Well, we're back for another term of trials and tribulations at everybody's favorite institute of higher learning. Did you know that there are only 30 school days left before the mid-term break? I wouldn't want to appear anxious, but I thought I'd point that out.

Next week is UNB's annual Winter Carnival, this year's theme: "Snow Job." Last year's theme of "Wintercourse" drew complaints because of the obvious sexual connotations of the word (get rid of the "w" stupid). This year's theme isn't quite so bad, you only have to change two letters to be offended. I liked "Wintercourse" myself.

Campus Entertainment is organizing and promoting this year's Winter Carnival, but it looks like it's likely to be their last endeavour this year. Why? To put it simply, they're broke. Losses incurred at last term's live entertainment events gobbled Campus Entertainment's budget for this term as well. It's too bad Campus Entertainment barely made it past Christmas this year, but I think they should have been a bit more cautious after attendance at the first few events was so low. Of course hindsight is 20/20, and contracts may have prevented the cancellation of some events. In any case the SU should take a hard look at live entertainment on campus before spending more money on it.

Varsity Mania, on the other hand, is looking quite healthy. V.P. Carl Burgess and Co. are getting ready to repeat their successes of last term in promoting varsity sports. From what I've heard of their plans it promises to be an exciting string of events. Tonight's hockey game (UNB VS STU) should be no exception, with large cheering squads expected to show for both teams. Should be fun...

Welcome back everyone. Another Christmas break gone by. A bit short eh. Wasn't it the best break you ever had? Especially when most of your friends and enemies were sick with either one of the flues going around or even both. Well look at it this way, you could have paid a lot of money to go away to some place like Caracas, South America, and catch a few rays of sun in between the rain and mudslides, only to arrive home a week early with some sort of stomach poisoning.

No winter course this year, we're getting a snow job instead. Yes Jackie V is hard at work arranging for the movie "Big" on Wednesday, the Ski day on Thursday, The Trees on Friday, and Varsity Mania on Saturday. It is advised that everyone check this event out. It will be history in the making, the last Campus Entertainment Event, no more live events, no more bands, no movies, and no speakers. Isn't that going to be fun?

Here is a special news bulletin: Rocket Ron Carver quit. USA - 6, Libya - 0. Oh yeah, Ron joined the army. We at the Bruns feel safe now.

Another news bulletin: Red Devils have a streak of one going. Keep an eye on the goalie tonight. It's Friday 13th.

Back to the Christmas vacation! How many people were peed off when the Special Report of the Libyan planes being shot down interrupted Duck Tails? I was. Oh yeah, the New Star Trek questions: Why isn't the kid dead yet? Why has the show been preempted? Why is there only four new shows? etc.

How old is Dick Clark? He has wrinkles now.

Your not laughing yet. Sorry there have been no Dwarves swallowed by Hippos lately, Uncle Steve has no wit today, not to mention ourselves. Oh by the way, this is blatant filler.

Words of the week:

Antisocial - those who don't go to the Winter Carnival.

Dromedary - a camel with one hump.

Rasta Camel - a Jamaican camel.

Phrase of the week - We are going to quit.

And finally, we at The Bruns thought that 1988 was so much fun that we'd enjoy it one final time. Actually it's a complex plot to confuse the engineers.
