Lieut. Howard Reid. Enthuslastic Welcome to our First

HUMBERMOUTH, To-day,

A very enthusiastic welcome home is being given Lieut. Howard Reid, our Nfid, aeroplane hero, along the railway line to-day. He is on the express arriving at St. John's at noon to-morrow, St. Patrick's Day. At every station bunting is displayed.
A light west wind and a most beautiful day. Eight brave lads of our Naval Reserve and some volunteers also on the train are receiving an equal share of hearty welcome from crowds assembled at the stations.
The cars and engines are decorated crowds assembled at the stations. The cars and engines are decorated and the public at large as well as the employees of the railway are one in extending to our first aero hero the honor so rightly his and so manfully won. Newfoundlanders will always proudly claim him as their premier fiyer, and hope that he may long live to represent us in the air as others represent us on land and sea. D. F. MEANEY.

Naval Heroes Returning.

The following Royal Naval Reservists are pasengers on the incoming W. J. Davis, Albert Cran, W. Smith, Mallow, C. J. White, S. Ford, C. Som-erton, O. Stanley, M. Clark. On reaching the city the boys in blue will be given a right royal reception and the day being a holiday it is expected that day being a holiday it is expected that thousands of citizens will turn out to show their appreciation of the brave lads that stand between us and the barabaric Huns. Included in the list of returning heroes is Reservist Chas. Somerton, third son of Mr. Richard Somerton, of Portugal Cove, who enlisted at the very beginning of the war. During his two and a half years service he has had some trying experivice he has had some trying experiences, but in all cases luck was with him. He was for some time attached to the Lucania but received a transfer to another port a few hours before the ship sailed on her fatal voyage. He was also on two other ships that glided down to Davey Jones' locker shortly after he was transferred from the cetter ships. Private W. J. snortly after he was transferred from them to other ships. Private W. J. Somerton, a badly wounded Gallipoli and France veteran now at home, and Private Peter Somerton, now in hos-pital in England suffering from shell shock, are brothers of Charlie.

Prahibition Case Dismissed.

Henry Snow, a steward of the s.s. Florizel, was before Judge Penney in the Magistrate's Court to-day, charged with bringing liquor ashore and consuming it in the city. The charge was based on Sergeant Furlong and Constables Day and Vail finding the defendant drunk on the street late on the night of Jan. 27th last. He was taken into custody, owing to his help-less condition, and in reply to a question from Sergt. Furlong stated that he brought the liquor from the steamer. It was shown to-day to the satisfaction of His Honor that the man was so insensible and incapable at that time that he was not responsible for making the statement. The evithat time that he was not responsible for making the statement. The evidence was also submitted that the defendant got the liquor and drank it at the home of his brother in the city. The case was dismissed. Messrs Hunt and Dunfield appeared for the prosecution and Mr. Higgins for the defendant.
