HIS GRACE IMPRESSED WITH SPIRIT OF PEOPLE

Three Stained Windows in Trepassey Church Are Dedicated to Memory of the late Dean Borne

(From Our Correspondent.)

Trepassey Parish was en fete from the evening of the 7th to the 20th October. His Grace Archbishop Roche, Fathers McDermott and McGrath arrived at 1 a.m. and were most enthusiastically received. The party were hailed to the Presbytery amidst cheers and guns. The celebrations began in Portugal Cove, where there were illuminations and bonfires, which were continued at Biscay Bay.

From Trepassey station to the Presbytery the road was lined with strings of flags. All sections of the harbour were represented by beautifully designed arches, adorned with suitable mottoes. The School, Church and Convent grounds were a forest of flags. The facade of the Church formed a triple arch on the top of which, surmounted by flags, was the inscription, "Long Live Archbishop Roche, and in the centre a large transparency of the Archiepiscopal Insignia—the Cross, the Crozier and the Mitre; on the right his Coat of Arms and on the left his Cathedral; this with the centre transparency, was the work of one of the pupils of the Superior School, who took the prize for drawing this year in the Preliminary Grade. His Grace greatly admired this.

Friday night, the Archbishop, in the presence of an immense congregation from all parts of the Parish, blessed the statue of the Sacred Heart of Jesus, which now adorns the Sanctuary. He also erected the stations of the Cross, donated by members of the Parish, after which he spoke in the most impressive manner of the Passion of Our Lord and urged the people to practise "the way of the Cross."

Saturday, His Grace celebrated Mass in the Church, assisted by the pastor, Fr. Renouf, after which he proceeded to the Convent, where he received into religion Miss Lee. The young lady assumed the name of Sister Thersa. The Grace spoke most earnestly of the duties of the Religious life, and exhorted the young novice to live up to its ideals. After the Reception, His Grace and visiting clergy were entertained at luncheon by the good sisters.

An operetta was also performed in his honor by the school children, which was beautifully rendered, and reflected great credit on the nuns. Miss Nettie Murphy read the Address. A remarkable feature of the performance was the "Baby Drill" and song by tots of four years, and dancing by the younger children. His Grace expressed his great pleasure by showering encomiums on the performers in his reply to the Address. Though all were good, we must make special mention of Miss Nettie Murphy and Miss Alice Ryan.

Saturday night, about 700 people, men, women and children, notwithstanding the unpropitious weather, gathered in the Presbytery grounds and formed a torch-light procession. His Grace, Fr. Renouf and visiting clergy, having entered carriages, willing hands hauled them through the settlement, preceded by the Parish Band, the officers of the T. A. Society walking on either side as a Guard of Honor. Presbytery, Church, Convent School and Hall, as well as all the houses were artistically illuminated. From the time he left the Presbytery until his return, there were unceasing cheering and volleys of musketry.

Sunday, at 10.30, the Archbishop went from the Sacristy in procession to the door of the Church, under an arch of flags, held by 226 children, candidates for Confirmation. At the Church door he was met by the Parish Priest in surplice and cope who, with the usual ceremonies, conducted him to the Throne, whilst the choir sang the "Ecce Sacerdos." A Missa Cantata was sung by Fr. Merath. After the Mass, His Grace unveiled three beautiful stained windows, erected by the people to the memory of the late Dean Borne. The Church being dedicated to Our Holy Redeemer, the windows are representations of the Passion. In the centre the Crucifixion, and on either side the Scourging at the Pillar and the Agony in the Garden. The address from the people was then read by Magistrate Giovannetti.

ADDRESS To His Grace MOST REV. E. P. ROCHE, D.D., Archbishop of St. John's.

"MAY IT PLEASE YOUR GRACE,

On behalf of the people of Trepassey, we beg to tender to Your Grace a hearty welcome, and to assure Your Grace of our loyalty and devotion. On the Feast of St. Peter and St. Paul, in common with all your spiritual children, we rejoiced that Your Grace, so revered and beloved, was raised to the Metropolitan See.

Scarcely a year ago when your illustrious predecessor, full of years and merit, laid down his charge, great indeed was our sorrow, for he had given us many proofs of his zeal and affection, but Our Holy Father in choosing you, his able Administrator and painstaking, zealous Vicar General, gave us a guide to whom no better could be found.

To Your Grace we shall always turn for counsel and guidance, and in you we will find eager listeners and earnest doers.

In replying to His Grace alluded to the late Dean Borne in the most eloquent and touching terms, saying that he needed no memorial, as his memory still lives in the hearts of the people as shown by the holiness of their lives and their magnificent faith, but that the windows would remind them every time they entered the Church to say a prayer for his gentle soul.

The Sacrament of Confirmation was then conferred on 226 children and His Grace gave them instructions suitable to the occasion.

After dinner the people again assembled in the Presbytery grounds, headed by the Parish Band and a procession of 226 children, bearing flags hailed His Grace and clergy to the station, where he again thanked the people for their warm-hearted and magnificent reception and left amidst cheers and volleys of guns for Renums.

HIS GRACE'S VISIT TO RENUMS.

Sunday evening, at 4.45, the Archepiscopal party—His Grace Archbishop Roche, Very Rev. Fr. McDermott and Fr. McGrath, arrived at Renums, unfortunately the weather was very unpropitious, rain coming in torrents, preventing the gathering of the people to give expressions of welcome. At the station His Grace and party were met by the venerable pastor, Rev. W. P. Doutney, P.P., who expressed the welcome which all the people desired to His Grace on this his first visit to the parish since his consecration. His Grace was greatly pleased to find so many arches erected, all having very appropriate mottoes and decorated with numerous flags of various nationalities, commemorating the late victory of the French. The principal arch at the entrance to the Presbytery was surmounted by a very large flag of France, the red, white and blue, and alongside flew the flag of Belgium.

Next morning Mass was celebrated at 8.30 by His Grace at which great numbers attended, and immediately after Mass the people's Address was read by Mr. Arthur O'Leary. To the Address His Grace made a very gracious reply, thanking all for the royal reception given him, expressing his deeply-felt feelings of thankfulness for this "Caud Mille Faulthe" welcome.

Notwithstanding the inclement weather His Grace went to Riverhead, Ferness, where he was the guest of Mr. John Morry and to Admiral's Cove where he addressed the good

H.M.S. Grangemouth, Sept. 19th, 1915.

DEAR HERB,—Just a few lines to let you know that I am well and hoping you are the same. It is a long time since I saw you last, but it will be longer yet, for I have to stand the duration of the war.

You remember that last night when I saw you we both went up to the Calypso, when Billy D. was fooling with you, you know what for.

Herb, when you write tell me all the news of St. John's. Tell all the boys to write. If you see Paddy Lynch tell him I sent him a letter in care of the Clyde at Lewisporte, if you don't see him, people thanking them for the whole-hearted reception accorded him. In each place the Church and School was visited and the people were addressed by His Grace.

The Archepiscopal party then left, amidst volleys of musketry and hearty cheers for Renums, where they remained the guests of the Rev. Pastor until 11 p.m., where they joined the incoming train for St. John's.

ask his mother for his right address and send it to me.

William Delaney and Leo Bough are on the H.M.S. Wilfrid doing the same kind of work, but since we came over from England to Gibraltar I have seen them only once.

Tell Ches. Samson to write a line at once and some of the girls around. You go to my house and tell my mother that I am well and all right. Herb, since I came away from home my father died, that was the first letter I received on the H.M.S. Excellent, that was at the Guntery School, where we were five weeks; then we came to Portsmouth, England, thence to Plymouth and across to Gibraltar.

Herb, don't forget to write your self, and don't forget to tell some of the girls to write.

I must close my short letter by wishing you good bye, from your chum
