indications in their marks and bumps than ever she found before in the lines of the hand. Hitherto it had been supposed that the nose showed only habits of intemperance by its hump, and that not infrequently, but the nasologist says that that is a grossly ignorant misconception of an exact science.
