(Special to the ADVERTISER.)
WINNIEG, Man. 17.—The agitation among the conductors and brakemen on the Western division of the Canadian Pacific Railway culminated in a strike last night at 12 o'clock. At that hour nearly all the conductors and brakemen who had not already been dismissed, and most of the switchmen and yardmen employed on that division, quit work. It is understood that this action was taken against the vigorous protest of a large majority of the men themselves, and in response to the command of the representatives of the Brotherhoods in the United States who have been here for the past few days. According to [Special to the ADVERTISER.] hoods in the United States who have been here for the past few days. According to the statement published by the company during the busy months last year freight conductors appear to have earned from $90 to $180 per month each, and freight brakemen from $60 to $130 each, while during the two or three dullest months of the year, freight conductors earned from $65 to $105 a month and freight brakemen from $55 to $85. To the uninitiated it would seem that the company should find little difficulty in obtaining all the men they require at these wages. The passenger trains are all running, but no doubt the strike will impede freight traffic for a few days.

In response to inquiries at the head offices, Mr. Shaughnessy, Rocky Mountains had gone out at 12 last night. In response to inquiries at the head offices, Mr. Shaughnessy, vice-president, stated that by far the greater number of conductors and trainmen out had been dismissed during the first of the week in accordance with the decision arrived at by the management when the lockout was first threatened. Most of the remaining men, he said, had quit work last night. Mr. Shaughnessy said the passenger trains so far had not been delayed. He does not anticipate an extension of the strike to the eastern division.

THE HESLOP MURDER.

Goosey's Sister Creates a Sensation-Detective Greer Examined—Close of the Evidence for the Crown

HAMILTON, Ont., March 17.—The Heslop trial was resumed at 9:30 this morning. Thomas Young and Francis Marshall were called for the Crown, but were absent. Hugh McKinnon, chief of police, gave his evidence.

The chief accompanied Detective Green The chief accompanied Detective Greer when Goosey was taken to jail and placed in the corridor, where Lottridge was. Lottridge asked Goosey: "When did they bring you down?" "They brought me down this afternoon. They are going to give us —— in the morning." "They cannot do anything," Lottridge replied. Goosey answered: "Tom Young and his wife are here, and George Douglas has told them all about it." Lottridge said: "They cannot tell anything. Keep quiet now; somebody might hear us." This conversation occurred on Dec. 13, the night before the trial in the Police Court.

Thomas Young was again called. He wild heave Sattram for 20 or 30 years.

said he knew Bartram for 20 or 30 years. About two months after the Heslop murder he told Bartram the deed was blamed on him, Goosey and daughters. Young told the story at the time to Bartram, as Douglas told it to him a few weeks after the murder. Bartram said he had not done it, and told witness to bet money on it.

An Indian woman named Lucy Sero, a sister of Goosey's, was called. She said that Goosey was at her house before the murder, and she told Mr. Heyd that on the evening of the day of the murder he told her of the crime and said he knew the name of the man who did it, but did not call his name. Her evidence created a sensation. A large number of Crown witnesses were A large number of Crown witnesses were examined and cross examined.

At the afternoon session Detective Greer was called and described his examination was called and described his examination of the tracks around Heslop's house and state of the premises. He brought Lottridge from Brantford to Hamilton. Lottridge, said the witness, remarked that it was hard to go to jail; the charge against him was a trumped-up one, and he did not know Douglas. Witness also took Goosey to jail here. I heard the conversation between Lottridge and Goosey, said witness, in which Goosey said to Lottridge "We are going to catch — in the morning. in which Goosey said to Lottridge "We are going to catch — in the morning. They know all about it." Tom Young's wife is here, and George has told them all about it." Lottridge said, "They can't prove anything; don't talk any more." The principal portion of Greer's evidence was a repetition of that given by previous witnesses, and cross-examination elicited nothing new.

Mr. Nesbitt then addressed the court. He said there was no evidence to show that Lottridge was guilty of murder. The evidence shows there were four men drove to Heslop's house; two men entered the house; old man Heslop attacked the men vigorously and furiously with a chair; and in the heat of the moment Bartram shot

Mr. Crerar asked that the time for cross-examination of the last witness be extended till to-morrow morning. Court adjourned till 19:30 a.m.

Before the court closed Mr. Nesbitt complained of the unfairness of the reports of evidence published by the newspapers. He said they were decidedly untrue and unjust to the prisoners, and as the jury could read them at night this might create an unfavorable impression on the jury against the prisoners. He said newspapers also commented on the trial in an unfair manner, and asked that the judge hear him in the morning, when he would make a motion that newspaper men be excluded from court.

Judge Rose said if the facts were as set forth by Mr. Nesbitt he would hear in the morning and if such tactics were continued after this he would exclude reporters from the court room.

The Crown counsel were not very well pleased with the evidence given by Nellis Douglas, in which he said his uncle, Geo. Douglas, one of the four men said to have committed the murler, was in Lewiston.

After a long discussion the Private Bills Committee adopted the preamble and principle of the bill to incorporate Col. Alexander and others as the Toronto and Ashbridge Bay Improvement Company. It was agreed that the subscribed capital should be $500,000, instead of $100,000, as proposed, and the paid up capital $100,000, instead of $10,000, as proposed. Very little further progress was made and the bill was postponed until Tuesday next.
