A GRAVE SITUATION

French Troops in Morocco On Defensive and Awalt Reinforcements. [Canadian Press.]

Paris, Aug. 19.—Considerable anxiety is evident in military circles here over the situation in Morocco, where the French troops for the moment are practically solidly on the defensive, pending the arrival of reinforcements which are leaving Toulon and Marseilles daily.

The abandonment of Marakesh on Aug. 16 by General Llautey, the French resident governor of Morocco, indicates that serious complications were hampering the French operations. This was followed quickly by news that the pretender, El Hiba, is approaching the abandoned city, which is the religious capital of the country, and that he threatened to proclaim himself sultan there. El Hiba, who is the son of a sorcerer, has been joined by several chiefs with big followings, who always have managed, when defeated by French columns, to escape to the neighboring Spanish zone, where they have had no difficulty in marshaling fresh forces with the connivance, the French say, of the Spaniards.

The latest news from Morocco is disquicting and indicates fears of a general rising in the south. The tribes in the Spanish zone refuse to reogaze the new cultan Mulai Yousson, who succeeded quieting and indicates tears of a general rising in the south. The tribes in the Spanish zone refuse to recogaze the new sultan, Mulai Yousson, who succeeded to the throne on the abdication, Aug. 12, of his brother, Mulai Hafid, and this action on the part of the Moors in that territory also is attributed here to Spanish influence.
