Dear Mr. Meighen,

With the aid of others, I have tried to perfect my idea of a song for this war which will give credit where credit is due--England--and also embracing the rest of the British Empire.

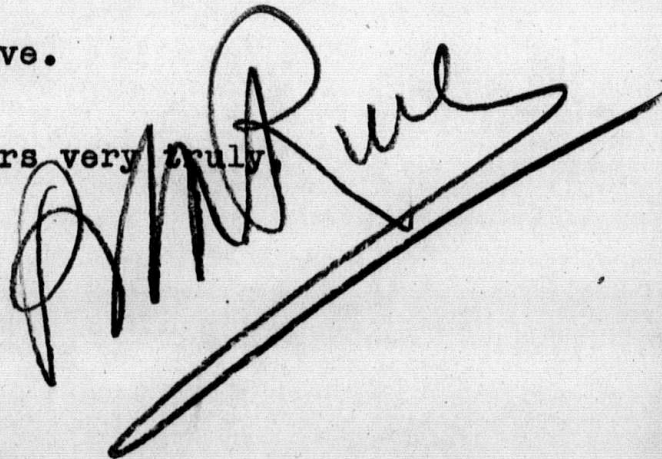

The British Isles, and in that we will have to include Ireland for its neutrality, are responsible for holding back the modern "~~Attila~~" "Attilas" from conquering the world.

The token of that force is the Union Jack.

What do you think of it?

My address is at the above.

Yours very truly,
