

Piercie's explanations, 142; checks Edward's violence, 242, 254; cross-questions Sir Piercie, 244; has Warden brought before him, 296; hears Edward's confession, 306; leaves Warden at Glendearg, 314; interview with the distracted abbot, 322; in face of danger, 355; refuses Warden's intercession, 359; heads the procession, 362; confronts Murray and Morton, 368

FAIRIES, superstitions regarding, viii, 17, 375, 385; cavern of, 100
'Fare thee well, thou holly green,' 374
Feus, feuars, in Scotland, 2
Fops and fashionables, xvii; in the 16th century, 380
Foster, Sir John, 349; meeting with Murray, 351; appealed to by Morton, 352

GALLANTRY, in time of war, 11, 375
George Inn, Melrose, xxvii
Glendearg, Tower of, x, 6
Glendinning, Edward, 11; objects to the Book being taken away, 70; Father Eustace's views regarding him, 89; studying with Mary, 91; abashed in Sir Piercie's presence, 121; expostulates with Halbert, 134; awakened by him, 187; zeal to avenge him, 242; reproved by Father Eustace, 254; reports Halbert alive, 303; his confession, 306; sees the White Lady, 310; a novice in the monastery, 361; his distress at Mary's marriage, 373
Glendinning, Elspeth, 10; her gossips with Tibb Tacket, 26, 337; visited by Father Philip, 33; by Father Eustace, 57; her plans regarding Halbert, 106; at the monastery, 370
Glendinning, Halbert, 11; his impatience of study, 92; invokes the White Lady, 94; in the fairies' cavern, 99; resents Sir Piercie's behaviour, 124, 132; goes a-hunting with Martin, 151; seeks advice from the White Lady, 154; description of him, 168; refuses the abbot's appointment, 172; shows the bodkin to Sir Piercie, 174; challenged by him, 180; his troubled thoughts, 185; on the way to the glen, 193; runs through Sir Piercie, 199; meets Warden, 203; taken into Avenel Castle, 216; locked in his room, 233; escapes, 235; falls in with the pedlar, 333; meets Murray's force, 335; interview with him, 337; repels Morton's insinuation, 342; sent forward to Sir John Foster, 345; encounter with Stawarth Bolton, 349; picks up Catherine's infant, 351; marries Mary Avenel, 372
Glendinning, Simon, 9
Glossary, 387
'Good evening, sir priest,' 72
Good neighbours. See Fairies
Gordon's Iter Septentrionale, quoted, 376

HAIG of Bemerside, xxxi
Handfasting, 228, 379
Heron, Sir George, 352
Hilarius, Brother, the refectory, 140; recites the advantages of the abbot's forester, 165
Hillslap tower, x

INDULGENCES, to monks, 323, 382

JACK-MEN, 66. See also Christie of the Clinthill
Jonson, Ben, quoted, 378, 381

KENNAQUHAIR, monastic ruins at, xxiv; description of, 1, 363
Kitchener, 163
Knave, miller's, 108, 377
Kyle, David, of George Inn, Melrose, xxvii

LOCHSIDE tower, 379
'Look on my girdle,' 158
Lyly, John, 120, 378

MACFARLANE's geese, 112, 377
'Maiden, whose sorrows,' 287
'Many a fathom dark and deep,' 99
'March, march, Ettrick and Teviotdale,' 232
Martin, the shepherd, 15; guides the way to Glendearg, 17; resents Christie's manner, 117; his talk with Halbert, 150
Melrose. See Kennaquhair
'Merrily swim we,' 40
Mill dues, 105, 108, 377
Miller, dues of, 104, 108, 377; of Christ's Kirk on the Green, 104; Chancer's, 377
Miller, Hob, 104, 136
Misericord, 177, 379
Monastery, the novel, vii
Monastery of St. Mary's. See Kennaquhair
Monks, indulgences to, 323, 382
'Mortal warp and mortal woof,' 101
Morton, Earl of, 340; his insinuation against Halbert, 342; speaks privily with Foster, 352; interview with Abbot Eustace, 368
Murray, Lord James, 337; hears tidings from Morton, 342; interview with Sir John Foster, 351; with Abbot Eustace, 368
Mysie of the Mill, 105, 109; contrasted with Mary Avenel, 114; helps in the kitchen, 136; her compassion for Sir Piercie, 260; aids his escape, 264; her distress at his leaving her, 272; constitutes herself his page, 280; his wife, 371

NICOLAS, Father, 150, 379

PEDLAR, the, 333; guides Halbert, 334
Peel-towers, 3
Peter, the bridge-ward, 38; his claims examined into by Father Eustace, 47; conciliated by him, 75
Philip, Father, sent to confess Lady