the Poet's Corner.

Never Mind What's the use of always fretting, At the trials we shall find Ever strewn along our psthway, Travel on and never pind.

Travel onward - working, hoping-Cast no lingering look behind At the trials once encountered, Look ahead and never mind.

And if those who might befriend you, Whom the ties of nature bind Should refuse to do their duty, Look to heaven and never mind.

Friendly words are often spoken, Vhen the feelings are unkind. Take them for their real value, Pass them on and never mind.

Fate may threaten clouds may lower, Enemies may be combined, If your trust in Git is steadfast, He will belp ton never mind.

Weight of Women's Clothes.

This is a phase of the dress question too much overlooked. The clothes worn by women are far too heavy ; and, by a perversity of fashion, they receive an emorphous increment of weight at this sesson, in the shape of cloaks or mantles of scalskin or plush with quilted linings. The attention of medical praditioners needs to be specially drawn to this metter that they may remember to this matter, that they may remon-strate with their female patients and also avoid misconception as to the actual strength of some who complain of
