Deliberately to fling away that chance on points of pride would seem to me a wickedness at which angels might weep because of the human folly of it. Irish carrier federation of free peoples as within the British Empire, to an international code of justice and it is the conviction of all leading minds today, based not on theory but on plain and terrible facts, that if Europe does not abandon the old evil of national vendettas and link up along closer lines in similar federations, Europe will be utterly ruined.

Deliberately to fling away that chance on points of pride would seem to me a wickedness at which angels might weep because of the human folly of it. Irish candillors belong to a faith which preaches a higher law than liberty, which is charity and love. For Christ's which gives liberty to Ireland, and if she will only be loyal to the common wealth of peoples from whom she cannot separate without the betrayal of natural ties and the noblest ideals which now inspire the hope of the world.

imilar federations, Europe will be ut-erly ruined.

That is the large aspect of Ireland's laim for separation and isolation, and the one that will go with separation. But there are other aspects more im-nediate and visible to ordinary Eng-

Ireland maintains her right to absolute separation as a nation foreign to England in blood, in speech and in history. But few Englishmen can admit that, because so many of them would be repudiating their women, wives and mothers would be denying their own blood.

Fought Side By Side.

Irish blood has mixed for centuries with English blood. There are thousinds of British families, the noblest nds of British families, the noblest mong them, who have good drops of it com some Irish rose who caught an inglish heart. All through history for log years the Irish have fought side by English heart. All through tisde by side as well as against Englishmen, and on the battlefields of Europe in recent years, where I saw them with unforgetful eyes, Irish youth lay dead with English youth, and there was no enmity between them before they died, but a great comradeship.

Irish names, heroic names, are emblazoned with British names on scrolls of honor throughout the Empire which they made together. Now in England and throughout the Empire, Irishmen hold high office, administer British laws and work in fellow service wherever the rule of the British race reaches.

Irish peasants, and by municipal to Irish peasants, and by matterpargeternment.

It is not enough yet, and in recent years there have been new memories to rankle in Irish hearts, the folly of British officials, their narrow tolerance, and then worst of all arrests, hangings, shootings, raids, reprisals and terror.

I sickened over all that agony like many Englishmen who thought and still think that the tragic episodes smirched our good name, because two blacks do not make white.

But the Irish must be fair to those who face them, must acknowledge in their hearts that many things were who face them, must acknowledge in their hearts that many things were done by Sinn Feiners which were cruel and abominable according to the laws of God and man, and that their acts of war could not be ignored by the Brit'sh Government without abject surrender and cowardice not to be expected of British people.

But all that black nightmare has been lifted by the truce which gives us all a chance for looking forward to light instead of back to darkness. The offer made by Premier Lloyd George, not only formally, but in his speeches and letters is a great act of statesmanship, which expresses the spirit of the whole English people, and fulfills the hope of all lovers of liberty throughout the world.

land tried to do so and land the truce.

All that was done in military repression and reprisals was limited by the refusal to let the militarists have full command of military resources and conduct the war as war. It was a secret, half-hearted, furtive attempt to deal with terror by counter-terror and not to wage open war against declared enemies.

enemies.

The English public opinion would not be persuaded then or now to declare real war against a sister nation, and two-thirds of what was done in Ireland was done without English knowledge.

Ireland was done without English knowledge.

I write these things with one object in view only which is to call to the renerosity of the Irish race throughout the world, so that they may strengthen the hands of the peacemakers, to appeal to them for great-heartedness bigger than the little nigellings of chop logic debate, and to yield just a little to English pride and sentiment, as they are yielding to theirs.

Between the Irish race and the British race there is a chance for lasting brotherhoods made close and dear because of old tragadies blotted out by forgiva-

Jack O Leather SUITS for BOYS Guaranteed Leatherized

EATHER—soft, pliable, light-weight, Lreal leather—at seat, knees, elbows and all pockets!

That's what makes Jack O'Leather Suits tough and strong at the very places ordinary suits "go through" first.

Careful tests have proved that most of the wear comes on the inside, so that's where the leather is. On the inside, where it catches the hard wear but doesn't show.

Jack O'Leather Suits are splendidly tailored, and have a manly look and feel that just naturally make a boy throw out his chest.

We guarantee Jack O'Leather Suits to give perfect satisfaction. They cost no more than an ordinary suit.
