PANAMA BILL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Advocates of free passage for American ships through the Panama canal have marshalled their forces in the Senate to combat favorable action upon the Root amendment, providing for repeal of the American exemption provision. The determination of Chairman Brandegee to call a meeting of the cabinet committee to consider the Root amendment has aroused the friends of free passage provision to a united fight against any modification of the law passed last August.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

An Effort to Put Cattle as Meat on the Free List

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 22.—"Free meat" proposed by the House Democrats at the last session of Congress, but blocked by the president's veto, was indicated as part of the extra session of the Congress tariff revision program, at the hearing before the House committee on ways and means to-day. Members of the committee emphasized the majority sentiment towards free meats and a strong trend towards free cattle, in accord with the general policy of the Democrats last year to transfer the necessities of life to the free list, including free sugar and free lumber. Protest against putting cattle and meats on the free list was voiced by S. H. Cowan, of Fort Worth, Texas, as spokesman for the cattle industry west of the Mississippi River. Mr. Cowan said that such a plan, if adopted, would mean a flood of cheaper meats from the South American ranges and pictured a ruin of the industry in Texas. He urged the committee to maintain a fair preferential in the American markets, and said that any importations of foreign cattle would come from Mexico and Canada and from the Argentine. "Didn't all the Texas Democrats in the House vote for free meats last session?" asked Representative James of Kentucky. "Yes," said Mr. Cowan. "And all of them were elected?" "Yes." "Then you are going counter to the vote of a state?" "No," countered Mr. Cowan, "but the Democrats from Texas always vote with the party regardless of their own state, believing allegiance to the party to be of the greatest importance." John L. Slattery warned the committee not to put a duty on cantaloupes. E. E. Webster of Wellington, Fla., said that the reduction of or removal of the duty on onions would strike a blow at Florida.

The Passions Which Will be Loosed

(Courier Leased Wire).
LONDON, Jan. 22.—A small sample of the passions which will be loosed when the House of Commons begins on Friday the debate on the amendments to the franchise reform bill, was given this afternoon during a question time, immediately after the session opened at 4 o'clock. Shouts of "traitor, traitor," were hurled across the floor of the House because Premier Asquith refused to lock up the government "guillotine" and to allow the suffragette amendment to the bill to be debated without any restrictions as to time. Many of the legislators exchanged angry gibes and the noisy scene was brought to an end only by the Speaker rising and publicly reprimanding the member who had started the storm. The lobbies and precincts of the House of Parliament as well as the political clubs and drawing rooms are seething with intrigue. Forecasts vary from hour to hour as to the probable fate of the amendment brought forward by Sir Edward Grey, the Foreign Secretary, which eliminates the word "male" from the first clause of the bill and which, if carried, opens the way to the enactment of amendments which will enfranchise a numerically varying army of women. All the members of the House are left to vote as they please on this amendment, and the "division" is calculated to leave the issue to be decided by scarcely more than a score of votes either way. There is a strong suspicion that when the votes have been counted, the suffragettes will find themselves disappointed largely because the militants of the party have alienated so many of their former supporters. Should the women carry the day, however, the fate of the franchise bill itself might be endangered as a considerable number of Liberals have declared that they will vote against the measure on the third reading if it enfranchises women. The three amendments which will come up for discussion after the Grey amendment has been disposed of, propose respectively to enfranchise 1,000,000, 6,000,000, and 11,000,000 women. The first of these would give the vote to wealthy and well-to-do women only, as it simply provides for the enfranchisement of women householders. The second amendment proposes to give the franchise to women householders and also to the wives of electors, and as this would fairly distribute the vote among all classes, it is received with much favor. The third proposal comes from the labor party, and would confer the vote on every woman over 21 years of age, thus bringing about complete adult suffrage.

BUILDING COLLAPSED

(Courier Leased Wire).
ROCHESTER, N. Y., Jan. 22.—A building in course of construction as a moving picture theatre, collapsed at Saxon and Jay streets this morning and buried eight men in the debris, including the superintendent of construction. Six of the men have been taken to a hospital, where it is said their injuries are serious. The building was of brick and two walls fell together.

OBITUARY

The Death of Mrs. Henry Lemmon.

It is with very deep regret that The Courier announces the death of Mrs. Lemmon, which sad event took place at Brantford Hospital this afternoon.

The deceased was of English birth and her father was well known in ministerial work in the Old Land. She was twice married, the first time to Mr. Martin of Folkestone, Eng. After his demise she came to Canada, settling in Brantford, where she became united to Mr. Henry Lemmon, proprietor of The Courier.

She was a woman of marked intellectuality and for some years devoted her talents in contributions to this paper. She was also a poetical writer above the average.

Mrs. Lemmon took a deep interest in religious matters and she was a devout worshipper. Her knowledge of the Bible was exceptional and she was a devoted student of the greatest of all Books up until the time death called her.

Perhaps her greatest characteristic was her large heartedness. Her deeds of kindness were constant and unostentatious and in more than one instance her uplifting hand contributed to the peace and the welfare of some unfortunate, who had become heart sick under the strain of life.

At sick beds, no matter what the complaint, or environment she often ministered in those days when trained nursing had not reached its present proportions.

It may seem out of place to mention one instance of the big mother spirit which characterized her whole career. A young bank clerk newly arrived in this city passed away without friends. The deceased at once attended to all the necessary arrangements, had the interment take place in the family plot at Greenwood cemetery and kissed him goodbye for his mother. Ever after a warm and touching friendship existed between the two, though so far separated.

It was a beautiful incident and also characteristic.

Mrs. Lemmon latterly had resided more or less in England. She returned some months ago in broken health, but rallied. A few weeks ago while in Detroit she was again taken ill and desiring to fall asleep in Brantford was brought here. To the very end she retained her faculties and was busy planning for others, and then fell quietly asleep secure in the faith of a reunion with her dear ones.

She leaves to mourn her loss two nephews, Messrs. F. Douglas Reville and Ralph H. Reville, to whom she was a second mother, and three pieces in Detroit, Mrs. Wentworth, Mrs. Wilcox and Miss Reville, who ministered most lovingly to her during many months.

One sister, Mrs. Cowan, survives in England and a brother, Mr. Sklar in the States.
