

RECEPTION IN DUNDAS

To Seventy-Seventh Boys on Return From Camp.

THE ROYAL ARCANUM PICNIC,

Dundas, June 25.—The 77th Regiment returned from Camp Niagara on Saturday. On reaching Dundas the Dundas, Ancaster and Waterdown Companies were given a reception in the skating rink. The tables were very handsomely decorated with flowers, and an abundance of strawberries, sandwiches, cake, lemonade, etc., were served to the volunteers and a number of invited guests. These receptions, given each year for some years past on the return from camp, are much appreciated, and when cheers were called for the ladies of the town the response was a hearty one indeed. In the absence of Mayor Fisher Col. Gwyn presided.

In his address Col. Gwyn referred to the high standing of the 77th Regiment at camp, it being by all odds the banner regiment. He also referred to the splendid physique of the men of the regiment, and to their good behavior and soldierly conduct while in camp. Short addresses were also given by Col. Bertram, Revs. E. A. Irving, Dr. Laing, J. H. Hazelwood, and by A. F. Pirie.

During the time the addresses were being given the bugle band of the regiment arrived, and was greeted with hearty cheers. It had stopped off at Stoney Creek to furnish music for a reception given to some companies of the regiment there. The proceedings broke up with cheers for the Queen.

Royal Arcanum Outing.
The members of Regina and Kanawha Councils, Royal Arcanum, of Hamilton, celebrated the 23rd anniversary of the founding of the Order, on Saturday, by an outing to the Dundas Driving Park. The afternoon was spent by the two Councils engaging in a game of war, and a game of baseball. In both games Regina Council was declared the winner. In the evening, the members, along with a number of invited guests, repaired to the Melbourne Hotel for tea, which was served in the house which has become noted. Tea being over, W. J. Cunningham was called upon to preside and began the second part of the evening's entertainment by proposing the toast of the Queen, which was responded to by singing the National Anthem. The next toast was the Supreme and Grand Lodges of the Royal Arcanum, to which Lyman Lee responded. Other toasts and addresses followed, and a number of songs were sung. Mayor Fisher gave an address welcoming the societies to the town. The toast of the press was responded to by the representatives present. A. F. Pirie making a wise and witty speech which is characteristic of him on such occasions.

Other Items.
The I. O. O. F. excursion to Camp Niagara, on Friday, was fairly well attended, notwithstanding the unfavorable weather, and the excursionists all had a good time.

An attractive feature of the House of Providence picnic on July 1st will be the Ladies' Drill Corps, with its handsome gowns natty appearance and neatly executed military manoeuvres. This corps has given exhibition drill in Galt, Brantford, Hamilton and other places and has always delighted all who have seen it.

On Saturday the Dundas Stars baseball team defeated the Brantford Stars by 3 to 2, and the Junior Dundas Stars won from a Hamilton team by 20 to 1.

London to Ladysmith Via Pretoria

(By Lieut. Winston L. S. Churchill.)
Few men at the age of 25 have attained such remarkable prominence as Lieutenant Winston Spencer Churchill. Of distinguished parentage—a son of the late Lord Randolph Churchill—he early showed his hereditary tendencies towards great news; but with his own hands he has made the bell of the world ring out his name as soldier, war correspondent and novelist. Hardly had his latest book, "London to Ladysmith via Pretoria," issued from the publishing house before comments full of highest praise appeared in the leading journals not only of the British Empire, but the United States.

William L. Alden, in his London literary letter to the New York Times Saturday Review, speaks thus of it:
"The khaki books still crowd the printing presses. One worth reading, however, is the story of Mr. Churchill's personal experience in the field and as a prisoner. It beats the average historical novel out of sight with its wealth of surprising incident. Mr. Churchill's escape from Pretoria, as told by himself in the book, is one of the most interesting stories of the sort that I have ever read, and I do not forget the famous escapes of Casanova and Orsini, not to speak of Edmund Dante's fabulous exploit. The whole book is full of interest from beginning to end, and if the rest of the khaki books could have a share of Churchill's skill in story-telling, we need not so much regret their profusion."

With the vanguard, Lieut. Churchill galloped toward Ladysmith and thus graphically described the ride:
"Never since the days of the world's attention, the scene of famous deeds, the cause of mighty efforts—Ladysmith was within our reach at last. We were going to be inside the town within an hour. The excitement of the moment was increased by the exhilaration of the gallop. Onward wildly, recklessly, up and down hill, over the boulders, through the scrub. Hubert Gough, with his two squadrons, Mackenzie's Natal Carbineers, and the Imperial Light Horse were clear on the ridges all ready. We turned the shoulder of the hill, and there before us lay the (1) house and dark trees we had come so far to see and to save."

"Suddenly there was a challenge. 'Halt! Who goes there?' The Ladysmith relief column," and thereat from out of trenches and rifle pits a score of tattered men came running, cheering feebly, and some were crying. In the half light they looked ghastly pale and thin. A poor, white-faced officer, waving his helmet and in the color of his face, and the tall, strong Colonial Horseman, standing up in their stirrups, raised a loud, resounding cheer, for then we knew that we had reached the Ladysmith picket line."

The book is appropriately bound in the color of khaki. Paper, 75c. cloth, $1.25. Published by The Copp Company, Limited, Front street west, Toronto.

A POPULAR MISTAKE

Regarding Remedies for Dyspepsia and Indigestion.

The national disease of Americans is indigestion, or, in the chronic form, dyspepsia, and for the very reason that it is so common many people neglect taking proper treatment for what they consider trifling stomach trouble, when, as a matter of fact, indigestion lays the foundation for many incurable diseases. No person with a vigorous, healthy stomach will fall a victim to consumption. Many kidney diseases and heart troubles date their beginning from poor digestion; thin, nervous people are really so because their stomachs are out of gear, weary, languid, faded out women owe their condition to imperfect digestion.

When nearly every person you meet is afflicted with weak digestion it is not surprising that nearly every secret patent medicine on the market claims to be a cure for dyspepsia, as well as a score of other troubles, whereas in fact, as Dr. Werter says, there is but one genuine dyspepsia cure which is perfectly safe and reliable, and moreover, this remedy is not a patent medicine, but it is a scientific combination of pure pepsin, (free from animal matter), vegetable essences, fruit salts and bismuth. It is sold by druggists under name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. No extravagant claims are made for them, but for indigestion, or any stomach trouble, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are far ahead of any remedy yet discovered. They act on the food eaten, no dieting is necessary, simply eat all the wholesome food you want and these tablets will digest it. A cure results, because all the stomach needs is a rest, which Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets give by doing the work of digestion.

SCIENCE SEPARATED THEM.

Modern Surgery Divides Twins Nature Had Joined Together.

Rosalina and Marie Zamos, little Brazilian girls, twins, were born joined together like the famous Siamese twins, but have been separated by the skill of modern surgery as recorded in the Times. The X-rays played an important part in the examinations which preceded the operation, these modern aids to science showing that the little girls were separate organisms except as to the liver. Now there is no more difficult organ to operate upon than the liver. It is a veritable network of small blood vessels, and its structure is such that it will not hold a stitch. You can't sew up a rent or incision in the substance of the liver.

There was only one way in which this separation could be effected successfully, and that was to cut away just a tiny bit at a time, and then to the place to heal, and then cut again. Such a method of procedure meant for the twins constant pain and constant danger, yet when they were offered this chance they accepted it joyfully. That was at the beginning of February, and this is the middle of June. It means that for four months continual and often agonizing pain has been the lot of the two girls. Little by little the hand joining them together has been cut away, and nearer and nearer has come the hope of freedom.

And now they have reaped their reward.

Rosalina and Maria are free. They are separate beings.—St. Louis American.

New Publications.

A book on "Plymouthism and the Modern Churches, or Life, Law and Learning," by Rev. Alexander Miller, of Ashfield, Huron County, is published by William B. Eegs, Toronto. Price 50 cents. It criticizes the tenets of the Plymouth Brethren, who are represented as believing that the various branches of the modern church are all in ruins, and in fatal and irreclaimable apostasy. As to which side has the better end of the argument, the Times dare not say, but it is to pronounce, indeed, we do not intend to impose upon anyone connected with this paper the task of reading Mr. Miller's book, for the churches in this corner of the moral vineyard have never shown any signs of yielding to the assaults of Plymouthism, and therefore are not in need of active defence.

St. Nicholas for July tells children about "Some Great Sea Fights" in a chatty style. The serial stories grow in interest. "The Siege of Numbe Six," is an exciting story. "Eleanor's Colonel," "Spending of Cannon," "Towser" will interest the young readers, and besides these are many timely contributions, poems, etc., finely illustrated.

Gauzy Trimmings.

Gauzy flowers and gauzy ribbons and gauzy roses or pompoms are the natural trimming for one of the new hats of limp horsehair "yedda" braid or soft silky straw. These have no appreciable weight, and are a relief in hot weather, which makes a heavy hat a species of torture. Double-faced, satin ribbons, bows and fans of velvet, jetted wings and crowns, to say nothing of birds' plumages, make a hat or bonnet incredibly heavy to press upon the brow of a warm day.

Children's Straw Hats.

How the crowns of the new hats seem to bulge, even if they are not of the drawn bag pattern. The little girls of ten or twelve years seem to be provided with hats of this description, and very becoming they are to a young, fresh face, and the flowing hair of that period of adolescence. The velvet of silk ribbon passes trimly around and under the bulging crown, and is tied with a smart bow with plenty of loops and ends. This model is extremely popular, especially in the gold and cream colored straws.

SENT BACK TO GREAT BRITAIN.

New York, June 24.—Not until after they had vilified America and England and forcibly attempted to separate four immigration officials from their existence did the Fenians, Joseph Mullet and James Fitzharris, bow to the inevitable yesterday and board the steamship Serbia on which they are being deported by order of the United States officials.

Early in the morning a single officer was sent to Ellis Island to bring the men back to the city, thinking the task would be ordinary. In less than ten minutes after he reached there he made the telephone wires hot in asking the Barge Office for aid.

"Send over every man you've got," he said to the chief of the department. "These Fenians show fight, and there is going to be trouble." Two ten minutes after he reached there he made the telephone wires hot in asking the Barge Office for aid.

"I don't believe it," he said to the chief of the department. "These Fenians show fight, and there is going to be trouble." Two ten minutes after he reached there he made the telephone wires hot in asking the Barge Office for aid.

ORIGIN OF KISSING
Lombroso Has an Idea That He Knows About It.
According to Professor Cesare Lombroso, the distinguished Italian criminologist, kissing is quite a modern practice, and originated in a very curious manner. The kiss, as a token of affection, was unknown to the old Greeks, and neither in Homer nor in Herodotus do we find any mention of it. Herodotus did not kiss his Andromache when he bade her farewell, neither did Paris press his lips to those of the beautiful Helen, and Ulysses, who was more of a cosmopolitan than any man of his day, never dreamed of kissing the enchanting Circe, and when after long wanderings he returned home to his spouse, Penelope, he satisfied himself with putting one of his stalwart arms around her waist and drawing her to him.
The people of Terra del Fuego, says Lombroso, have taught civilized nations the origin of the delightful art of kissing. Drinking vessels are unknown in that country, and the people, when they are thirsty, simply lie down beside brooks, and drink the water as it flows by them. It is evident, however, that infants could not satisfy their thirst in the primitive fashion, and therefore their mothers have for ages supplied them with water by filling their own mouths first and then letting it pass through their lips into the expectant mouths of their little ones. In some places the banks of the brooks and rivers are so high that water cannot be obtained in the usual manner, and the mothers in such places draw it through long reeds.
Birds feed their young in a similar manner. They first fill their own mouths with water and then transfer it to the open mouths of the little ones. This very ancient maternal practice is, according to Lombroso, the only source to which the modern practice of kissing can be traced. The custom of pressing one's mouth to another originated with the women in Terra del Fuego, who could only supply their infants with drink in this manner, and it is presumable that they learned the lesson from the birds. Finally, we are told that kissing is an evidence of attachment, and a memorial of that early stage in our development "during which the wife had not yet triumphed over the mother nor love over maternity."
Lombroso's views on this subject meet with the general approval of scientists, though there are some who point out that his explanation of the origin of kissing is not in accordance with the one handed down to us by the old Romans. These latter maintained that the kiss was invented by husbands, who desired to ascertain in this way whether during their absence from home their wives had been drinking their wine or not.—New York Herald.

The Fat Boy From Beauharnois.
Alr: "Soomon Levil."
I am de fat man from Beauharnois. Buts great on de politique, And plenty time I make big trub, For I know me every trick, And now de Rouge has got de job An got de L'Argent, too, It's pretty hard for got de vote De woy I see for to do.

I play de school question plenty time, But now she is tred bare, I try an hunt me something new For give de Rouge big "seure," We hold great caucus de de Bleu An every one she feel We want something for make "excite."

De same as Louis Riol, Sir Charles he run de English end An he make de big hurrah About some soldat he want for send For fight in Africa, Although I don't like dat myself For make good politique, I go on Toronto an make big speech For make de old Tartie sick.

I'm de great orator of de Bleu Mose every one she know I use to live on my politique, But now I got no show, If ever de Bleu get in some more, I'll try make ledier my nest, I want be fair, I'll take my share, Sir Charles can take de rest.

De Montreal Star she make big howl, And print some Bytown moon But for to make good politique She shoot her gun too soon, Mons. Graham he spend his argent, He's generale in de fight, Because he know if Tupper win, He's got to be big "knight."

For me I don't care 'bout such ting, I'm very modest man, To help Sir Charles win dis fight, I'll do so much I can, Why some peep like so much gold Why lace, For me I cannot see, So long Sir Charles make me judge, That's big enough for me.

Now when de 'lection she come again, I think we have fine show; Clark Wallace he work de Orange man An Tupper he make big blow," Forster he work de temperance cry, While I set up de "Bieu," With Hugh John's nose an racial cry, Perhaps we will pull trou."
