

(3.)

C 38792

and see it in the faces of those about I can discern a look of encouragement, a look

Such moments as these are doubly precious. These great dividing lines must mark the picture which remind us in very truth of the progress of time, and mark us by drooping before us the little field of action in which we are to play our parts. At such a time then it is but natural that ⁱⁿ my thoughts ~~who~~ should ~~run over~~ ^{recall} many of the bright & happy evenings which we have spent together, ^{series of} a picture from the past which ~~shall~~ will ever remain one of the brightest which hangs on memory's wall. Looking at it