"TERRY" MCGOVERN

AND "BILLY" MADDEN

BURIED YESTERDAY

Funeral Services in New York

Largely Attended—McGovern Once Held Featherweight and Bantamweight Championships.

New York, Feb. 25.—"Terry" McGovern, one-time holder of both the bantamweight and featherweight boxing championships of the world, and "Billy" Madden, the late John L. Sullivan's manager and trainer, were laid at rest here today. Funeral services to both were largely attended, among the mourners being many men prominent in sporting circles and in other walks of life. The pallbearers for McGovern included Samuel H. Harris, the pug-list's former manager, and George M.
Cohan, playwright and comedian.

Terry McGovern died at Kings County Hospital Friday. He had been ill two days.

Pneumonia and kidney trouble complicated with other ailments, brought on the boxer's end within forty-eight hours from the time he was removed in an ambulance from his Brooklyn home to the hospital. His wife was with him when he died. They have one son, Joseph, aged nineteen.

McGovern was reported to have earned several hundred thousand dollars during his fighting career. After his retirement from the ring he conducted saloons at various times and was frequently in institutions because of ill-health. He was a free spender and his fortune had so diminished a few years ago that Samuel Harris, who was his manager at the height of his boxing success, raised a fund for him. From this money Mrs. McGovern has received an income of $35 a week.

Joseph Terrence McGovern was born at Johnston, Pa., March 6, 1880. His parents moved to Brooklyn a year later and "Terry" as he was known to the followers of pugilism, was brought up in the Gowanus district of Brooklyn, where he resided until his death.

When he was fifteen years old he took part in preliminary bouts at the old Greenwood Athletic club, where he lost most of his training for the ring battles to come. His rushing tactics and heavy hitting powers enabled him to score a succession of knockouts before he was seventeen. His phenomenal success soon earned him the sobriquet of "Terrible Terry." His first losing fight was when he was disqualified for fouling Tim Callahan of Philadelphia at the Bay Ridge Athletic Club long before he earned the American championship title.

September 12, 1899, McGovern won the world's featherweight honor by knocking out Pedlar Palmer in less than a round at Tuckahoe, N. Y.

Two years later, on Thanksgiving Day at Hartford, Conn., he lost the title to Young Corbett, of Denver, Colo., who knocked him out in the second round.
