

were there. The righteous might die, but their works live on. The pastor prayed most earnestly that all present might be consecrated with the spirit of Francis Luke, and that more might go out, as he had done, into the byways and the hedges, and call in the neglected ones to Jesus.

THE END