THE SEMI-WEEKLY SUN. ST. JOHN, N. B., OCTOBER 24, 1900.

MR. WILMOT FOR SUNBURY QUEENS. The liberal conservatives of the united counties of Sunbury and Queens have elected the standard bearer of 1896 to be their candidate in the coming election.

MR. WHITE FOR QUEENS. Hon. A. B. White, ex-attorney general, and ex-commissioner of works has been sent by Mr. Blair to contest Queens and Sunbury. It is probable that Mr. White will run as well as Mr. Blair would if he is equally well supplied with what Mr. Blair calls the resources of civilization.

THE WORST BLOW OF ALL. We print the card of Mr. John Charlton, probably the ablest liberal member in the late parliament. Nearly every word of this address is a condemnation of the government, and there is not a single word of unqualified approval.

AT ST. GEORGE. Hon. George E. Foster Given a Splendid Reception. The ex-Minister of Finance and Mr. Ganong Address a Large and Enthusiastic Audience.

THE VOTERS' LISTS. For the sake of uniformity, the secretary of state has sent instructions to New Brunswick that the electoral list may be revised down to ten days before polling day, and that such revised list is good for the coming election.

THE NEW BRUNSWICK CANDIDATES. The nomination of Mr. Wilmot completes the work of selecting candidates on the liberal conservative side in this province. The fourteen candidates in the field include the eight opposition members who had seats in the last house.

A MISSIONARY WITH A RECORD. The Laurier-Pacaud organ at Quebec announced some days ago that Mr. Charles Langellier and Mr. Turgeon, the latter a member of the Quebec government, were about to leave for New Brunswick to hold a series of great meetings.

was to hold three meetings in that neighborhood. Le Soleil also announces that Mr. Langellier has accepted the invitation of Mr. Costigan to address a grand assembly of the county of Victoria, to take place at Edmundston on nomination day.

Mr. Charles Langellier was a member of the Mercer government which fell in 1898 under the weight of its offences. Mr. Langellier was closely connected with the transactions that brought disgrace and destruction on a ministry which had swept the province a short time before.

The senate of Canada has done many good things, but it never did a better thing than when it prosecuted the inquiry into the Bala des Chaleurs scandal. The state of affairs came to light in the course of proceedings over a private bill.

Mr. C. N. Armstrong had a claim against the government, which had taken over the railway. He contended that the province owed him some $250,000. The government claimed that it owed nothing.

Mr. Langellier was a member of the government which paid this money on these conditions. His brother was the commissioner who handed over the cheques. The senate committee, after investigation of the matter, reported:

That C. Armstrong was not entitled to anything and that the payment of $275,000 was made only in consideration of his promise to give Pacaud $100,000.

That out of the proceeds of the arrangement Mr. Pacaud paid a note of $175,000, of which Mr. Armstrong was compelled to pay to Mr. Pacaud $100,000. The other $75,000 he was allowed to keep.

That $5,000 went to retire a note made by Pacaud and signed by Mercer, Langellier and others.

That $5,000 was used to buy a note of exchange to send to Mr. Mercer in France.

That $5,000 went to pay another note of which Mr. Langellier was an endorser, and later still $3,000 went to retire other like obligations.

That on the 11th July "out of such proceeds he (Pacaud) paid to Hon. Charles Langellier $3,000."

So the record goes on. Following the inquiry was another one brought about by Hon. A. R. Angers, then lieutenant governor of the province.

The result was the dismissal of the ministry. In the appeal to the people which followed, the culprits did all that they could to stir up the race feeling on which they had reached power.

Now Mr. Langellier has come to New Brunswick to tell the Acadians how they ought to vote. If the Acadians are the kind of men we believe them to be, they will give him the same answer that was given by their compatriots in Montserrat.

to be one course for those who are not in the confidence of the government. That is to prepare the applications and present them in proper form, before the end of this week, or ten days before the day of election. Then watch the sheriff.

MR. CHARLTON TO THE GOVERNMENT. The record of the government falls short of the expectations of those who endorsed the liberal platform. The time has come to redeem the pledges.

It would have been better if some effort had been made to obtain trade concessions from England. It is reasonable to suppose the same advantage could have been obtained. The prosperity attained in Canada has been due to causes beyond the control of the government.

These and other things Mr. John Charlton said. This is what the liberal conservatives of his constituency, who have fought him at every election hitherto, have said.

After reading Mr. John Charlton's address to the electors of North Norfolk and after being made conversant with his personal convictions as expressed in private conversation to various people, we find that he is so in accord with our leaders in the western provinces that we are confident that the pressing need of re-education, the dangers of the agitation in Quebec by certain members of the party and other matters that it is not necessary for us to place a candidate in the field so long as he continues to abide by his expressed opinions, of which fact the executive committee of this association shall be left to judge, and act accordingly.

Thus has the liberal constituency of North Norfolk been lost to the government.

We print the card of Mr. John Charlton, probably the ablest liberal member in the late parliament. Nearly every word of this address is a condemnation of the government, and there is not a single word of unqualified approval.

But Mr. Blair orders him out of the position of attorney general; just as he submitted when Mr. Tweedie was preferred over him for the premier-ship, and Dr. Pugsley was crowded into the job.

It is only a few days since the publication of the list of names on Mr. Blair's requisition. But the time has been long enough for a number of the owners of these names to make it known that they never signed the list.

Long before the hour for opening the evening meeting, Courts' hall was crowded to its utmost capacity, not an inch of standing room was unoccupied. The hall was handsomely decorated with flags, bunting, mottoes and lanterns.

The meeting closed with cheers for the Queen, Mr. Foster, Mr. Ganong, and the national anthem.
