The situation in the Transvaal is still alarming. Troops and munitions of war are being sent off every day to South Africa. If large concessions are not made to the Uitlanders by the Volksraad, war seems inevitable.

The Canadian team of riflemen did well at the great annual Bisley competition—but the British team did eight points better and thus won the much coveted Kolapore cup. The Canadian, however, won the Colonial prize of $400.

The Lucknow chief of police has got himself into a nice fix. He had a man under arrest, and instead of placing him under lock and key took him out to assist in chasing cows to pond. The prisoner went off on his own hook. For allowing his man to escape in such a way he was remanded for trial himself.

A woman evangelist is converting many sinners in Paris. In one of her addresses the other day she said: "There is a man in this house who is untrue to his wife. I am going to throw this book straight at him. She raised the book as if she were going to throw it, and every man but one ducked his head to avoid the book. The she blustered the dodgers and lauded the one true man. It was afterwards learned that he was deaf and dumb.

The heavy frosts of last winter and the destruction of trees ordered by the San Jose scale commission have almost wiped out the peach orchards of Essex. In the Niagara district the commission ran across occasional traces of frost, which left its impression more particularly upon the western ends of orchards; in Essex the commissioners have driven by miles of peach trees which budded and bloomed in the springtime but faded away when the stress of warmer weather created a draft upon roots which had been hopelessly frozen during the exceedingly long spell of cold weather last winter.

According to an address given by Mr. Norman Robertson, county treasurer, of Teeswater, the birthday of the County of Bruce was Jan. 1st, 1800. The first white man in the county was, in all probability, Rev. Mr. Hulbert, a Methodist missionary, who in 1836 preached to the Indians at Saugene. His son was the first white child born in the county. The first permanent settlers were Capt. John Spence and W. Kennedy, who settled at Southampton, and Wm. Withers who settled at Kincaidine. Capt. and Mrs. Spence are at present the oldest settlers of Bruce, having lived in Southampton 51 years. In 1850 the population of the county was 376, the number of bushels of wheat raised 205, and of potatoes 485. In 1852, the population was 2837 and the assessed value of the county $148,000. At the great land sale held at Southampton in 1854, when 2000 settlers were present, the sum of $58,000 was paid in during two days. There was no time to count the money so it was thrown into a clothes basket and counted afterwards.

It was expected at Ottawa that the Redistribution Bill would have been allowed to quietly pass through the Senate but Sir Mackenzie Bowell at the second reading moved in amendment:—"That it be resolved that it is inexpedient to proceed further with the bill now under consideration, in as much as it is provided by section 41 of the British North America act that the representation of the Provinces in the House of Commons shall be readjusted upon the completion of each decennial census, subject to and in accordance with the rules in the said act set forth, and as the next decennial census will under the provisions of the Confederation act be taken in 1901, a readjustment of constituencies in the Dominion made previous to such census being taken would in the opinion of this House be a violation of the spirit of such act." In support of his amendment Sir Mackenzie made a four hours speech violently denouncing the bill as unconstitutional and partizan, and defending the bill of 1882. This opposition will, in all probability, shelve the bill for this session and give additional vim and vigor in pushing the movement for Senate reforms.

Woodstock, July, 15.—In the Police Court here to-day Magistrate field gave his decision in the deceased "meat case" against James Bennett of East Exford, finding the farmer guilty and fining him $100. This is a heavy fine, but the magistrate could have made it $200. In giving judgment His Worship said: "With regard to this case, I notice by the evidence and conversation in the box, that lump jaw had a different significance. It is entirely apart from any other disease of the jaw. Lump jaw is called infectious by farmers. The question was whether Bennett had knowledge as to whether it was necessary to kill the cow. Dr. Rudd says he told Bennett it was lump jaw that the cow was afflicted with. I could not decide otherwise than that Bennett knew the cow was afflicted with lump jaw; and, therefore, he was liable. I will have to find the man guilty. This disease seems to be very prevalent. One doctor had no less than twenty cases. It must be very infectious. I feel called upon to impose a severe penalty. This practice of having this diseased meat sold on our market is dreadful. Better to kill a man outright than to kill him by a lingering disease by giving him diseased meat to eat. This practice must be stopped."

N. D. Ellis of Goteburg, Sweden, is pretty well acquainted with the Canadian apple as it arrives in the old country, and writes to the Canadian Gazette, London, to disapprove of the packing system in vogue in this country. He says: "I have been present in parts of Ontario at the packing of apples in barrels. When the barrel is full—in fact, heaped up with the beautiful fruit—a machine called a "presser" is placed on the top and a powerful hand-screw or screw lock is turned, and the apples are literally crushed down to a level head. This is repeated several times, and in the process scarcely a single apple escapes a bruise. I have opened and examined many barrels of Canadian apples every Christmas time since my advent here in Scandinavia, now ten years, and I have found on the average 60 per cent. of this fine fruit more or less bruised, and at least 30 per cent. of little use whatever. For this destruction of delicious fruit I blame the farmer's "apple press." I hope Prof. Robertson will look at this abominable system of packing very valuable fruit and introduce something like the orange case and packing system. The trouble is that the barrel package is too large, and the pressing is necessary in so large a package to prevent the apples from moving about, which would spoil them just as much as the pressing does. Canadian packers will do well to take heed to Mr. Ennis' advice about the orange case.
