PROVINCIAL BANK CAPITAL INCREASE

One New Share At $120 Will Be Given for Each Share of Old Stock Held.

The directors of La Banque Provinciale du Canada, as it is known, to provide funds for the accommodation of its customers and the increased business being offered, have decided to increase paid-up capital of the Bank by $1,000,000.

The present paid-up capital is $2,000,000, so that the new stock will be issued to shareholders in the ratio of one new share to each two old shares. This will bring the paid-up capital of the Bank to $3,000,000.

The new stock will be offered at $120 per share to shareholders of record May 31st.

This increase follows upon a similar increase, amounting to $1,000,000, announced about a year ago, which new issue was about 70% over subscribed.

In addition to the new issue, an increase in the dividend rate to 9% from 8% has practically been decided upon beginning with the next fiscal year, from July 1st.

The assets of the Bank now amount to approximately $40,000,000 and a large increase in deposits has taken place during the past year.

MISTOOK SKUNK FOR CAT, WITH PAINFUL RESULTS

A large skunk stirred up residents of Appleton street, South End, this morning. Where he came from no one knows, but it is thought he jumped from a wagon carrying garden truck into Boston.

The index finger on one hand of a new policeman, Frank G. Bird of Station 5, was badly bitten by the animal. He was treated at the City Hospital, and his almost new uniform is now on the roof of Station 5, laying on the snow, to be buried in the earth later, for Bird was viciously attacked by the skunk.

Policeman Bird was patrolling his route along Appleton street when he saw what he thought was a playful cat on the opposite side. So "playful" was the animal that he came across to the officer.

Policeman Bird said "Hello Pussy," and then stopped down to brush its back, as there was some muddy snow on the animal. The skunk turned on Bird and stuck its teeth into one of the policeman's fingers, drawing blood, and immediately there was a sickening odor.

Then the officer realized that he had mistaken a skunk for a cat. In less than two minutes, windows which had been left open to allow the entrance of fresh air were being closed, while several persons put their heads out of windows, but could not see anything.

The policeman had left for the station house and the last he saw of the animal it was headed toward Roxbury in the middle of the street. Coming to the nearest patrol box, Policeman Bird notified Lieutenant Harry P. Burns of the attack and was called to the station house.

No sooner did Bird open the door than Lieutenant Burns got the odor. The disinfectant tank was used with fairly good results. Bird was ordered to the roof of the station house, where he disrobed, later took a bath and got back into his civilian clothes.

THE REAL PLACE OF MUSIC IN EDUCATION

What is the real place of music in education? If it is to be more than a mere diversion, or an elegant accomplishment, its place in education can at best be only a very subordinate one. But if we take the view that art is the expression of what we may call the inner nature, that nature which as aspirations and ideals reaches out to something beyond the material needs of this world, we must claim for our art of music a very high position in the schemes of education. For true education means the drawing out of all that is good in the child, the cultivation of all parts of his nature. And if we confine our work to one side of nature only, and not to the whole, we run the risk of starving what may after all be the most important part. For it is the feeling side of our nature that in the main supplies the motive power for action.

We often use our reason to provide arguments for what we wish, while we try to persuade ourselves that we are moved solely by unprejudiced reason. And it is the feeling side of our nature that causes all our noblest, most self-sacrificing deeds. Pure reason could never dictate an act of self-abnegation.

If music is, as we believe it to be, the art which more than any other gives expression to the feelings side of our nature, it follows that it is of the highest importance to use it as a means of education. Great works of music must be ennobling to those who can assimilate their meaning. And the study of music when properly conducted, gives the student the power to enter into and appreciate the meaning of what the great composers have written. But this power of appreciation can only be gained by the development of the natural instinct. As a musician has said in dealing with the question of style in musical art: "It is not attained by science nor by scientific methods but by the development of a favourable artistic instinct."
