"Jane" Takes Up the Pen.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—It is too stormy this evening to go down to Mouse Island, where John and me go every Sunday to walk down our dinner. John says everybody should have a walk after dinner Sundays because they don't get up so early as other days, and sitting around the house makes them feel sleepy, though, sake's alive I never feel sleepy only when I ought to get up in the morning. But then I always listen to John and pretend that he's right, and that's the reason I can handle him so good. Sure I can read him like a book and handle him just as easy too. John is reading the Telegram about a woman at Harbor Grace called "Mary." He said he didn't know her other name, but I suppose she's got one. I'm no good to read, but if John hadn't told me all about what "Mary" said, I believe I could read her letter. I like spiky bits like that. She must be a fine woman and after my own heart, and that's saying a good deal these times. We haven't anybody round here like the prodigal—I think that's what John said he was—that she writes about, but we can all see here now than we could last Spring when they told us all about them Liberals and what a bad lot they were, and how it wasn't respectable to be a Liberal. They said we wanted a change, too, but goodly me, at the rate the five cent pieces have been sent out there must be lots of change now. John had a pocket full Woman's Needless Suffering.

Full of Aches, Frightful Back Pains, Pale and Nervous. With the use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, a Wife and Mother Saved from Death.

A few years ago doctors considered that only back pains and bladder disorders were traceable to the kidneys—but to-day science proves that many of the most fatal and dreaded diseases have their source in irregular kidney action.

Such was the case with Mrs. Anna A. Rodrigues, a well known resident of Valencia—read her experience: "For a long time I suffered with failing strength and nagging headaches. My condition grew steadily worse, my limbs became bloated and shaky, I was sallow and thin, felt rheumatic pains, dizziness and chills. I unfortunately didn't suspect my kidneys and was nearly dead when I discovered the true cause of my sufferings. I read so much about the wonderful health and strength that comes to all who use Dr. Hamilton's Pills that I felt sure they would help me. Such blessings of health and comfort I got from Dr. Hamilton's Pills I can't describe. They speedily put me right and their steady use keeps me active, energetic, strong and happy. I strongly urge others to regulate and tone their system with Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut."

For perfect health use Dr. Hamilton's pills frequently—avoid all food which seems to distress and take as much exercise as possible. No greater medicine exists than Dr. Hamilton's Pills for the cure of indigestion, constipation, flatulence, liver, bladder and kidney trouble. Refuse substitutes for Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box, or five boxes for $1.00 at all dealers or The Catarrhose Company, Kingston, Ont.

last pay day, but it didn't do him much good because he had to turn it into his merchant to pay for his coal what we had last fall. John was telling me just now about the news what is pasted up in the telegraph office window every day. He says it's fine, that the man who writes it out must be mighty smart and has a good memory too. I had to laugh at him when he came home from work last night. He was talking about the Premier. "Poor man," says I, "he will soon want a trip away for his health again." But I was going to tell you about our local and foreign news. This is how it comes here: In the Assembly to-morrow the Premier will introduce a measure to prohibit the sun from going down before ten o'clock, etc. To-morrow we get it this way: The Premier in the Assembly introduced a measure to-day providing for extending the setting of the sun till ten o'clock, etc. And the next day it comes like this: Yesterday in the House of Assembly the Premier introduced a bill which will give the people more sunlight by holding up the sun until ten o'clock on fine nights, etc. I call that interesting, don't you? John says all these measures must be gone over three times, and that on the third time the bill is made out and sent down to the Commercial Bank, where the members get paid in silver. I don't believe that, but John says he knows all about it. But I was forgetting to tell you about the other part of the news—three lines long—what John says is foreign news. I asked him if it paid duty at Port aux Basques when it came in. He said, "What next. Why up at Port aux Basques when the Montreal papers come over on the Bruce in the morning the men up there cut out the news and send it on to St. John's, and then somebody down there," he said, "a heeler," whatever that is, "cuts out all but three lines and sends it all over the country at five o'clock that evening." I call that smart, don't you? But then John says we women don't understand, because we aren't used to thinking of these things, and a good job, too, says he, because our little brains would never stand it. Now, Mr. Editor, John wants his tea. Give my love to "Mary." I suppose I'll see her when they have that big time at Harbor Grace this summer. I'll write another letter next stormy Sunday, but don't show it to anybody and don't put it in the papers. JANE.

Second Trial Was Worse Than First

Prisoner Found Guilty of Murder in Second Degree Now Liable to Execution.

New York, February 25.—Edward P. McGrath, who was found guilty of murder in the second degree by a jury in Judge Goff's Court several weeks ago and whose attorney was surprised when Judge Goff granted his motion for a new trial, was tried again yesterday, and by another jury before the same judge, was found guilty of murder in the first degree.

Had McGrath acquitted in the finding of the jury several weeks ago life imprisonment would have been the maximum penalty. Now that he has been found guilty of murder in the first degree he may be sent to the electric chair. He was convicted the second time on identically the same evidence that was offered at the first trial.

Lady Lansdowne, Detective.

Lord Lansdowne has a real helpmeet in his charming wife, who is a most gifted woman. She is a keen politician and such an excellent diplomatist that Bismarck, the Iron Chancellor, once said of her that she was too clever for most of his ambassadors. When Lord Lansdowne was Viceroy of India, Lady Lansdowne managed to acquire a wonderful knowledge of native life and affairs. For instance, she was once able to gain second-hand, for disguised as a native she used to visit the poorest quarters of Calcutta. She often ran considerable risk, but she has plenty of courage, and the information she gained was sometimes valuable.

For instance, she was once able to save an innocent man from being hanged for murder. The judge who was trying the case was dining at the Vice-regal Lodge. During the evening Lady Lansdowne took him aside and said, "The man who is charged with that murder is innocent. If you will send me a detective, I will show the house where the murderer lives."

Thanks to Lady Lansdowne, the real culprit was caught and the innocent man set free, but she would not reveal how she gained the knowledge of the actual facts of the case. The incident made her very popular with the natives of Calcutta.

Gleanings.

A whale can remain under water for an hour and a half.

A piece of cork will not float again if sunk to the depth of 200 feet in the sea, owing to the enormous pressure of the water.

Sound can be heard through water nearly a hundred times further than it can be heard through air.

The carp is a remarkable fish, and moves no less than 4,300 bones and muscles every time it breathes. It has 1,300 veins and ninety-nine muscles.

A fleet of 100 vessels is engaged from January till August each year in the capture of sharks near Iceland. They are caught for the sake of their oil, which has medicinal virtues.

The Czars' winter palace is the largest building in Europe. It was begun by Peter the Great and finished by Catherine II., and is built in red sandstone. It contains the finest staterooms, in addition to 1,500 other rooms. The Imperial nurseries are very large, one of them being large enough to hold a "mountain," down which the children toboggan. This room is upholstered in red, and here the Royal children are taught, and are sometimes joined in their lessons by cousins or friends.

Itching Piles For 27 Yrs.

Despaired of ever getting relief until cure came 3 years ago with use of DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

Mr. John Johnson, Cawley, Alta., writes: "Three years ago I was cured of blind, itching piles of twenty-seven years' standing by using Dr. Chase's Ointment. I used to think that death would be the only relief I could ever get from the terrible misery of piles. "Dr. Chase's Ointment is worth sixty dollars a box instead of sixty cents. I am a different man since using it. I am farming all the time now and never miss a day. Words fail to express my gratitude for the cure this Ointment made for me. I cannot tell half as much about it as it deserves. Any one doubting this can write direct to me."

Do not accept an imitation or substitute in place of Dr. Chase's Ointment, for there has yet to be discovered a treatment which so promptly gives relief from itching and so thoroughly cures every form of piles. 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto. LABRADOR.

Its Discovery, Exploration and Development.—By W. G. Gosling.

This is a very fine work. The formation, paper, type, illustrations and get up is a triumph of the printer's art. The story of our great dependency so admirably told should be very interesting to all Newfoundlanders. Only those who have gone through the mill can understand all the labour and anxiety and hard grinding toil involved in the production of such a work as Gosling's Labrador. There is an admirable description of the French occupation of the Peninsula, Cartright, and his journal will be absolutely new to most readers. It is a most interesting human document. The author's personality is unique. Its frank, outspoken immorality, whilst suitable for the eighteenth century and the time of Tom Jones, is hardly fit for ears polite in our days, and Mr. Gosling has very wisely edited the journal very severely. The author has dedicated the book to his wife, and all who know her social charm, her literary ability, and her great public spirit, will recognize that it is most appropriate. The first part of the book is devoted to the fifteenth century and the questions of discovery before and after that momentous period. It is not very clearly stated, but it seems to me that Mr. Gosling agrees with my views that the meeting of the Norsemen with the savages in skin boats limits the position of Vinland. Eskimos are not known south of Newfoundland. From Labrador they often crossed over to our island for short trips. In North America Newfoundland was their limit. There are three important questions concerning North America. The discovery Mr. Gosling rightly gives the credit to John Cabot. He is somewhat dubious at first about the continued possession and trade of the English to Newfoundland, but with a final quotation from the British Ambassador at the Treaty of Utrecht he confirms my view of the subject. As to the landfall, he considers it was somewhere on the East Coast in the neighborhood of Bonavista or Trinity. Every one I think will admit that Bonavista, or Good Light, is a very natural name for landfall, and this name appears, as Mr. Gosling admits, on very early maps: Bonavista was the landfall of both Cortereal and Cartier. It is marked as the landfall of Cabot on a French and English map, showing that in this early period it was universally recognized as John Cabot's landfall. All this is strong enough, but there "is" much more convincing evidence. The great geographer, Sir Clements Markham, told the writer that the name Keels, or Keels Strand, in the neighborhood of Cape Bonavista, was the clearest evidence of the landfall. After a long voyage the old ships would have to be hauled up and cleaned, and this was the name always given to the careening cove. John Cabot hoisted the Royal Ensign and took possession in the name of the King. The next good harbor to Cape Bonavista is King's Cove. In the old foreign maps it is called "The Royal Port." It was in St. John the Baptist's Day that our Colony was discovered. In the old maps there is in this region around Cape Bonavista a Bay of Zacharias, father of John the Baptist, and a river Jordan where he was baptized. Do not all these striking coincidences point clearly and conclusively to Cape Bonavista as Cabot's landfall? I will refer to other parts of this interesting work on Labrador in my next. D. W. P.

March 5, 1910. Any man who understands historical evidence must see at once that these striking coincidences about Cape Bonavista are not accidental, and they point conclusively to this point as John Cabot's landfall. D. W. P.

United Services.

The largest congregation of the series assembled last night. "Come ye that love the Lord" was the opening hymn. Rev. M. Fenwick offered prayer. Rev. C. Hackett read the lesson, which was followed by the hymn "Art Thou Weary?" and a number of testimonies to the happiness of the service of Christ. Rev. W. T. Dunn preached from the text: "Be not deceived, God is not mocked, for whatever a man soweth, that also shall he reap." Hymns and prayer followed the sermon. Rev. J. K. Curtis made a most pressing appeal, and citing with solemnity the affecting words: "Of all the words of tongue or pen, The saddest are these: It might have been."

Mr. Gordon Christian presided at the organ.

"GOLDEN OPPORTUNITIES." Mr. J. W. N. Johnstone, General Passenger Agent of R. N. Co., is compiling what will be a very valuable book of information on Newfoundland and its industries. The book would be an excellent one to circulate at the Festival of Empire. The title is Golden Opportunities.

Chief of the Black Hand Sentenced.

New York, Feb. 22.—Lupo, the reputed chief of Blackhand in America; Giuseppe Morello, chief of Syrian counterfeiters in this country and six of their confederates were found guilty to-day of making counterfeit money, and were sentenced to-night to terms of hard labour in the federal prison, at Atlanta, Ga., varying from fifteen years and $1,000 to 30 years and $1,000.

The accumulated sentences and fines aggregate 150 years and $75,000. Lupo who is under sentence of thirty years for murder in Italy where he was a fugitive from justice, wept copiously during his counsel's plea for mercy, and had to be supported as he was led from the room after sentence. Calliope collapsed in the arms of two marshalls sobbing "Not just, not just."

Morello fainted and went into convulsions. All the others sobbed bitterly. The sentences are as follows: Atgnazio Lupo, 30 years and $1,000.

Giuseppe Morello, 25 years and $1,000 fine.
Giuseppe Palermo, 18 years and $1,000.
Giovanni Galkicho, 17 years and $600.
Vincenz Gieggleo, 15 years and $1,000.

Asaya-Neurall THE NEW REMEDY FOR Nervous Exhaustion

The depression experienced by women during convalescence from childbirth is never forgotten. The sense of utter nerve fatigue blots out interest in everything. "ASA-YA-NEURALL" is invaluable at such times. It feeds the nerves, induces sleep, quickens the appetite, aids digestion, and soon buoyancy of spirits and the sense of nervous vitality returns. $1.50 a bottle. Obtain from the local agent.

M. CONNORS.

Salvador Cina, 15 years and $1,000.
Nicolo Silvestro, 15 years and $1,000.
Antonio Cecala, 15 years and $1,000.

As Palermo was being sentenced, there was a loud report from a flash light, and for a moment court and prisoners also were visibly startled. Sentence was pronounced on only two of the six counts charged in the indictments, and suspended in the others.

Lupo Morello and the others convicted to-day, are eight of the gang of seventeen, nine of whom were arrested last year, are now awaiting trial. It is charged that they floated nearly $500,000 worth of counterfeit bills, which they peddled at 25 cents on the dollar. To Lupo the police credit two murders in this country, one of which was the famous "Barrel Murder." Comito Frinter, of the gang, turned state's evidence, and will probably be placed on trial separately. It has been predicted that if freed his life will pay for the evidence he gave.
